Before explaining the Mars 360 system, credibility should be established. This is done by calling fire down from heaven. There is a pattern in which the time frame of Mars's position within 30 degrees of the lunar node correlates with the highest concentration of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel in relation to the rest of the year. This has been demonstrated historically and in real time. The data is integral to inducing the faith needed to foster a religious, social, and economic system. After reading the data and demonstration, the reader should be able to contemplate the existence of another prominent force in the world and how such a force can be used to aid mankind. Following the demonstration, instructions on how to make use of this Mars force is laid out. Here are the charts of all the rocket attacks against Israel since 2007. Notice the times when there has been a spike in rocket fire relative to the year it happened. These statistics are taken from wikipedia https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Palestinian_rocket_attacks_on_Israel.

Note: in 2019, the heaviest rocket fire from Gaza took place in May. 600 rockets were fired from Gaza on Israel

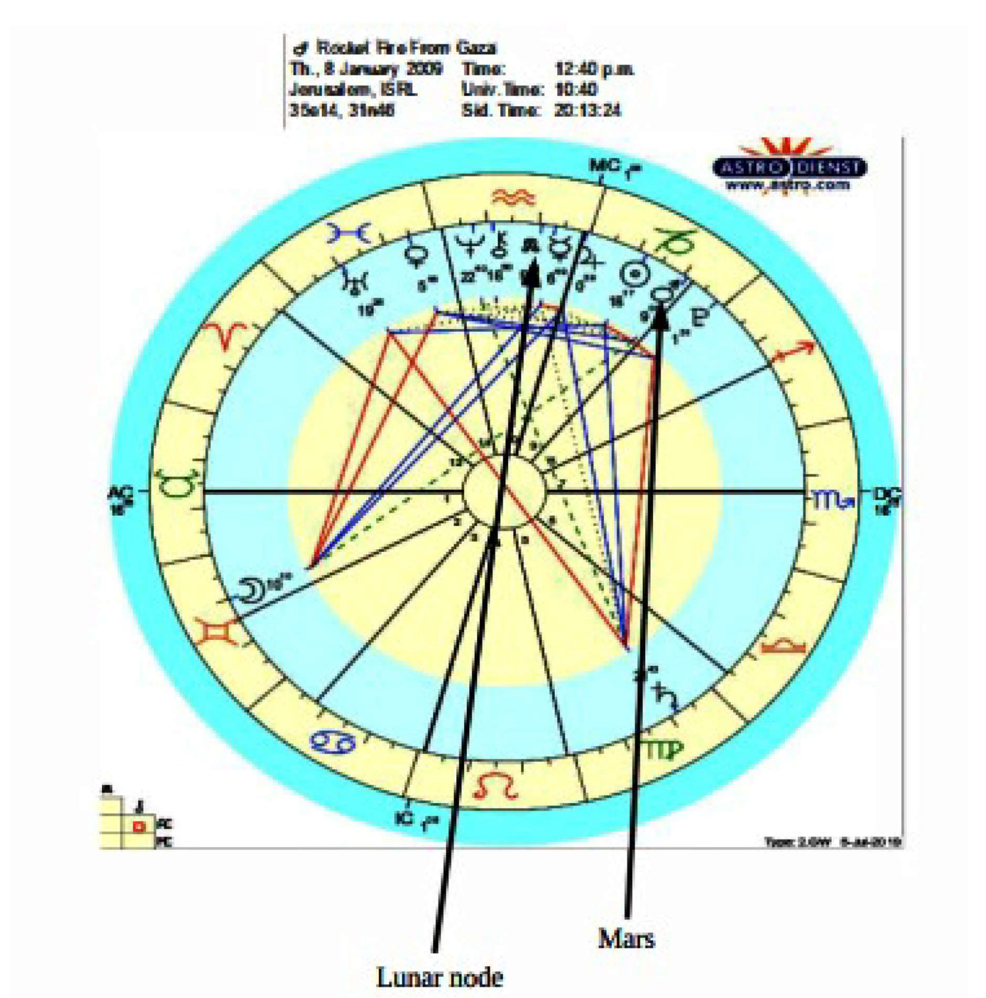

If we observe the number of rocket attacks from Gaza starting back around 2007 in "Figure H", you'll notice an asterisk next to some of the numbers. This indicates the month where the largest barrage of rocket attacks from Gaza were concentrated that year. We will reference "Figure H" when we pull up the astrocharts to see how the location of Mars correlates. In my research of how the position of the Planet Mars correlates to rocket attacks from Gaza, I found that Mars's location near the lunar node on both sides of the chart shows up around the time of escalating rocket fire. Here is what I mean:

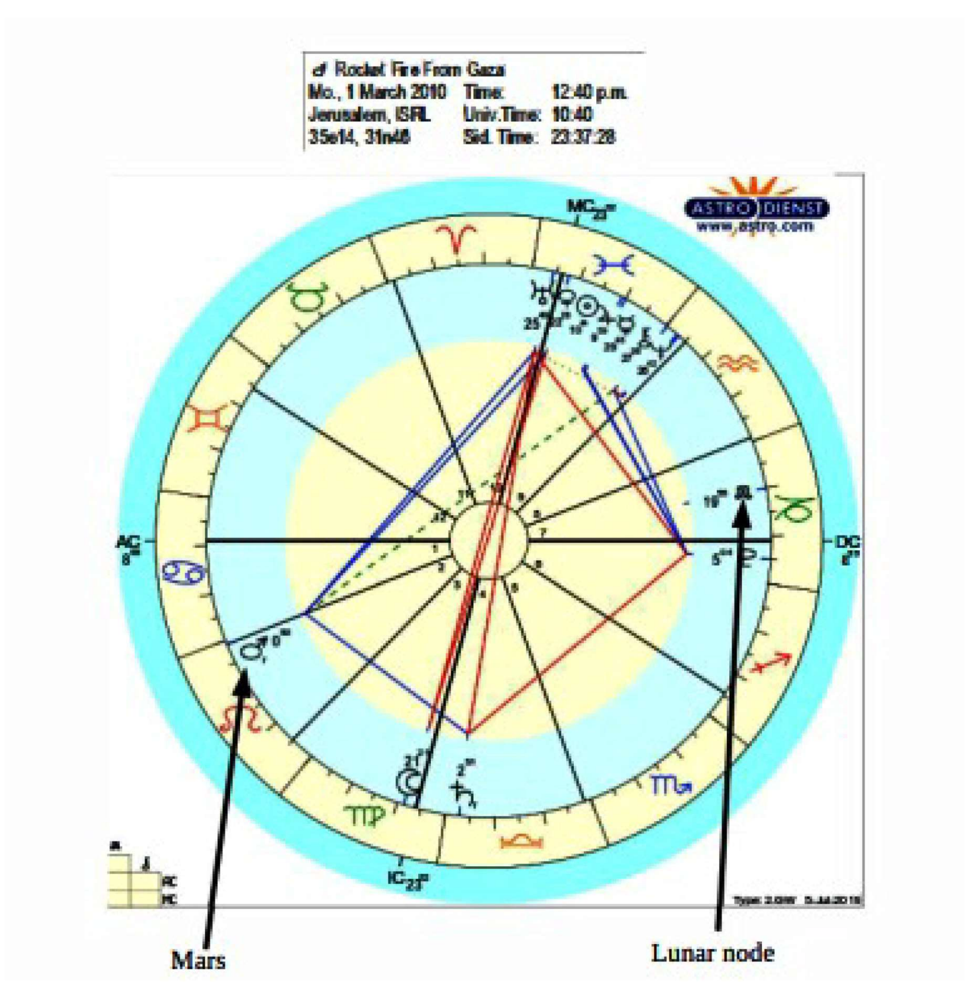

Mars is falling somewhere within a 30 degree vicinity of the lunar nodes on either side of the astrochart during the time to rocket fire escalation from Gaza. If we go back to "Figure H" and look at the rocket attacks for 2007, we can see that most of the rocket fire for that year took place in May. There were 257 rockets fired from Gaza during that month. If we look at the astrochart for May 2007, we can see that Mars is close to the lunar node. See the next page.

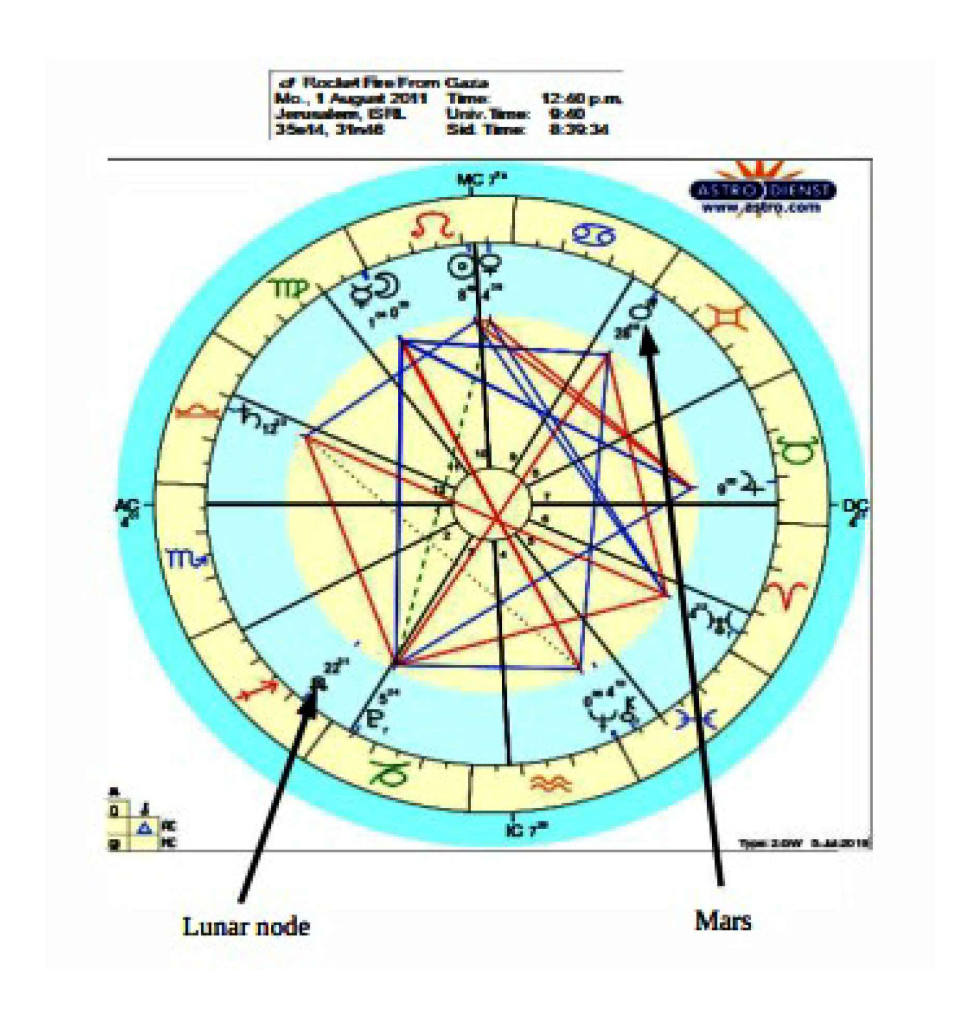

We can see Mars within close range of the lunar node in this Chart calculated for May 2007. If we go back to "Figure H" and look at late 2008/early 2009 when the Gaza War(also knows as Operation Cast Lead) took place, we'll find that once again Mars is in the vicinity of the lunar node. It gets to within 30 degrees of it in early January. See the next page.

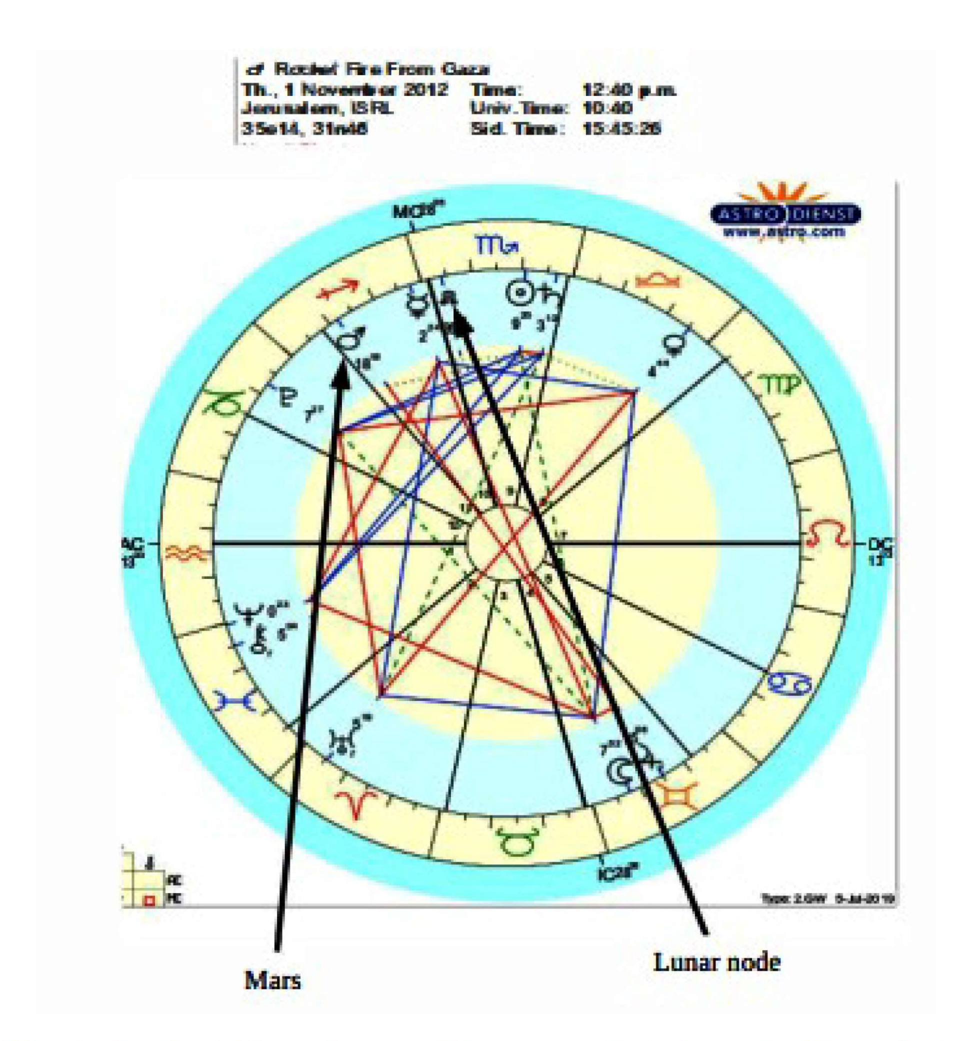

Here, on January 8th, 2009, Mars gets within 30 degrees of the lunar node. We can see in Figure H that the rocket fire doesn't really settle down until March 2009. Between January 8th and January 17th, Gaza militants fired over 100 rockets into Israel. Mars finished within 30 degrees of the lunar node on March 24, 2009. This would align with Mars producing an effect while being near the lunar node during that timeframe. If we go back to Figure H and look at the year 2010, we notice that the highest concentration of rocket fire took place during the month of March. During that time, 35 rocket attacks took place. On the next page is the astrochart for March 2010.

Once again, same thing, but this time Mars in on the opposite side of the lunar node, but within 30 degrees. This still aligns with Mars on either side(near conjunction or near opposition) of the lunar node being a factor in rocket attacks from Gaza. If we go back to Figure H and look at the year 2011, we find that most of the rocket attacks that year took place in August. There were 145 rockets fired from Gaza into Israel territory. Lets look at the astrochart for August of 2011 and see if Mars falls within 30 degrees of the lunar node.

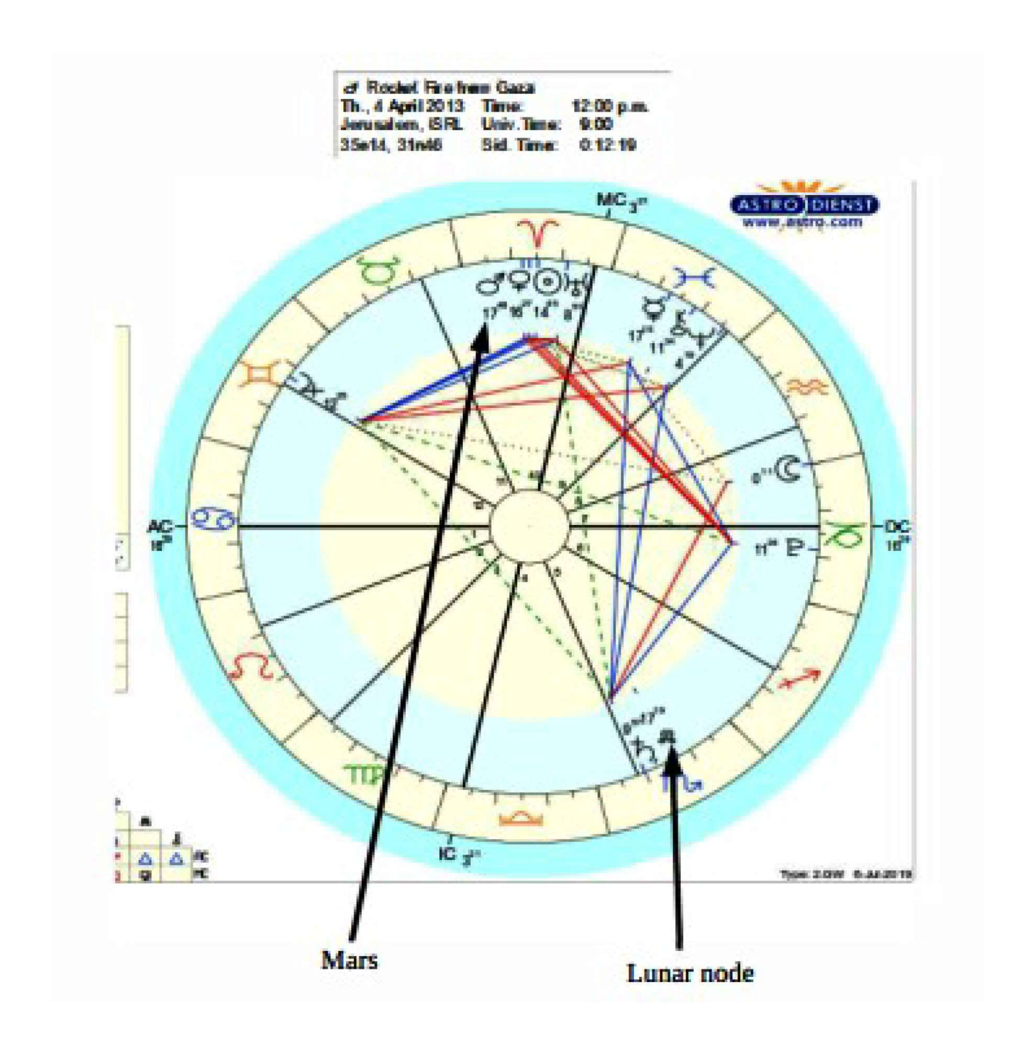

Once again Mars falls within 30 degrees of the lunar node during a month where the highest level of rocket fire for the year was concentrated. If we go back to Figure H and look at the next year, which would be 2012, we find that the highest level of rocket fire took place in the month of November, in which there was 1734 rockets fired from Gaza into Israel. That's a significant spike in rocket fire. If we pull up the astrochart for November of 2012(see next page), we can see Mars is once again within a 30 degree vicinity of the lunar node.

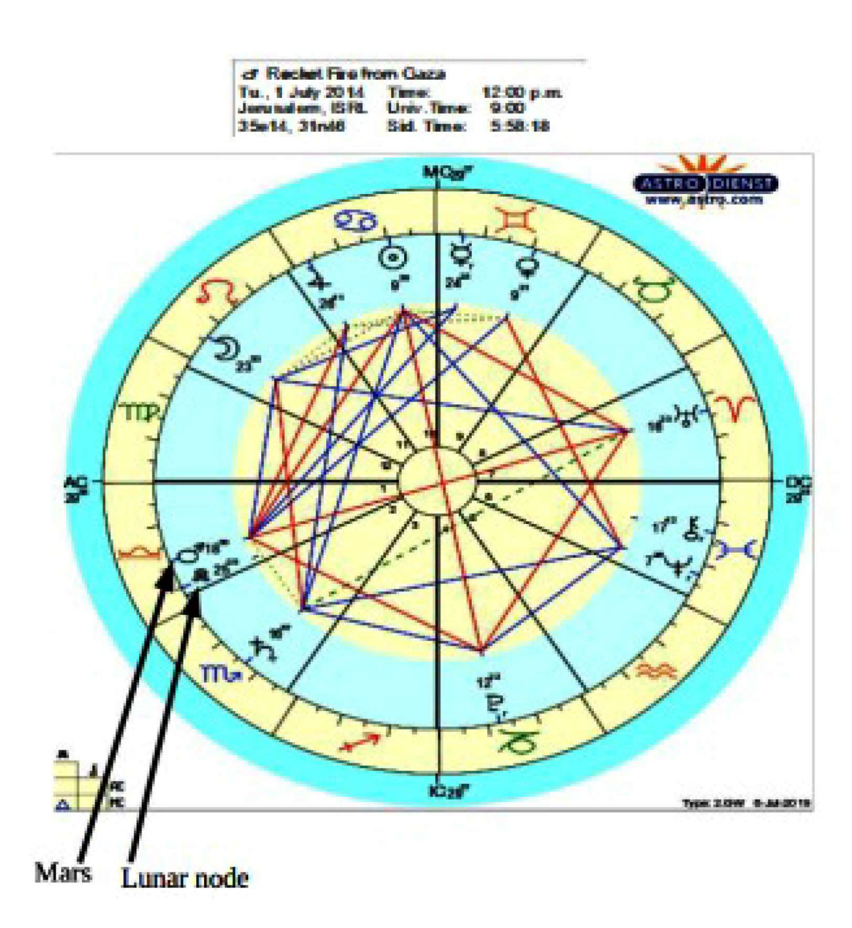

Mars is clearly within 30 degrees of the lunar node during a significant rise in rocket attacks against Israel in November of 2012. If we go back to Figure H and look at 2013, we find that the highest concentration of rocket fire from Gaza that year took place in April, which is also the month that the Boston Marathon Bombing took place in the US. In April, there were 17 rockets fired from Gaza.

Once again Mars makes it to within 30 degrees of the lunar node, on the exact opposite side. As stated before the both sides of the chart are the same. Now in going back to Figure H, we can have a look at 2014 and see which month had the highest concentration of rocket fire that year.

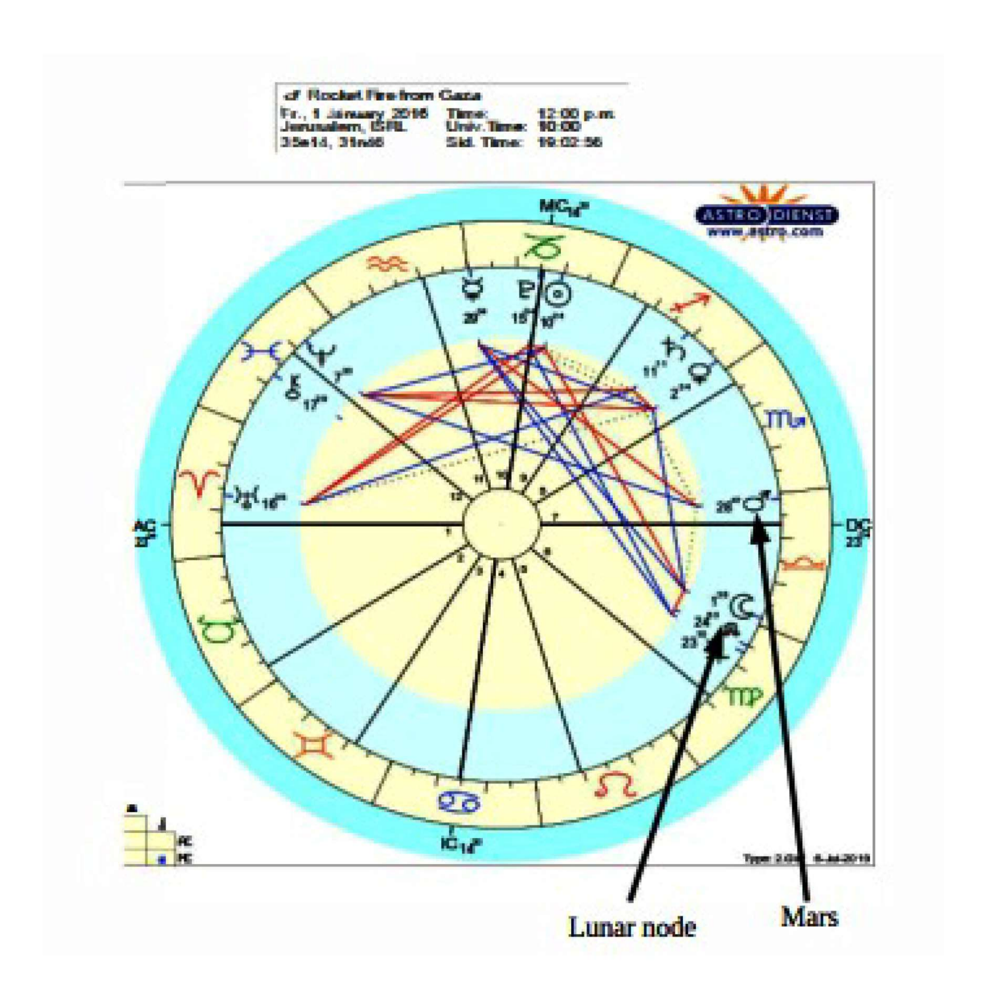

We can see in 2014, the month of July had an extreme spike in rocket fire with 2874 rockets being fired from Gaza into Israel. Here is the chart for July 2014 on the next page:

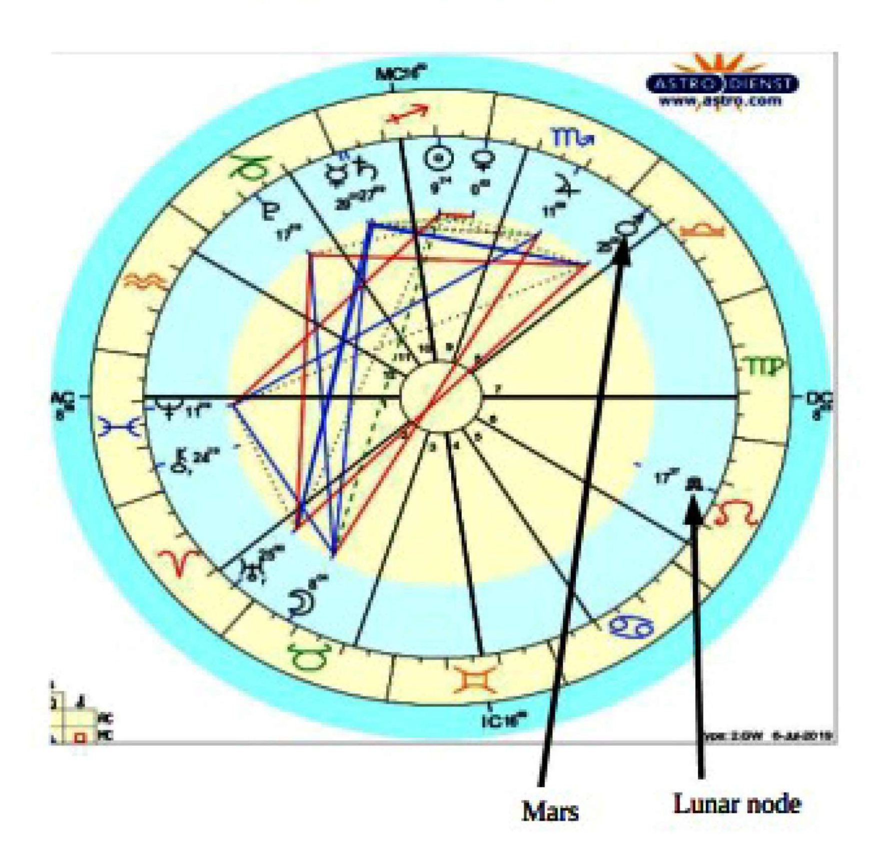

Once again, Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node, this time on the same side. Lets go back to Figure H and look at 2015 to see which month had the highest concentration of rocket fire from Gaza. 2015 doesn't seem to have much activity in terms of rocket attacks from Gaza. However, if we go ahead and observe anyway, we find that October turns out to be the month where the highest level of rocket attacks took place for 2015. Here is the chart for October 2015:

There it is again. Mars in within 30 degrees of the lunar node during a month of rocket fire escalation from Gaza. If we go back to Figure H to see which month had the highest concentration of rocket fire from Gaza in 2016, we find January to be the month where most of the activity took place. See the chart on the next page

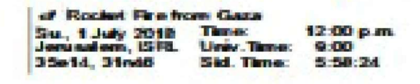

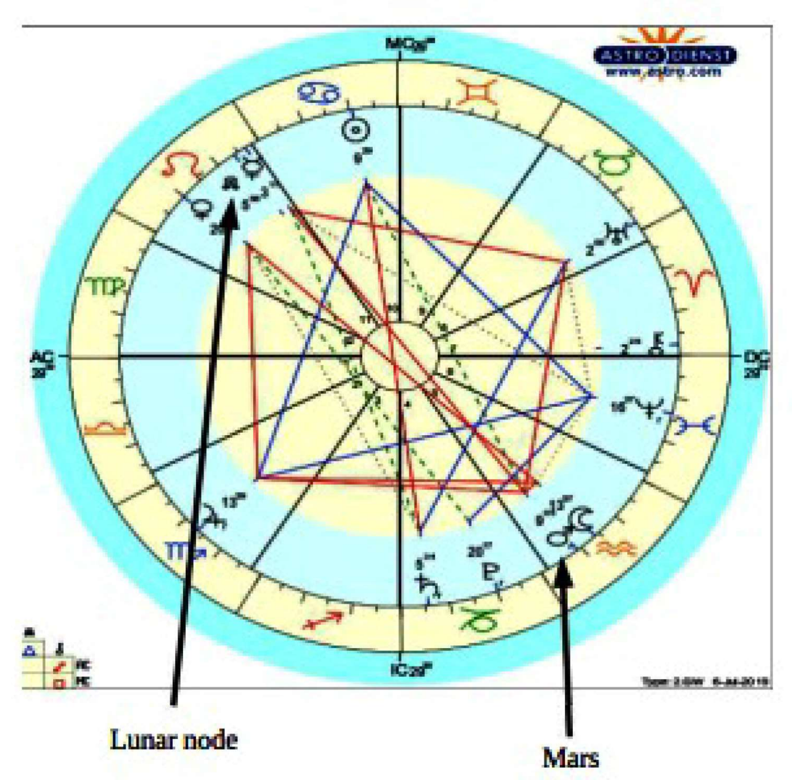

In January of 2016, Mars is just leaving from within 30 degrees of the lunar node. 2016, however, did not bear much significance in terms of violent conflict. In Figure H, the concentration of rocket fire in 2017 took place in December. 28 rocket were fired from Gaza during that month. See the chart on the next page.

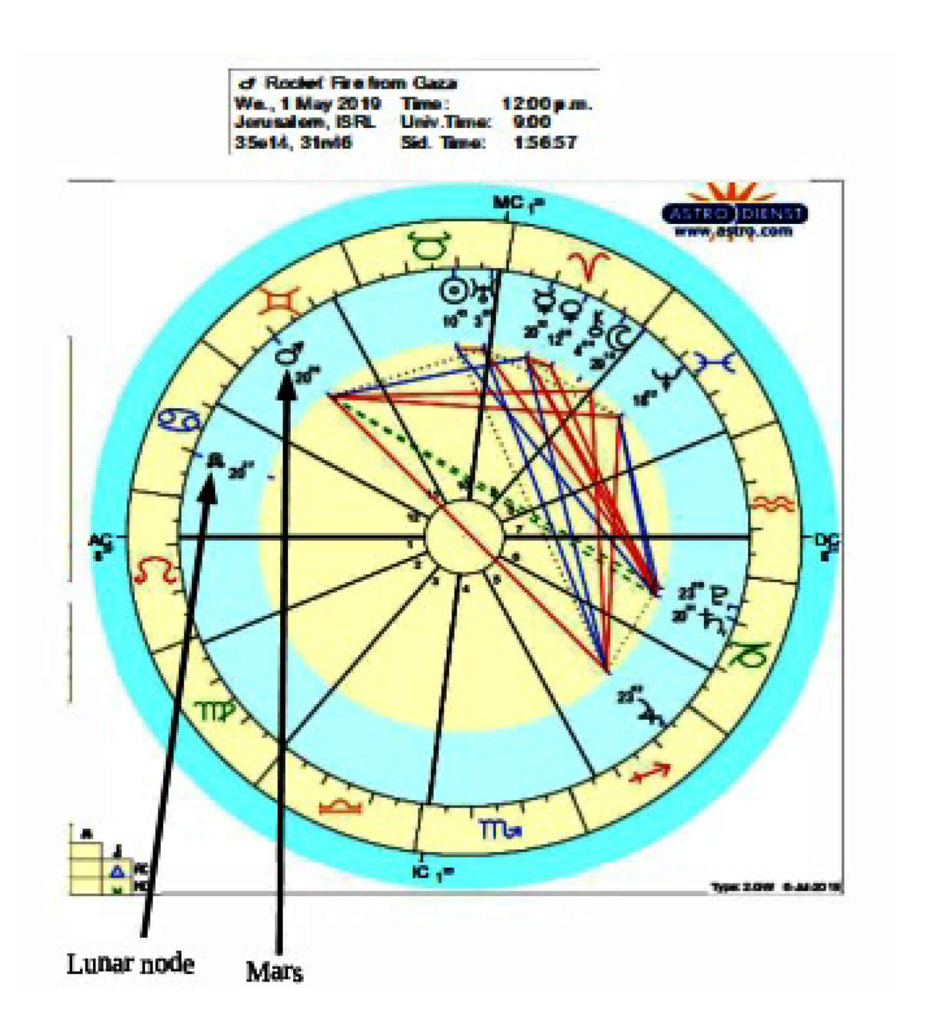

Mars is well out of range of being with 30 degrees of the lunar node, so one cannot say that the escalation in December of 2017 was related Mars. Mars would have last been within 30 degrees of the lunar node back in August of 2017, but there was only 1 rocket attack that month.

Lets go back to Figure H and have a look at 2018. We find that the month that had the greatest amount of rocket fire from Gaza that year was July. There were 174 rockets fired into Israel from Gaza during that time. See the astro chart on the next page.

In this one, Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node, on the opposite side. So once again, that position of Mars has showed up during a month of escalation. In going back to Figure H for 2019, we see that May is the month with the highest concentration of Rocket Fire that year. There were 600 rockets fired from Gaza into Israel. Let see if the astro chart on the next page continues to show a correlation between Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node and escalating rocket fire from Gaza.

Once again, Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node during a month of escalating rocket fire. May 4, 2019 was the day that the rocket attacks were launched from Gaza. In this chart of May 1, we see Mars just entering within that 30 degrees from the lunar node.

One can say, after reviewing this, that there is a statistical significance regarding the correlation between escalating hostility from Gaza toward Israel and Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node.

Here are the remaining dates thru the year 2027 when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node. Here you can review the past dates of Mars within 30 degrees of the lunar node and compare them to actual rocket fire statistics firsthand.

For three consecutive years, following the info that I laid out on Gaza rocket fire, I further affirmed the thesis by predicting in real time the time-frame that an increased number of Gaza rockets would be fired into Israel relative to the rest of the year, all by observing the position of the planet Mars. Gaza militants are influenced by this planet, the ancient god of war. The same god of war that backed the Romans when they sacked the temple in AD 70.

Those future dates of Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node were set back in 2019 in Ares Le Mandat. Here is the earliest source. Go to the end of chapter 24 to see the list of dates for expected increased rocket fire relative to the rest of the year

https://archive.org/download/areslemandat_20191110

Not only did I show how historical data of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel going back to 2007 aligned with Mars and the lunar node, I also demonstrated this pattern in real time in 2020, 2021, and 2022 by making YouTube videos predicting escalated Gaza rocket fire relative to the rest of the year. Here is proof.

Here is the first demonstration of the thesis that says that the time-frame of when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node is the time when rocket fire from Gaza into Israel will be highest compared to the rest of the year. This was the case in 2020, when I predicted that rocket fire between January 15, 2020 and April 3rd 2020 would exceed rocket fire during other months in 2020. This is confirmed. Gaza militants fired 104 rockets in February of 2020(highest relative to rest of the year) This video was made on November 18 2019(see transcript below)
https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=e5GxO4ZW2fc

Here is the transcript of the video

Hi this is Anthony. I want to do a follow up video. In the last video, I describe the lawless one as Mars 360 and i explained how I came to that conclusion. I used the English Sumerian gematria. So using that system, I was able to take the word Mars and add up the numerical value of each letter and get the number 306. I simply added 360 to 306 and that’s how i got 666. So that’s how I was able to link Mars 360 with 666. Mars 360 is the revolution of Mars around the sun and its influence on humanity. The difference between the way I describe it and the way contemporary astrology describes Mars has to do with energy. In contemporary astrology, the location of Mars at the time a person was born and what describes that location is the area of life where the person would infuse alot of energy and effort towards. The way I describe Mars, which is sort of opposite the way contemporary astrology describes it, has to do with the fact that Mars is actually the opposite. Mars is pulling energy away from the location of where it was at the time you were born and the description of that location or the area of life that describes that location. But for this video, i don't want to get into how Mars affects each human at the individual level. I want to talk about how Mars influences events and in chapter 24[of Ares le Mandat], you will notice I have information regarding the Israel/Palestinian issue in the middle east. In my research of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel, I noticed when looking at the statistics-in terms of month to month- the level of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel seems to correlate with the position of the planet Mars in relation to the lunar node. I noticed that the month where rocket fire from Gaza was highest compared to the rest of the year, that's the month where Mars was within 30 degrees of the lunar node and the statistics in chapter 24 go back to 2007 and the correlation is pretty significant. I think there might have been one year that finding didn't apply, but overall the results seem pretty significant and I want to use this video to extrapolate from that information when rocket fire may escalate again in Israel and rocket fire from Gaza towards Israel. So if we take the data from chapter 24[of Ares le Mandat and apply it to the future, Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node January 15 2020 all the way until April 3rd 2020. So during that time-frame, we can expect serious escalation of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel and the concentration of rocket fire during that time will exceed the amount of rocket fire at any other time during that year. So I just wanted to bring attention to that chapter. Its chapter 24. Its called Military Engineering Mandate and the statistics of rocket fire was taken from the internet, mostly from Wikipedia and the information there is very, its very interesting and I think if you take a look at it, you will find it quite profound that the correlation was this significant and I think its....I don't want to say that its fitting that it would apply to whats happening in the middle east, but I have concluded that Mars 360 is not only the Christian Antichrist, its also the Islamic Antichrist. the Antichrist equivalent in Islamic eschatology is called the Dajjal and Mars 360 applies to descriptions of Antichrist in Christian theology but it also can apply to description of the Dajjal in Islamic eschatology. so that's the information I wanted to put forth for this video. Thank you. .....end

It also happened again in 2021 when on record on video, I predicted that rocket fire from Gaza into Israel between February 9, 2021 to May 13, 2021 would exceed rocket fire in the other months in 2021. Once again confirmed. Gaza militants fired 4000 rockets beginning on May 10th(highest relative to other months) This video and real time prediction was actually made on May 7th 2020 https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=v1sA-ZS73Lw&t

Here is the transcript

I want to give the remaining dates from now until the year 2027, 'when Mars will be within 30 degrees of the lunar node—and subsequently when there would be an increase in the tensions between Israel and Gaza, resulting in an escalated rocket fire from Gaza into Israel. So here are the dates from now until 2027. We just finished the previous phase in which I predicted that there would be an escalation of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel due to the influence of Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node. Mars was within 30 degrees of the lunar node between January 15th 2020 to April 3rd 2020. It will go within 30 degrees of the lunar node again on February 9th 2021 and last until May 13th 2021. After that the next phase of Mars being within 30 degrees of lunar node will be from November 4th 2021 to January 22nd 2022. After that will be June 22 2022 to September 19th 2022. Then December 26 2022 to January 24th 2023. August 24th 2023 to November 15 2023. April 12 2024 to June 25th 2024. June 5th 2025 through September 4th 2025. February 4th 2026 to April 19th 2026. lastly September 27 2026 to June 12th 2027 So after having completed this first phase in which I was able to predict by simply observing the position of Mars in relation to the node and having now having demonstrated an ability to forecast this year the escalation that took place between January 15th and April 3rd, I think it would be prudent for us to try and understand what this Mars phenomenon means in a religious sense. Now, this isn't done to draw discord between the Israelis and the Palestinians. The reason all of this is being presented is to try and present a new perspective right now. The perspective is that God or Yahweh or Allah is “everything.” So what I'm trying to do is present the perspective that it's necessary for us to not focus so much on the God of Abraham Isaac and Jacob, but... look over ..... to the look over somewhere else..... look over..." let's have a look....... let's see what Mars is doing. You know one can see historically, the correlation between the planet, Mars and the geopolitical events in Israel. One can see. how that would mean that it deserves more attention. In AD 70, when the Jewish people were driven out of Israel by the Roman army...... essentially the God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob went head to head with the god of the Roman Empire, the military god of the Roman Empire, which was Mars. And judging from the outcome, it was Mars who was successful. Now that's something that makes a case for the power of this Mars phenomenon Another example is how later on during the Roman Empire, the emperor had made Christianity an accepted religion of the Roman Empire. It was precipitated ..... it precipitated the eventual fall of the Roman Empire. In the book “City of God” Saint Augustine addresses a lot of the arguments made by some of the opponents of Christianity that the Roman Empire would still be in place had they not abandoned the old polytheistic outlook—the worship of multiple gods; the worship of Mars as a protective military force for the Roman Empire. If one wants to argue that if the Roman Empire remained with the polytheistic perspective, the perspective in which the Roman army worshiped a designated god "Mars" as the god of war, one can conclude that the Roman Empire could still be intact today. In "City of God" Saint Augustine dealt with a lot of backlash from opponents of Christianity that felt the reason that the Roman Empire fell was because they abandoned the old gods, they abandoned Mars as the protective military force of the Roman Empire. And this is a pretty strong case. It would be all the more advantageous if Christians, Jews and Muslims could spend...-. could take some of that time that they use giving attention, giving reverence to the God of Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob and bring it ....bring it over to Mars, the traditional god of war for the Roman Empire. Now, in the link below I'm going to leave some information regarding how Mars affects the US stock market. I have data going back to 1896 that shows how the Dow Jones performed when Mars was within 30 degrees of the node. Overall. it presents... Overall, it seems to indicate that the Dow Jones performs better when Mars is not within 30 degrees of the lunar node. I'll leave the link at the bottom so that you can view and study this data yourselves but for now as it stands the next time that we can expect another increase in hostilities in Israel particularly as it pertains to the amount of rocket fire from Gaza. The next time we can expect that increase is between February 9, 2021 and May 13, 2021 when Mars will be within 30 degrees of the lunar node.

Here is where I predicted well in advance on May 27, 2022 that Gaza militants would fire an increased number of rockets at Israel between June 22, 2022 and Sept 19, 2022. At the moment, it stands that Gaza militants fired 1000 rockets between August 5th and August 7th of 2022.

Here is the transcript

Hi, this is Anthony, I am making this video because I want to do another prediction concerning whats going on in Israel. You will notice if you look at my last videos, that I was able to make pretty accurate predictions concerning the timeframe of the highest amount of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel relative to the rest of the year. In one of my older videos back in 2020 during the pandemic, I was able to predict that the number of rockets from Gaza into Israel between January 15, 2020 and April 3rd 2020 would exceed the number of rockets fired at any other point during the year and that turned to be the case. I did the same the next year and...well I mean it wasn't the next year....that same year in 2020, I made another prediction for the next year and that prediction, I stated that the number of rockets fired from Gaza into Israel during the year 2021 would be highest during the timeframe between February 9th 2021 and May 13th 2021. And that certainly was accurate because that's the year the Gaza war took place when militants in Gaza over thousands of rockets into Israel starting around may 10 or may 11th just two days before the [end of the]designated timeframe of which it was predicted that the number of rockets fired during that time would exceed the amount fired for the rest of the year 2021. So thats 2 years in a row that I made accurate predictions simply by observing when Mars would be within 30 degrees of the lunar node. So now we're in 2022 and if we look at where Mars is gonna be situated in relation to the lunar node, we can see that between June 22, 2022 and September 19, 2022, Mars will be within 30 degrees of the lunar node and really the main gist of this thesis is that Mars, not just as a god of war that was worshiped during the time of the Roman empire, but as a planetary influence, it still has an effect on things happening on earth today, and in particular whats happening with Israel. Back in AD 70, the Romans basically used Mars to go into Israel and destroy the temple and today based on my thesis, Mars is still trying to exert an effect on the enemies of Israel in order to destroy the state of Israel. This influence is not going anywhere. So this year, I am going to make another prediction about....we already know the thesis I...the thesis is that when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node, militants in Gaza will fire an increased number of rockets or in engage an escalated warfare against the state of Israel during that time compared to the rest of the year. I made this clear in my other videos that this would be the case when it comes to Mars being within that 30 degrees of the lunar node. So this year, I am going to make another prediction. We are already late in 2022, but still I just want to reinforce the basic thesis here. So we can expect that the number of rockets fire this year between June 22, 2022 to September 19 2022 will exceed the amount of rockets fired by Gaza militants into Israel for the rest of the year. So, the whole point of this is to try and get Israel to become of this Mars influence and the negative impact that its had on Israel throughout history and the reason that I asked in another video for Israel to try and make an image to...to make some sort of an image to this Mars force, is largely built around the concept that we can sort of extrapolate from the Book of Numbers when Moses told the Israelites to make an image to a bronze serpent in order to keep serpents from biting and killing them as they wandered through the desert. So this request that Israel make an image is built around that same framework that if they just make an image to this Mars influence, it'll somehow be a solution to the problem of Mars influencing militants in Gaza to scale up, dial up attacks against civilians in Israel which would ultimately provoke or escalate the entire conflict to where Israel ends up going into Gaza launching airstrikes, conducting military operations that endanger and kills many civilians in Gaza. And vice versa, the militants end up firing more and more rockets directly at Israeli civilians which imperils and kills Israeli civilians. So its important that Israel try and give this whole Mars thesis a look. It may be something can lead to a non-violent solution to this on-going war in Israel. So as it stands for the year 2022, the number of rockets fired by Gaza militants and this is due to the influence of Mars the god of war the same god of war that influenced the Romans to go into Israel and destroy the temple. So we can expect because of this influence, Mars will influence the Gaza militants to dial up the number of rockets fired between June 22, 2022 and September 19 2022, relative to the rest of the year. So with the war in Ukraine happening right now and then of course, there has been some tensions in early 2022..there has been some recent tension just prior to this time frame that I am giving. So it is easy to expect that things will dial up between that time frame of June 22, 2022 and September 19, 2022 relative to the rest of the year and of course you can go back to my old videos and see that I made these predictions accurately in 2020 and 2021, so I am expecting this sort of prediction of basically predicting fire coming down from heaven will pan out accordingly in 2022. So there it is I hope the state of Israel can really look into this and see what they can do to keep this god of war, Mars, from taking every every measure to influence people against the state of Israel, Israelis because this seems to be an ongoing thing, As I said before this was the case in AD 70 and its not just the Romans. Mars as a god of war can be said to be an amalgamation of all the gods of war that ever existed. The Babylonians conquered Israel, They came in with a god of war and so did the Persians. The Greeks as well, they has Ares. And Israel stuck with the God of Abraham whom historically has not been very successful in deterring this god of war aspect from coming in and running the Jewish people out of their land and we can see that Mars is really making an effort to get the militants in gaza to at some point to eventually Israeli off their land. And, ya know, for Muslims who don't really know what to make of this sort of Mars thesis. Basically the best way to understand it. Mars is the source of what Islamic discourse would consider the jinn. Whats happening in Gaza is that when Mars goes within 30 degrees of the lunar node seems to be releasing the jinn directly into Gaza militants which is sort of compelling them to upscale their attacks on the state of Israel specifically during that time frame compared to other times during the year. Just keep in mind for this year the time between June 22, 2022 and September 19 2022 when Mars goes within 30 degrees of the lunar node, an increase in the amount of rocket fire will occur between time compared to other times or other months during the year 2022. Thank you.

Here on April 4th 2020, I advised the state of Israel should build an image to Mars/Ares in order to tame its influence. Same concept as the building of the bronze serpent on the book of Numbers https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=wwsGqQK7OV4&t

This is Anthony. This is a follow-up video to the one made back in November in which I was observing Mars and correlating it with the 666 referred to in the Book of Revelation. Back in November and an observation of Mars I was able to make a prediction and the prediction had to do with escalation events in Israel. When Mars goes within 30 degrees of the lunar node-historically-there seems to be a correlation between that and the number of rockets fired into Israel from Gaza. So in the last video, I had gave the dates in which Mars would be within 30 degrees of the lunar node. Those dates were between January 15th 2020 and April 3rd 2020. Today is April 4th. So that phase has pretty much ended and looking back, we can see that starting on January 15th--as according to the prediction--there was a rise starting on January 15th. There was an increase in the amount of rockets fired from Gaza into Israel. From January 15 to the end of the month, there were about eight rockets fired. In the month of February, there were about 104 rockets fired. In March, there was 1 and that was it. So during that time, February was the month where there was the highest amount of rockets fired from Gaza into Israel. The amount of rocket fire that takes place during the months when Mars is within 30 degrees of the lunar node will exceed the amount of rocket fire for any other month during the year. So with this recent phase from January 15th 2020 to April 3rd 2020, the total number of rockets fired was around 113... with the majority of them being fired during the month of February. So according to what I've been presenting, the amount of rocket fire that would take place for the rest of the year will not exceed the amount of rocket fire that took place during this Mars-within-30-degrees-of-the-lunar-node phase. So with February having about 104 rockets fired, we can expect that there won't be another month of this year that would exceed the number of rockets fired in February. Why? Because Mars won't be within 30 degrees of the lunar node at any other point during the year. So it won't be until the end of the year where it would be affirmed that Mars within 30 degrees of the lunar node was responsible for the escalation in Israel. But in the meantime, I think it's important that we start paying some attention to this energy, this force that seems to be responsible for a lot of tension or a lot of violence here on earth. Even though according to monotheism, there's this notion that there's just one god, but if there's all these forces here on earth affecting how we live as as human beings then we have a right to take responsibility and observe and prevent this energy or deal with this energy in a way... to where... or deal with this force in a way to where it doesn't destroy us. So with that being said, in the meantime since this recent phase has ended, the people of earth should think about getting in touch with this energy... this Mars energy that's responsible for a lot of the problems we have on this planet as far as war, as far as violence, as far as tension. What I'm asking or what I'm requesting is that if we can start the process of getting in touch with this energy in a way that even though we know it's going to be here, we can somehow figure out a way to keep it from destroying us. I'm proposing that we we follow the same model that Moses used in the book of Numbers when he led the Israelites out of Egypt and when they were wandering in the wilderness for 40 years, they had reached a point where they were being attacked by these fiery serpents. These fiery serpents would attack them, bite them, and kill them...and the Israelites asked Moses to intercede on their behalf and ask God for a solution to this problem --to make it stop. And as

Moses did do just that, he interceded. He came back to the Israelites with the solution, and he told them.... he ordered them to make an image.... to create an image of a bronze serpent and the next time all these fiery serpents would end up biting them, they could just stare at the image--not worship it--but they could just stare at the image, and if they did that, they would be immediately healed. Well I'm trying to follow.. or what I'm proposing is pretty much the same model. That if we make an image.... somehow form an image to this Mars force that seems to be affecting us here on earth, that it will somehow mitigate the problems associated with its influence. So when we look at not just Mars, but all the gods of war...Ares notably.... Ares was a god who was wounded and healed. He was wounded in battle and he was later healed and because of that, I think it would be appropriate to start coming up with some sort of plan to make an image... build an image to Ares... a representation of Ares to the Greek god of war who was wounded and was healed. Ares and Mars is essentially..... they're essentially the same thing. Ares is the Greek version of the god of war and Mars is the roman version. So we're looking at both. We're observing both as the same. We're observing the planet Mars and in terms of making an image or building a tribute, we use Ares, the Greek version of Mars. So I think it would be a good plan to start coming up with some sort of way we can follow that same model that Moses and the Israelites followed when (they were being attacked by the fiery serpents and solving that problem by actually building an image to the serpent.... building a bronze serpent and then just staring at it as they were bitten and as they stared at it they wouldn't they were somehow healed).... so this...sort of.... this follows along that same line. We are going along that same... or.... following that same path where we are affected by war... war is affecting us.... so in order to keep it from affecting us in a negative way, we're presenting something.... an image of it here on earth, and we're simply staring at it as a way or as a plan to keep this force from breaking us-destroying us. Now if there isn't any human intervention as far as this Mars phenomenon goes, then I should give the upcoming dates for when Mars would be within 30 degrees of the lunar node: February 9th 2021 to May 13 2021, November 4th 2021 to January 22nd 2022, June 22nd 2022 to September 19th 2022......end

Here is the video made on August 8th 2022 where I introduce the Armaaruss as the image that should be built under the same concept as the bronze serpent mentioned in the Book of Numbers. In the video, I also advise that the Mars 360 system and the astrological marking system be applied to commerce(buying and selling).

Hi, this is Anthony again. I once again was able to prophecy when an increased level of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel would take place. We are currently in the phase of Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node between June 22, 2022 and September 19th 2022. And between August 5 and August 7th, militants in Gaza have already fired over 1000 rockets into Israel. The last video I made predicted this would happen. This is the 3rd consecutive year that I have been able to warn in advance of escalated rocket fire from Gaza into Israel, proving that Mars still has an influence on events in Israel and in the world today for that matter. The question is, with this influence still largely in effect in today's world, what should people do about it. The answer goes back to the book of Numbers when the Israelites wandering in the desert were being attacked on a regular basis by fiery serpents. Compare this to today when Israel, year after year is being attacked by rocket fire. Well, back during time of Moses when the Israelites were wandering in the desert and being attacked by fiery serpents, he asked god for a solution. The solution to the problem of fiery serpents turned out to be constructing a brass image resembling the attacker, in that case, fiery serpents, and then having the Israelites stare at the image after being bitten so that they could avoid death from the serpent bites. Moses made a fiery serpent and put it on a pole. This new solution to terrorism and war is the very similar and falls in line with tradition. Ares, the Greek version of Mars, was an unpopular deity in ancient Greece because he was considered cruel, ruthless, and barbaric as a terrorist. During the Trojan war, however, Ares was wounded by Diomedes when Diomedes threw his spear at Ares and wounded him. But Ares still lived. It was a wound that would have been fatal for any mortal. Mars, in Roman times, was considered in a more positive light, but Mars backed the Romans and helped them destroy the Jewish temple in AD 70 and is still working to resist the Jewish presence in Israel as indicated by the fact that escalation of rocket fire is coinciding with Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node. People in Israel/Palestine should view constructing an image to Ares/Mars from the vantage point of how Moses was ordered by God to create a brass image/statue of a fiery serpent. Hence Moses was not told how to go out and kill the fiery serpents. He was simply told how to keep the fiery serpents from killing the Israelites and solution did not involve striking the fiery serpents. It was simply staring and contemplation. Likewise in making an image to this Ares/Mars influence, we don't go out and fight against terrorism. We simply use an ancient method of staring and contemplation to keep that energy from from destroying people. There is no fighting involved here. This staring and contemplation should also involve staring at the planet Mars itself. This new statue should be named Armaaruss. Its an amalgamation of the gods of war, but notably Ares, who was for the most part, a terrorist god of war that was wounded by the spear and yet lived. His number is Mars 360, which is simply the revolution of Mars around the sun and its influence on humanity. Every person on earth is influenced by Mars in some manner and the Mars 360 system identifies how and comes up with a system in which each person would be assigned a number based on where Mars is located in their astrology chart, in order to facilitate understanding, which a necessary precursor to peace. In order for this system to work, it requires that everyone acknowledge Mars influence. And in such a system as Mars 360, even things like commerce—buying and selling--should revolve around people having outward indication of where Mars is located in their astrological birthchart. They can indicate this on their forehead or simply show it on an ID card. Its a very simple methodology. The demonstration of calling down fire from heaven was enough to convince people that Mars certainly has an influence on events in Israel and events around the world and on individual human beings. From this point after having demonstrated clearly for the last 3 years that when Mars goes within 30 degrees of the lunar node there is an escalation of rocket fire from Gaza into Israel relative to the rest of the year, this will eventually take on a life on its own. And one can say that the last 3 years, I have been instrumental in breathing life into what is Mars influence. Thank you.

Hi this is Anthony. I want to make this video to explain exactly what the Mars 360 system is. The Mars 360 system is calculating your astrological birth chart and taking the information regarding where the position of Mars was located at the time you were born and placing that information on either your birth certificate, driver's license, state issued id, or any other form of outward insignia. The premise behind this idea is to alert others in a human community as to how to deal with you. In Ares Le Mandat, Mars is said to enact influence on human beings through reducing the amount of gray matter in the area of the brain associated with its natal astrological position. So there are six major lobes of the brain: the frontal lobes, the temporal lobes, the occipital lobe, the parietal lobe, the brain stem, and the cerebellum. So in astrology the astrological chart is divided into twelve 30 degree sectors and in Ares Le Mandat, I take that chart as it's divided into the twelve 30 degree sectors and essentially change it into being interpreted as only six 30 degree sectors; one sign and its correlating opposite sign is read as altogether one sign. So if you take a chart that has twelve 30 degree sectors and read it in that manner, it becomes interpreted as all together six sectors. So in Ares Le Mandat, the six lobes of the brain are correlated with the six seals in the Book of Revelation. The first seal would be at the mid heaven and is assigned to the occipital lobe of the brain and is responsible for how we develop our face-to-face communication within our immediate environment and how we feel about other people's property. If we move counterclockwise to the next 30 degree sector we get to the second seal which has been assigned to the temporal lobes of the brain which is responsible for our auditory processing, our hearing, our listening, and our thoughts. If we move counterclockwise to the next 30 degree sector, we get to the third seal which has been assigned to the brain stem/ cerebellum portion of the brain, which is responsible for our breathing, our diet, our movement, and our basic survival skills. Now if we move counterclockwise to the next 30 degree sector, that portion is assigned to the frontal lobes of the brain and this section is responsible for our executive control functions, our ability to make decisions, engage in discipline, choose our words carefully, learn, our working memory, and our indirect communication and attitude to cultures that are not our own. So if we move counterclockwise[again], that portion has been assigned to the motor cortex portion of the brain which is near the top part of our skulls and is responsible for our ability to plan in advance movements. This portion of the brain is responsible for our work ethic, how we deal with authority figures, and our overall view of economics in general. If we go counterclockwise to the next 30 degree sector this is the last seal and has been assigned to the parietal lobe of the brain which is responsible for how we interpret sensory input from our environment, how we display ourselves in view of others, and how we interpret input from others within our environment. Now the premise is that Mars has an influence on the portion of the brain based on where Mars was positioned at the time you were born. So for example, if you were born when Mars was rising in the east, Mars would be affecting the frontal lobes of your brain and therefore causing you to display deficiencies in the designated characteristics that are assigned to the frontal lobe functions because the planet Mars causes a reduction in gray matter to certain portions of the brain based on where it was positioned at the time you were born. We as human beings can now in understanding that provide a certain amount of leeway to other humans as they engage or as they navigate through life in whatever way they see fit in terms of how they express themselves within a given society or within a given community. This element of understanding that comes into play is something that can be a great potential for peace, understanding, and justice here on earth. The idea of every human placing the location of Mars in their astrological birth chart on a birth certificate, on a driver's license, or state issued id or on some outward form of insignia where people in society can see how that person is influenced by Mars, we can thus provide ourselves an impetus to a more utopian society, to a more peaceful more harmonious way of life; something that's missing in contemporary times and something that has been missing going back to antiquity. The idea is that nations can apply the location of Mars wherever it was at the time a person was born to the state issued id, the driver's license, or the birth certificate as a measure of understanding or as a measure of keeping a certain amount of...or as a measure of maintaining a certain amount of equilibrium and understanding within their society. So this Mars 360 system provides an opportunity for people who live in two different nations to maintain a certain amount of connection based on their Mars position. This can be done without any threat to national sovereignty or geographical borders. The main component that should arise from this Mars 360 system is the element of understanding whereas humans knowing how other humans are affected by the planet Mars and vice versa (other humans knowing how the individual is affected by Mars) can allow for humans to forgive or accommodate qualities that would normally be deemed unacceptable. It's not just having a Mars indicator on a birth certificate, driver's license, or state issued id or having some form of outward insignia that shows where Mars was positioned at the time you were born, it's also allowing society to divide itself or to sector itself based on each person's Mars position--meaning all the people in a given society who are affected by Mars in a certain way would would at the same time be accommodated by that society in which the society would create an atmosphere specifically for that group to express itself according to how Mars influences human beings. So for example, if Mars influences a certain sector of human beings within the society to be a little bit relaxed when it comes to face-to-face communication, the society would create environments where those particular humans can sort of act freely or display that tendency to have a certain amount or a certain lack of care regarding face-to-face communication. Society could create situations where this quality would not be looked down upon by anyone else because the environment would be understanding of that particular situation and this would apply not just to that particular Mars influence, it would apply to every type of Mars influence so the outcome would be at the very least a society divided into six sectors where each of the six Mars influences can be allowed to express themselves as Mars influences them to express themselves in a certain way-- to express themselves freely or feel that they don't have to try and overcome this Mars influence. This is essentially the gist of the Mars 360 system. You're in a nutshell allowing humans to be themselves and you're sort of forcing society to accommodate each human to be themselves according to how Mars influences them at birth. The outcome that should arise from the Mars 360 system is a certain amount of balance, harmony, and cohesion between government and people. Now ideally when it comes to the Israel Gaza Palestinian factor, Israel would be wise to set up some sort of observatory that would indicate where Mars is positioned in the sky just to encourage understanding when it comes to the Mars influence. So as spoken before: when Mars enters within 30 degrees of the lunar node there is an escalation in Israel where a higher than normal amount of rockets relative to the rest of the year are fired from Gaza into Israel. In response to this, Israel should create an observatory so that the people can see for themselves that when Mars goes within 30 degrees of the lunar node, it's invoking an influence that precipitates a certain level of violence and a certain level of strife-- a certain level of war. It should also be something that encourages people to understand that in order to remain safe in society, Mars has to be continuously observed; it has to be watched and it has to be noticed based on the statistics that I give in Ares Le Mandat. Not paying attention to the Mars influence will just continue to infect the human race with wars--with conflict without any of us really understanding why. Such problems continue to happen. So this is why I recommend that Israel would create some sort of observatory to the planet Mars to encourage the public to pay attention to its influence and also alert the public when Mars goes within that 30 degrees of the lunar node ....end

All of this information should aid in helping one understand the importance of the Mars 360 religious and social system system, which will now be explained. This will be followed by the inspired word from Armaaruss, the image of Mars 360. Here are instruction for how to present this god.

Once the image is complete, it is expected to take on a life of its own. Contemplation of Mars influence should be a model of how one looks out at the world. Because the author has been able to demonstrate in real time accurate predictions of escalation due to this insidious Mars force, he should be granted some measure of credibility in explaining how individual humans are affected by this influence. This is a system in which buying and selling should be restricted to those who are willing to indicate where Mars is located in their birth-chart. Keep in mind that this doctrine is fully aware of its theological backdrop.

This religious/social system maintains that Mars is responsible for negative habits dispersed amongst the population through 6 possible archetypes of behavior:

1. poor face- to-face communication/interaction 2.hyperactivity/reckless thoughts 3.debauchery/restlessness 4.hyper-opinionated/cultural bias 5. laziness/pacifism/disobedience 6. introversion/sillyness/foolishness.

The reason the idea of an outward display of Mars's position in an individual's birthchart is presented as a feasible measure to be applied upon society is because it would precipitate "understanding," allowing people to prepare or know in advance how to deal with the individual and vice versa without having to go through any extended learning phase, which oftentimes gives rise to contention. It will also place checks on how people perceive their positive and negative interactions, meaning that if a person encounters someone of a different ethnic background, he must also take into account his Mars placement, which would be visible on his body and on his state-issued ID or Driver's license.

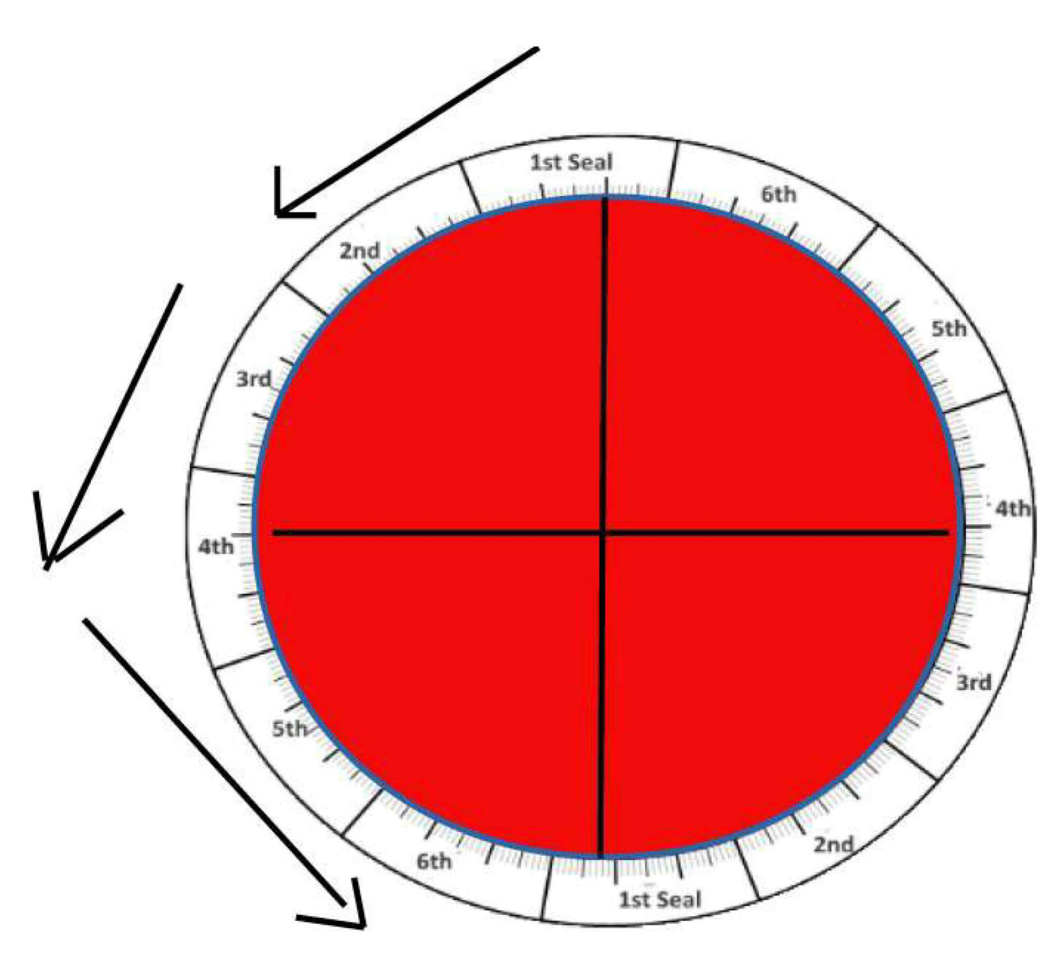

Understanding the riddle of Mars 360 and the seals brings humanity to its next stage of existence. This new perspective of knowledge will permeate the earth and serve as a unified foundation of peace for all of its inhabitants for many ages. Mars 360 is already at work in the world and has been for ages. It is humanity's lack of understanding of it that allows for its continued influence. The discovery of how it influences humanity will lead to a major scientific inquiry on how to make this knowledge better humanity. An overt understanding and implementation of Mars 360, as opposed to its surreptitious influence based on lack of knowledge, will bring widespread debate on the nature of how it aligns with religion and whether or not its identification constitutes a doomsday or peaceable scenario. More knowledge of what the Mars 360 entails will lead to a social engineering project that will attempt to make use of this newfound knowledge. The reason unlocking Mars 360 would be considered to work for humanity is because it gives each person a very important understanding of how humans are wired to operate in the physical realm. This awareness, much like in the way technology makes our daily life less physically strenuous, will make human social existence less complicated and less strenuous. Before humans can adopt and integrate Mars 360 into their daily lives, science will have to confirm its significance in the scientific realm. How will they do this? Well they've nearly done it before as what exactly Mars 360 stands for has already been touched upon in the scientific community. The difference now is that there's more information regarding it. Once science confirms the meaning of Mars 360 to have significant scientific value, humans can then form a program to adopt and integrate this formula into their daily lives. Now, there is one problem. In order for it to work in a very efficient way, some kind of indication would be required so that humans can identify each other and the nature of the person they are dealing with at any given time.

Another aspect of Mars 360 is how it changes the way the law and morality is applied to human beings. At this present time, it's fair to say that each person who exhibits a certain characteristic is held accountable, socially or morally, exactly as anyone else who exhibits those same characteristics. The application of Mars 360 will modify how a person is held accountable. It won't be a license to exhibit certain characteristics that the person is prone to committing. It will be more of an open understanding into his particular natural tendencies according to where the person is marked. An example would be seeing someone in public marked in a certain way and knowing before ever approaching him, what his natural tendency as a person would be........ that would fall short of the normal societal standard for that particular characteristic. That person, because he is marked as deficient in that quality, would be given a little more leeway by both society and the law as it applies to how the lack of that certain quality is judged. A good analogy is how a track runner's time in a certain event is often judged by the wind. If he sets a world record, but his time in the event was found to be aided by the wind, he isn't given credit for breaking the official world record. Think of the mark as running a time in an event hindered by the wind. Because humans are naturally wired to divide themselves, Mars 360 wouldn't be something that ends division. It would just redefine it or add another important element to it. Whereas now humans are most prone to make distinctions amongst themselves and others based on physical outward features, like the color of one's skin, the size of one's nose, etc., Mars 360 would draw a distinction based on how each human relates to Mars 360 and the appropriating bodily mark indicating exactly where and how. An example would be how Mars 360 could mark someone as a racist-type of person by being placed on a certain part of his body, no matter his ethnicity, and how that mark effectively puts that character of racism within the context of a category that identifies other predisposed racist humans with the same mark, no matter what their ethnicity may be. So now, instead of a racist person speaking for his ethnicity because that's how humans currently define and distinguish themselves, he would now be speaking for his own character type as humans began to re-identify each other based on the Mars 360 outward identification of character and personality types. The same would go for, not only the racist characteristics, but all character types such as anti-social, violent, debauch, etc. It was mentioned earlier that what Mars 360 means was already touched upon in the scientific community. The reason the investigation didn't gain the traction that it could have was due to the fact that it was only backed in terms of statistics and probability, which, in turn, left it open for improper replication by those seeking to satisfy a bias or opposing argument. However, it did get many in the scientific community talking about it and some studies confirmed his findings. Ultimately, however, it was rejected by the scientific community as later studies couldn't draw a statistical significance. While what was found in that investigation was not pointed out by original researcher to be specifically related to Mars 360, its subject matter falling in line with my findings makes it to where it could actually be considered an inquiry into Mars 360. What's also interesting is that the major points of reference mentioned in the study relate directly to something that I have considered to be of religious significance. The difference between that study and now is that another element comes into play, which would subsequently provide support to those findings. After identifying Mars 360, one will be able to look back and see how that study comes together with the position of Mars. With all the new evidence, the scientific community can inquire again. This leads to a real world implementation that attempts to circumvent real world problems.

With Mars 360 identified, now the six seals can be opened as the 7th seal comes to mean a continuous revolution of Mars going through the first 6 seals. The six seals teaches us that when Mars travels around the sun, it goes through 6 positions in the sky relative to the time and place a person is born. Each position is defined in terms of designated human characteristics, and the revelation of the six seals describes the effect that Mars has on each position, denoting the negative consequences that come about. Using discernment, one can extrapolate the original characteristic of each position by picturing the opposite scenario to the negative one described in the six seals in the Bible. Since each seal corresponds to Mars traveling to each position in the sky, we will use seal and position interchangeably while applying to Mars the negative consequence of traveling through each seal/position. Using the sun as an example for more understanding, the sun is directly over our heads at noon. This overhead position correlates to one position/seal of the sky regardless if the sun is there or not and that position/ seal has designated qualities. If a person is born around noon, he will be influenced for the rest of his life by the sun's location in that position and its effect on what defines that position(in Revelation, it's Mars exerting an effect). Since there are 6 positions or seals, the sun could be in any one of those positions or seals depending on the time of birth and thus affect the human's characteristics defined by those positions. If one is born at another time, the sun would be somewhere else(not overhead), but the overhead position along with the other positions (seals), whether at eye level at the horizon, or at angles above or below the horizon, would still be in place and affected by whatever other planet may be orbiting those positions at that particular time of birth. The Sun was just an example. Because Revelation deals with Mars 360, we will focus on those scenarios. There are six seals that defines each of the 6 positions in the sky with designated qualities. Because we have a moving body, we can extrapolate that the 7th seal represents the continuous revolution of Mars. These positions/seals remain constant and planets come and go through these positions throughout the course of time. Overhead is always overhead, no matter what time a person is born, even though the planets are constantly moving ... and this fixed quality applies to all the other positions in the sky defined through the six seals. Each seal corresponds to an aspect of human nature designed by God. Mars corresponds to the negative consequences of its orbit through them. Because the mystery of iniquity relates to Mars 360, the planet Mars is what the six seals of Revelation is speaking on. Here is a diagram depicting how the six seals affects a person at birth.

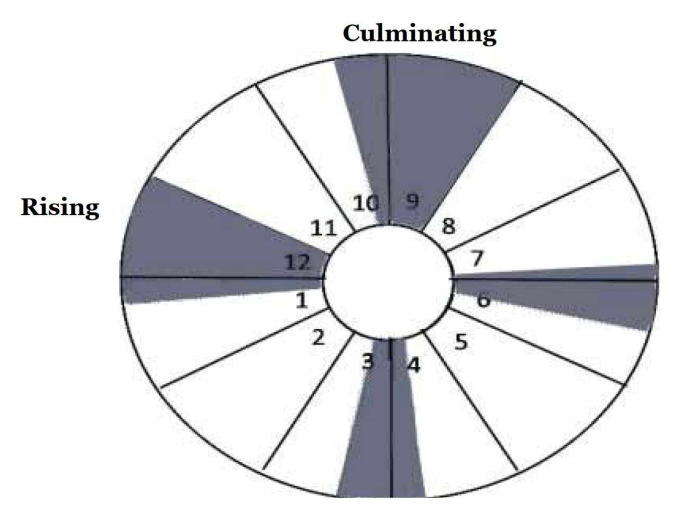

In the diagram above, focus on the left side of the chart wheel where it shows the horizon as the 4th seal. For now, any reference to the horizon in explaining the seals will refer to the 4th seal on the left side even though both sides of the chart wheel mean the same thing. For the sake of order, we will stick to the left side starting at the top with the 1st seal and make our way down in chronological order to the 6th seal. Notice that each seal is divided into 30 degree segments. From the diagram, we can see that the first seal is at the top, representing the position directly overhead with regard to a human looking directly over his head while standing on earth. It makes a 90 degree angle to the horizon. From there, after leaving the 30 degree segment representing the first seal and going counterclockwise, we see the next seal(the 2nd one) which is at a 60 degree angle to the horizon. From that segment which makes up the 2nd seal and going counterclockwise from there, we see the 3rd seal which is at about a 30 degree angle to the horizon. From there, going counterclockwise, we are brought to the horizon(the 4th seal), which is 180 degrees from our eye level. Going counter clockwise from that point into the next segment, we get to the 5th seal, which is on a 30 degree angle to the horizon, but below the horizon on the left side. Going counterclockwise from there, we get to the 6th seal segment which is at a 60 degree angle with the horizon, and once again below on the left side. After the 6th seal, the cycle starts again with the opposite side of the circle meaning the same as the other side. This repeat is the 7th seal and defines this revolving motion. No matter how scattered the planets are throughout the sky at the time of birth, the six seal divisions in the sky are always laid out the same. They have a fixed quality. The first seal is always directly overhead standing from earth, no matter what time of day, place, week, or season a person is born, just as the horizon is always the horizon standing from earth no matter what time, place or day. For someone who is experienced in planetary influences on human behavior(Astrology), an easy way to understand this is just by taking each house as it's laid out in the 'equal house system' in a western astrological chart and replacing the definition of those houses with how i'm defining this 'six seals house system' as laid out in the diagram on previous page. That would be an easy way to understand the gist of what's being explained. Also remember to designate the change to the next sign at the 24th degree mark of every sign. It will be explained how the seals go beyond the metaphysical and into the physical scientific realm as each seal represents the 6 major sections of the brain: the occipital lobe, the temporal lobe, the brain stem/cerebellum, the frontal lobe, the motor cortex, and the parietal lobes. What Mars is doing as it is explained in the six seals is resulting in a lack of grey matter located in the corresponding regions of the brain. Grey matter results to greater performance of the designated tasks carried out by each part of the brain, whereas a lack of it reduces the performance.

This first seal which is directly overhead(top of chart wheel) represents the personality and outlook of a human being toward his immediate environment and when Mars travels through the first seal as the white horse, his opposing effect on the personality culminates into its worst expression by way of a great military general going "forth conquering, and to conquer." This first seal, at its worst, represents all the great military men such as King David, Alexander the Great, Rommel, Charles de Gaulle, Napoleon, Gen. Patton .. all of which are examples of a very negative expression. Mars here operate as the very antithesis to the Jesus Christ of the Bible. When this spirit of Mars is operating in this manner in the world, it produces a very competitive mindset, an antisocial personality that suffers with face to face communication. There is also a reckless attitude with how one uses his hands. Whereas a sociable person is likely to greet you with his right hand or give you something with it, an unsociable person produced by Mars in the first seal is likely to insult someone with it, either through misuse of another's property via theft, physical assault or simply a refusal to offer charity. Another negative quality showing up at the far end of the spectrum of Mars here is the use of torture. This position of Mars justifies the use of torture over the use of execution and makes the subject more likely to carry out his opposition by way of extended harm as opposed to execution. This position can also put a person at odds with his neighbors, siblings and co-workers. While many aspects of the Mars influence in this position are detriments in society, they can serve as virtues for military men, police officers, competitive athletes, and businessmen. This first seal definition also aligns with Michel Gauquelin's findings of Mars showing up culminating(top of chart) in the astrological birth charts of Military men and Champion athletes. Gauquelin divided the chart into different sectors, but singled out '2 key sectors" for his research: Rising, which correlates to the 4th seals at the east and west horizons, and Culminating which correlates to the 1st seals directly overhead and directly below(north and south). These sectors are referred to as plus zones. Here is a chart for visual reference in understanding Gauquelin's research.

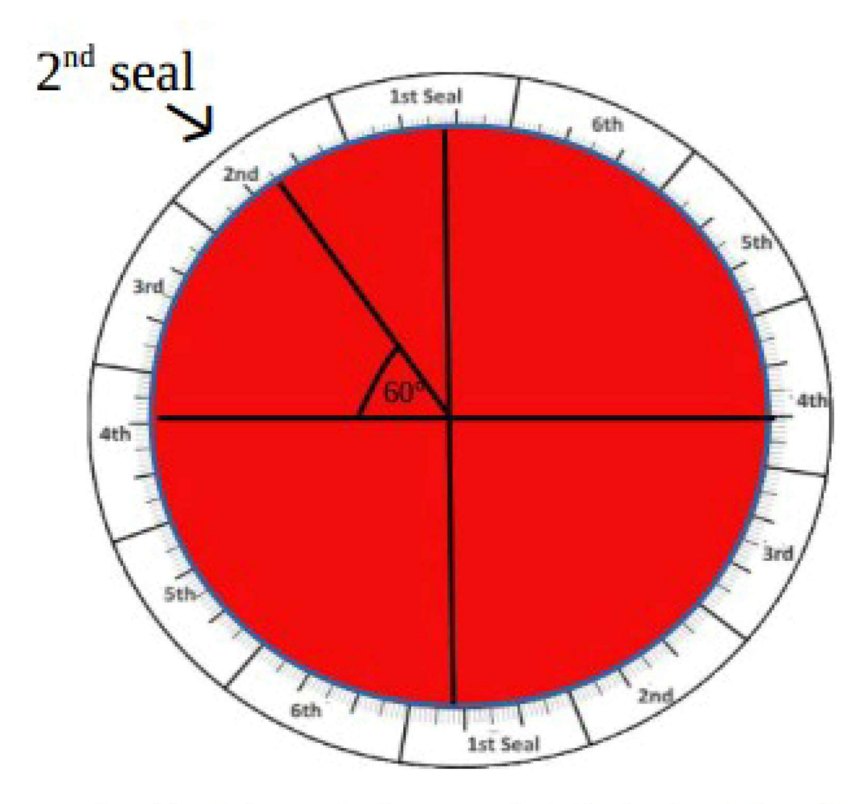

In his findings, he discovered that a statistically significant number of eminent competitive athletes and military men were born or marked with Mars either rising(4th seals) or culminating(1st seals). I found this advantage to be related to the result of a deficiency in the brain. On a scientific level, this position would result in a marked lack of grey matter in the occipital lobe of the brain. The occipital lobe is primary visual area of the brain and located at the back of the brain. It is responsible for how we perceive and make sense of moving objects within our immediate environment. When there is a deficiency of function in this area of the brain, the result is often a hostile personality who is unable to properly react to his immediate environment, or anyone he can see at the moment. Here is a diagram of the brain. Notice the occipital lobe is located at the back of the brain. This lack of grey matter produces a lack of fear in the person when it comes to the consequences of not being able to carry out the designated function of a particular part of the brain.

In the case of the occipital lobe, a person would be indifferent to the feelings of others within his immediate environment and also to the possible actions of others towards him in response to his deficiency in communication skills. In my research, I've also noticed that billionaires have the position of Mars in the 1st seal and the 4th seals, culminating and rising respectively as laid out in a birth chart by Gauquelin. This isn't surprising due to the competitive nature of the business world and the fact that Mars through the first seal represents a conquering attitude which is a directly opposed to face to face charity. When it comes to Mars opposing a designated function of a certain part of the brain, the result leads to a display of reduced energy and desire to engage in the proper behaviors that a healthy functioning part of the brain would produce. Because there are many planets in orbit, the level of grey matter reduction takes place accordingly to how the other planetary energies permit that part of the brain to function. This grey matter deficiency takes place at birth and essentially marks the person for the rest of his life. In the case of Mars going through the first seal, the position of Mars would be in the back of the head or in the right hand. There are other notable examples of this influence that interferes with how we interact with others in our immediate environment.

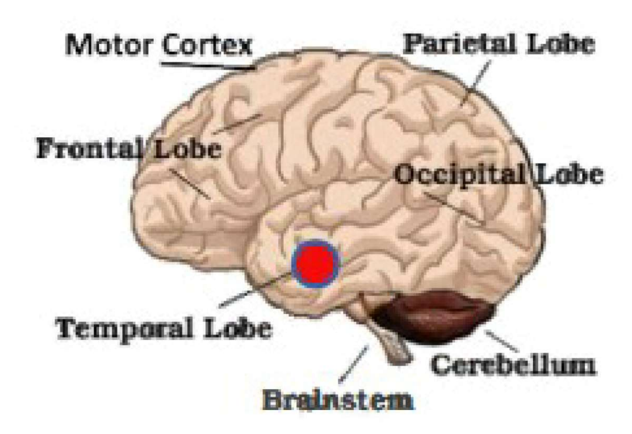

In understanding earlier how a healthy occipital lobe would greet someone through a handshake with the right hand, which is in contrast to what a grey matter deficient occipital lobe would do, we can see how the latter would translate to an antisocial quality that opposes normal social interaction and therefore leave the person liable to reckless behavior involving the right hand and ways of communications. This is the position of Mars that, if left unchecked, can lead to a culmination which eventually manifests as someone who takes from everyone around him, as we see in conquering military leaders and selfish businessmen like Bernie Madoff. This lack of grey matter, while always present, is not uniform in terms of scale throughout a person's life, but can be given full power to completely withdraw from any attempt to conform to basic standards. This is usually based on a personal decision by the person, and many times as a reaction to the society or one's circumstances. Which is why in times of economic strife such a vice can turn into a virtue. This character finds itself able to survive by using his deficiency to the fullest extent, in contrast to a normal functioning occipital lobe that is less likely to engage in such behavior, even in a crisis that may warrant it. Because there is no mark or deficiency within him to allow for it, the person could be overwhelmed in such a circumstance. I've also noticed that many Rappers have this position of reckless communication arising from Mars going through the first seal. While serving as a virtue in their choice of profession, this Mars expression often becomes a major source of strife for them in their dealings with neighbors, associates, other people's feelings, etc. At the basic level in people who are not eminent in a chosen field, but are just everyday Joes, indications of this placement would be an expression of annoyance with coworkers or anyone not close to them that they have to deal with on a daily basis--along with some anti-charity attitudes, some rudeness in social situations, issues with siblings, selfish and jealousy attitudes related to what others might have, and indifference to the proper use of other people's resources. These issues are usually present throughout the life of a person influenced by Mars in this way and in most cases, is not allowed by the person to emit its fullest negative expression. However, the lack of grey matter in that part of the brain would always persist. A recent example of a most negative expression of this quality is someone like Bernard Madoff, who defrauded numerous people in a Ponzi scheme. This led to the loss of millions of dollars in savings belonging to other people.

After revealing Mars overhead as it relates to the first seal, we now can explain the second seal

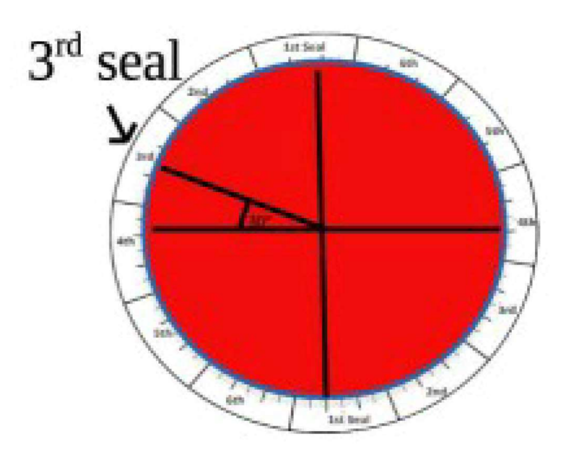

The second seal is at about a 60 degree angle to the horizon(4th seal) and it focuses on an aspect of humanity which, under the influence of Mars on the Red Horse, seeks chaos and the unsettling spread of fear that arises from it. This is a representation of the hysteria, paranoia, fear, mistrust and aggression that often leads to violence. This culminates in severe mental illness and violent action along with a complete loss of basic humanity. This is a spirit that rejects peace and happiness in all forms, whether it's trust in society or a normal domestic life. Because love and familiarity symbolize a man's happiness in life, Mars here in the 2nd seal speaks to a major antagonism to both. Home also symbolizes love, peace, and happiness, and is therefore rejected by this spirit. This puts the person at odds with anything closely related to him, whether it be his home, wife, country, establishment. The living examples of the worst of this spirit are the homegrown terrorists, the domestic abusers, the conspiracy theorists, haters of women, haters of government and those who cannot sit still or pay attention to spoken words for a very long time. The Columbine Shooters, OJ Simpson, Charles Manson, Ted Bundy, Marshall Applewhite, and Nietzsche are all major examples of the 2nd seal. The 2nd seal also represents the nihilists, along with extreme pessimism and melancholy. There is also resentment of anything that represents the person's upbringing, which is why this spirit would excel at world traveling and dealing with other cultures in a foreign land. Because of an inability to sit still for long periods, this archetype will do well in aggressive sport that capitalizes on excessive energy and aggression. Workaholism is another common occurrence with this placement. A lighter manifestation of this in regular day to day life involves a person experiencing annoyance with human sound, trouble processing auditory information, no close relationships, restlessness, internalized rage and a lack of long term memory combined with reckless thoughts and beliefs. The part of the brain that the second seal points to are the temporal lobes.

Mars traveling through the position of the second seal results in a lack of grey matter in the area of the temporal lobes, which are located on the sides of the brain as shown in the diagram, and is involved with understanding speech and recalling long term memories. A lack of grey matter in that region results in poor attention span, heightened aggression, restlessness, psychosis, melancholy, and far fetched beliefs. Deficiency here highlights the need for freedom and mobility, and this need plays a big role in their central ideology throughout life. The mistrust arising from the belief that government establishment and marriage are a confining influence on human freedom is what usually serves as a source of distress. This placement, at its worst, represents the biggest threat to established government and close relationships. Racism occurs here when integration is a part of the establishment. The response to it is often in the form of violence and bloodshed. War here takes on a more domestic tone, very much in contrast to what the 4th seal represents.

In the 3rd seal, we have humans under the influence of Mars being inclined to seek pleasure over health.

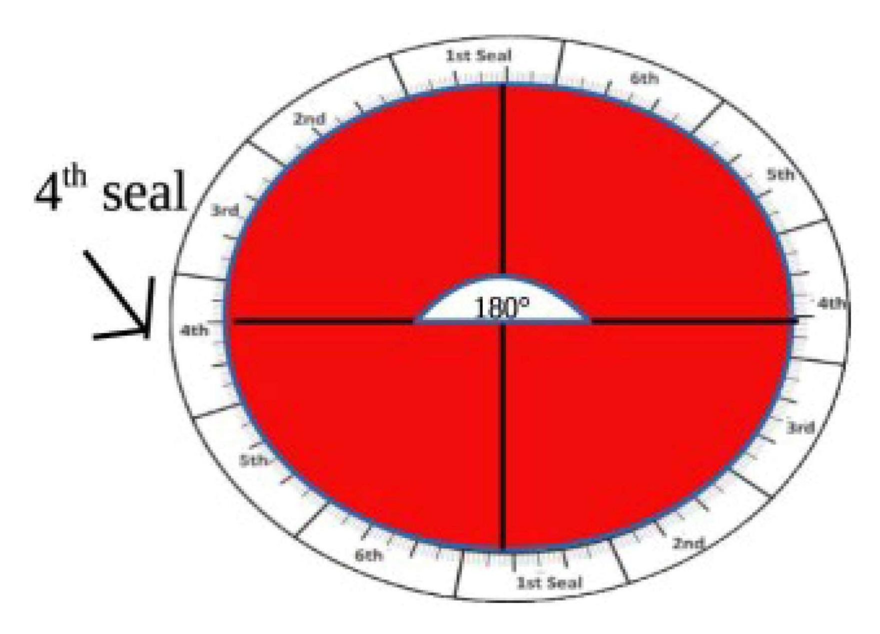

Mars in this seal is driving humanity to seek pleasure to the detriment of physical health, something that wheat and barley provides since a person could sustain themselves on those particular food products, as opposed to just consuming wine and oil. The manifestation of this Mars placement results in people who use drugs like alcohol, engage in risky sexual perversion, ignore what they put inside their bodies and pay no attention to how they manage their personal health. There is a lack of proper diet and exercise, and a reduced survival instinct which can lead to a short lifespan due to poor health or unexpected death. Maintenance of personal physical health essentially summarizes what the 3rd seal means. Mars on the black horse, being the catalyst, serves as an opposing force to how someone would view the maintenance of their own physical health. The term Sex, Drugs, and Rock and Roll is good way to understand the 3rd seal. Examples of the worst quality of this are rock and roll artists that have abused their bodies with drugs, sex, and debauchery, and also adventurers who don't take into account the level of danger they could be in. There is also a sedentary quality to this placement that turns a person off to physical exercise, which seems contrary to an adventurous spirit. This aversion to physical exercise can lead to issues of being overweight. This aversion is due to the need for physical freedom. The part of the brain correlating with the 3rd seal is the brain stem and cerebellum which make up what is called the Reptilian Brain. The brain stem is responsible for breathing, swallowing, heart rate, blood pressure, consciousness, and whether one is awake or sleepy. The cerebellum is responsible for the coordination of muscle movements. When Mars is located in the 3rd seal, a reduction of grey matter results and is manifested by a reduction in the desire and energy to perform the tasks allocated to that region of the brain, specifically diet and exercise. However, obesity doesn't seem to completely correlate here even though it would seem likely due to the theme revolving around diet and exercise. Sexual perversion, poor dietary food choices(which defines the 3rd seal), and a lack of exercise seems to play a more prominent role here than actual obesity or addiction. The Reptilian Brain is designed to perform tasks strictly related to keeping the body alive. Notice the brainstem and cerebellum located toward the base of the brain in the diagram below. It causes us to act as if our basic needs are still scarce. When a lack of grey matter is located in this region, an indifferent attitude to our basic survival ensues and leads to more risk taking in areas related to diet/ sex, while inclining us to less activity in matters of physical movement. It also causes a person to engage in physically dangerous risk taking, which is a testament as to why so many pilots and stunt men would have this placement. An easy experiment to test Mars in this placement would be to have everyone in the room in front of a table with an assortment of healthy and non-healthy foods. One half of the group would have a placement of Mars in the 3rd seal of their birth-chart(as the birth-chart is laid out according to the seals diagram) and the other half wouldn't have the placement of Mars there. The results would likely show that the group with the Mars placement made poorer dietary choices when selecting food from the table than the other half that did not contain that placement of Mars in the birth chart.

The 4th Seal is the most significant seal of all and revolves around the Jewish people. There is widespread destruction, war, famine, and terror. This one is located right at the horizon in the birth-chart, 180 degrees from a person looking to the horizon. Gauquelin sectors identify this area as the rising sector and a key sector.

The position of Mars at the horizon culminates in its worst effect on humanity and highlights the ultimate enemy of the Jewish people. Notable representations of this culminating effect and most horrible expression of Mars in this seal are figures like Adolf Hitler and Emperor Nero. Both are responsible for the deaths of millions of people not related to them in some way. For Hitler, the main target was Jews, and for Nero, the main target was Christians. Whereas the first seal involves direct communication, the 4th seal represents indirect communication through speeches, writings, etc. The antagonism based on Mars's influence here is centered around things that don't relate to us, whether it be other cultures, other countries, other religions, or anything or anyone not around at the moment. This perspective speaks to the worldly nature of those affected by this influence. While a belief in God can be expressed, the negative attitude to what's not around produces a very worldly attitude at the expense of the spiritual hidden things, which is why the world judges these characters as eternally damned. Therefore, spiritual matters related to the health of our souls, as it's defined in a contemporary sense, would fall under the category of what is not around at the moment in terms what we can see. This automatically confers a worldly attitude upon those under Mars's influence here. Also important to note is that the spiritual matters relating to the health of our souls which are hidden, not in plain view, are also the key to restraining ourselves with regard to obtaining worldly things. One of the most identifiable traits of those with this placement would be the inability to control how the tongue refers to others indirectly and also the subsequent lack of fear regarding the consequence of this. In a positive sense, this can manifest itself in bold truth-telling, but in a negative sense, it gives a propensity to bold lying. This is due to the reckless attitude to "words" itself as it relates to indirect communication. It's not a surprise, in terms of both the positive and negative, that many journalist in the media would have this placement. Because the target of indirect communication are those we cannot see at the moment, this placement also describes our attitude to hidden enemies. This position is prominent in those who express what are considered racist views. The lack of inhibition regarding what's not around at the moment is the reason men born under Mars at the horizon often make it to the highest levels of government with little to no fear of the distant enemy. They are thus able to give orders that affect the well being of total strangers without flinching an eye. The majority of nationalistic "heads of state" that have ever existed have this placement due to this lack of fear of what is hidden. The wealthiest men who have ever existed also have this placement due to the lack of self-control often involved in acquiring things of the world, which in itself can be said to arise from a contempt for what is not around. Mars riding the pale horse in the 4th seal has reached the heights of society one generation after the other. In the 1st seal, success is related to the competitive spirit, but in the 4th seal, it's related to a lack of discipline, self control, and contempt for the hidden. Since this also implicates the spiritual(self-discipline), it results in blind ambition for worldly things. In reference to those spiritual matters for the sake of clarity, God Himself would not be the target of antagonism arising from Mars influencing humanity in this seal. Since there are 2 perspectives for God: within and without(outside of ourselves), this placement becomes more to do with the soul and God within. The act of acknowledging God as outside of us would fall under the next seal. For now as it relates to the 4th seal, the part of the brain indicated in this revelation are the frontal lobes.

The frontal lobe is located at the front of the brain. The lower part of the forehead just above the nose is the area of focus, which is where the book of Revelation makes a key reference in mentioning a position of Mars. The frontal lobes are defined as the executive control function of the brain which gives us the ability to modify and regulate our behavior. Self discipline, self denial, adherence to Law and respect for the hidden are the major qualities arising from a healthy function of this portion of the brain, which explains why the Jewish ethnicity has an outward prominence at the lower portion of the forehead near the top of the nose, which would indicate a natural high amount of grey matter in that region. It explains their highly developed frontal lobes and superiority in matters of law, speech and intellect. The way Mars affects this area, as explained in the 4th seal, is by pulling grey matter from this region of the brain to produce a result that takes a person away from the healthy designated frontal lobe functions of self-discipline, self-denial, adherence to Law, ability to make decisions, respect for the hidden. The resulting effect is usually the display of wild opinions, reckless speech, racist views, lack of self denial, and provocation of those not around. We also find that those throughout history who have displayed characteristics indicative of a lack of grey matter in this region of the brain have also displayed a great deal of Antisemitism. This makes it such that it can be determined scientifically that recognition of Jewish ethnicity is hard coded into the human brain. Self-denial being defined here as a natural function of the frontal lobe can explain the prevalence of obesity in those affected by Mars's influence here, which may also be a key to understanding addiction. Since the 1980s, scientists began to observe that many people who were addicted to drugs appeared to have frontal lobe abnormalities. This makes sense since the frontal lobes are responsible for our ability to make decisions. Adolf Hitler, who is the hallmark of this Mars influence in reducing grey matter in the frontal lobes, was said to be a drug addict at the end of his life. It has also been noted by those around him that his ability to make decisions was deficient and his power relied greatly on his own tendency to give others the power to make decisions. Gauquelin found that Mars rising(horizon) and culminating(directly overhead) was also prominent in the birth chart positions of scientists. Jonas Salk and Albert Einstein have this placement of Mars near the horizons. Because the mind is located at the 2nd seal(60 degrees to the horizon and representing the temporal lobes), it's quite possible that the reducing quality of self-discipline arising from Mars at the horizon(frontal lobes) can open up the mind(temporal lobes) to generate more creativity(a major aspect of problem solving) without much interference from the executive control functions located in the frontal lobes.

Mars affects all 6 major regions of the brain along with the corresponding outward manifestation. The right hand is a manifestation of the occipital lobe located at the back of the brain. Even though Gauquelin did not align his research to Scripture, further analysis in conjunction with what I have observed can relegate all inquiries into Mars as having Scriptural implications. The 5th seal bring us 30 degrees to the horizon but below the horizon when focusing on the left side of the chart. This correlates to Mars being situated there and invoking an influence on humanity. The underneath quality provides a hint to what is meant by the 5th seal. On the next page is diagram of the fixed location of the 5th seal in an astrochart.

When Mars is operating here, the influence results in anger at not only God, but all authority and status figures in life. This culminates in political assassins who will provoke heads of state, as well as disgruntled figures like a Mark David Chapman who would target status figures like John Lennon. The crying out in this seal speaks of direct and open blasphemy of God in heaven. Because authority figures are associated with work, a denial of the need to labor under supervision is also indicated. In a positive way this can promote non Materialism, but in a negative way this attitude can become a precursor to communism. The most positive expression of this mark culminated in Jesus Christ, who opposed the authority figures in his day and preached a message of peace and non materialism. Another positive manifestation of this placement is Noam Chomsky. Martin Luther King was also marked in this way, and so was Gandhi. All opposed the authority of their day in a positive way and eventually became martyrs for their cause. However, underneath these positive actions during their life was likely a deep seated resentment of God as He exists outside of them in heaven. Note: not a denial, but a resentment of God's authority to not provide relief to the sufferings in the world. Martin Luther King reportedly blasphemed God during a night of fornication with prostitutes. Jim Jones, a Baptist preacher who convinced 900 of his followers to commit suicide, is a very negative manifestation of Mars's influence here. He openly blasphemed God in his sermons and was an unapologetic communist. At the more simple civilized level, qualities of passivity, procrastination, laziness, disobedience, lack of concern with work, lack of concern with finance, and disorganized lifestyle can display itself. It's difficult to discern if the 5th seals designate the actual location of God, or just simply the location of those in the position of submission to Him. For certain, it specifies a position of submission with the text "under the altar." However, it could be ascertained that God is present in relation to His subjects here. The part of the brain affected in correlation with the 5th seal with Mars operating in the designated 5th seal position, which is 30 degrees to the horizon but below the horizon when looking the chart wheel on the left side, is what is called the motor cortex. In a brain diagram, the motor cortex is located above the frontal lobes.

This section of the brain is involved in the planning, control, and execution of voluntary movements. While the cerebellum controls physical movement, the motor cortex makes the decision on whether or not to actually move. Meaning, it's the actual anticipation of voluntary movements which activate this area of the brain. These qualities would relate to the work and skill ethic of a human being. In the location of the motor cortex, we find out why European ethnicities are born on average with a pronounced cranial development in the higher regions of the forehead and why this quality plays a role in their track record of working the land while building skills to produce quality architecture. We also see a respect for authority and hierarchy when this region of the brain is properly developed. The development of technology is a major aspect that is related to the proper function of this region of the brain. When Mars gets involved and affects this area, it produces the antithetical effect in its reduction of grey matter in this region. This reduction causes a person to reject the need to display those aforementioned qualities related to what a healthy motor cortex permits(work ethic, skills, subservience), which therefore leads to an opposing mindset that authority figures are not needed in order to extract work from a person. While there is a belief that people can work independent of authority, there is also a mindset from this Mars placement that excessive work is not necessary for humans to exist. This is based on the premise that there are enough resources for everyone in the world, and that seeking anything beyond what are basic necessities simply equates to unnecessary excess. This is why socialistic mindsets along with communist sympathies can be justified by this placement, and why antagonism to supervised work and submission to authority figures would extend all the way to God. The anti-God attitudes coming from this area is usually out of spite. While there is a belief in God in this Mars opposition, proclamations of all kinds against God are usually done in anger directly towards God. In terms of work, a person may be able-bodied, but the lack of grey matter this region as a result of Mars would incline that person to decide not to move.

The sixth seal bring us to the area of the chart wheel that is 60 degrees to the horizon but below when observing the chart of the left side. It is the final description regarding qualities produced in humanity when Mars makes its revolution into this position.

What the 6th seal is referring to is Mars exerting influence on humanity through bringing a sense of opposition to being seen properly, hence why the sun turning black metaphors the avoidance of a light which makes us visible. The 6th seal essentially refers to a desire to deny one's DNA makeup with regard to one's appearance and also disregard any reverence toward the eyes of others. It is related to one's hair, skin, nails, ethnicity, and facial expression. Modern Liberalism would be an example of this opposing effect towards one's identity. The moving of things out of their rightful place, as mentioned in the passage, symbolizes the rebellion of humanity to resist cultural norms related to how they are seen. The most negative culmination of this quality displays itself in exposing oneself foolishly through engaging in improper acts in plain view such as those who perform publicly in scantily clad attire or take their clothes off in front of a camera. Another negative culmination is a stage comedian in which the performer pays no attention to how he is being perceived by others. At the basic day to day level, it results in a lack of hygiene and proper rectitude along with a high degree of shyness and social awkwardness. The ability to hold a smile becomes limited, leading the person to display a "stern face" even when he is not aware of it. The failure to conform to cultural standards of dress and appearance can discourage meeting new people and getting involved socially, which often results in extreme introversion. This opposing attitude can extend beyond the individual and into anything or anyone that may resemble one's identity. Mars tries to implement control here in the 6th seal by using examples of racism(4th seal) to justify his self-hatred and push an agenda that evaporates all differences between one's own cultural identity and the ones of other different groups of people. This is done so that one's own cultural background, and therefore one's self, would not have to stand out in terms of identity. It's important to note that with Mars here, there is still a respect for the cultural identity of others. The opposition arising from the Mars influence here is simply based on how one views and expresses his own cultural identity. Appearances, as it relates to one's own, are therefore downgraded to nothing more than smoke and mirrors. The 6th seal says "who shall be able to stand?" This indicates that opposition to one's own cultural identity is not a virtue but actually a Satan'; Satan' is defined as an opposing force. This placement is unsurprisingly heavy in actors, comedians, nude stars, and liberals. The area of the brain that is affected is the parietal lobe. The parietal lobe allows us to coordinate our movement in response to objects within our environment. It also receives and processes sensory information from the body and skin. The parietal lobe helps us understand where we are in space and deals with our ability to sense recognition in relation to our orientation. A healthy parietal lobe person would display a healthy orientation to their environment and an awareness of how they are being sensed by objects and people within their space. Their regulation of body position would conform properly to the area and to the situation. Charisma and a strong sense of identity is usually the result of a well developed parietal lobe. A lack of grey matter in this region would hinder a person's energy to display those aforementioned qualities relating to a healthy parietal lobe. There would be difficulty in sensing input from their environment and also difficulty in understanding how their orientation is applicable to the environment. This results in awkwardness and tension with objects and people releasing sensory information in response to their orientation. The lack of grey matter in the parietal lobe also impairs self care skills like dressing and bathing. The parietal lobe is located toward the back of the brain just above the occipital lobe.

A lack of grey matter always results in a lack of fear in terms of the consequences for not displaying the typical traits that the organ would allow for should there be sufficient grey matter to support its proper functions. When we see comedians and scantily clad entertainers behave foolishly in public in sight of others, we see a parietal lobe operating with a lack of energy and efficiency, which thus produces a seemingly courageous act from the perspective of onlookers who would, themselves, have healthy levels of grey matter in that area and therefore a natural inhibition to making a fool of themselves without regard to the perceptive input coming from outside of them. The lack of care from those affected by Mars is directly related to a liberal attitude with regard to the proper expression of one's own cultural identity. A healthy parietal lobe would make a person diligent in displaying himself in a culturally acceptable manner. He would have a natural awareness of how to position his body in relation to his environment and situation. His skin and hygiene would also be given its due priority.

One of the most notable characteristics of Mars 360 has to do with the demographic of Mars on the 6th seal, which is related to one's identity makeup with regard to race, religion, ethnicity, hair, skin, nails, clothing, outward appearance, facial expressions, etc. The Mars 360 program caters to this placement by allowing those affected to have a certain degree of disregard for those things. Therefore, this placement effectively removes a person from his natural cultural identity. Meaning, all groups outside of Mars in the sixth seal, could never make any claim on this type. In today's world, the manifestation of Mars in the 6th seal, in light of its disregard of personal identity, can still display a great deal of heightened sensitivity to the cultural identity of others. This sensitivity is often displayed at the expense of sensitivity to their own. Not to be confused, with early upbringing, which relates to the 2nd seal, the antagonism of Mars in the 6th seal is strictly related to what makes up a person's identity in terms of what others can see. An issue arises from a community standpoint when this quality of sensitivity isn't being reciprocated, which thus leaves this particular type to be a liability to their own natural group in terms of cultural identity. The ultimate intent of this type is to remove any labels that would be conferred upon themselves. Mars 360 would make this feasible in such a way that it doesn't impede the rights of those who don't share that perspective. With Mars in the sixth seal as an identity in itself and since it applies to everyone in the entire world that would have that particular placement of Mars, this type as an identity cannot be pinned into a category in terms of race, religion, ethnicity, hair, skin, nails, facial expression, etc. Identity in terms of Mars placement in the sixth seal would have the diversity required to keep this type from being pinned into one category. By keeping it strictly related to Mars placement, it keeps the characteristic elements arising from that particular Mars type uniform throughout that category. It also keeps those elements which arise from that placement from affecting those who make up the same cultural identity, but who may, unlike them, value things regarding their own identity in terms of culture. In other words, those people who share the same cultural identity as Mars in the sixth, but have a different placement of Mars, can be unaffected by the overly accommodating/identity dissolving perspective of those with Mars in the sixth seal. Many have looked to avoid categorization in the name of just being oneself no matter how they may be perceived. Over time, those who have attempted this have found themselves falling into an actual category of "not caring what others see" or a category of "not seeking to be categorized." Subsequently, this has resulted in a severe identity crisis in which the one not seeking to be categorized tries to get out of that category by falling into a category. Then the person remembers that this is fundamentally uncharacteristic of him. With Mars in the sixth seal, this revolving door stops because all who have engaged in such avoidance of being categorized are now made aware of the source behind that seeking to avoid. In that regard, the perspective related to discomfort with one's own classification becomes tied to the influence of something other than oneself. Because of this, this sector may purposely try to behave uncharacteristically of Mars in the sixth seal in order to convince themselves that they are faceless. In doing so, they continue to prove that they have a face with that face being Mars in the sixth seal. Other behaviors tied to this is introversion, which would be a temptation for these types in accepting Mars 360. Mars 360 would cater to this energy by giving anyone with this placement a legal right to be out of sight of other people. Under Mars 360, society would have to accommodate this aspect of human nature. Mars 360 would also make it a legal right, but only for Mars in the sixth seal, to not be classified as anything. The only classification in its case would be Mars in the sixth seal itself. This effectively keeps the promotion of the dissolving of identity boundaries concentrated to its own sphere without having it bombard over the Mars expression of other human being which don't see the world from a Mars in the sixth seal perspective. Contrary to this, Mars in the 4th seal would have every right to its identity and the corresponding kinship related to having similar characteristics with regard to one's race, religion, gender, ethnicity, etc. Mars 360 would mandate that the Mars 4th seal types maintain regular fellowship with their own kind, even from a racial and religious standpoint. Because there is a mandate that classifies Mars in the 6th seal to have no classification with regard to racial identity, a mandate for Mars in the 4th seal would not interfere with the expression of Mars in the 6th seal. As a result, this is how Mars in the sixth seal is persuaded to accept the Mars classification; it automatically releases them from obligation to racial and other types of classification. It also allows the Mars 6th seal types to reach out to others of a different ethnicity, who would have the same Mars classification, and at the same time also have that same natural accommodation of different looking people. This way, the natural outlook of Mars in the sixth seal toward difference is reciprocated. It is often the case today that such regard for difference is often not reciprocated by the recipients, such that it opens the door for intervention from other Mars types to put the breaks on this accommodation. We see this in the case of Identity politics when the interest of other groups take precedent over one's own to an extreme degree. Of course that's from the perspective of Identity politics being defined as catering to groups different from one's own in terms of cultural, religious, racial, or social identity as opposed to the standard definition that defines it as catering to the cultural, ethnic, gender, racial, religious, or social interests of smaller groups over the issues of the larger ones. Mars in the sixth seal will find it a major relief that they would be able to wear any facial expression they like under Mars 360 without it being questioned. Mars 360 would put in the proper channels so that the rest of society would have a filter regarding the observation of the facial expressions of Mars in the sixth seal. There would be a certain release from having to over-cater to the perceptions from others. Its important to define what identity is. When it comes to the sixth seal, it pertains to titles and stereotypes conferred upon you for any reason, which bring with it a certain amount of standards that are expected to be displayed outwardly. These standards don't usually reflect who the person is on the inside. This expectation becomes a form of categorization that often becomes a chore to live up to. For instance, accepting a certain tag brings with it a responsibility for the actions of others who carry that same tag but don't necessarily live up to the same internal moral standard. This subsequently causes the identity itself to become more of a liability to the person than what that person is willing to invest in terms of managing it. This is the perspective of many modem day liberal attitudes. It's a lack of energy to invest time into living up to cultural expectations in terms of outward appearance, when that appearance can oftentimes become a tremendous danger to one's safety. In order to circumvent this, the person with a lack of energy to reinforce their cultural identity denies that they have an identity and therefore tries to promote an ideology that denies the very need to maintain any sense of identity as it applies to race, religion, gender, nationality, fashion, etc. As a result, the person is not able to garner the respect that would come about from identity reinforcement, but may be much safer from the harm that's often provoked by reinforcing identity. With this new system, everyone in the category of anti-labels would carry the same outlook, which removes the liability factor we often find in maintaining identity with those similar in appearance or creed but different in outlook and moral standard. Overall, what Mars 360 implies is that the search for singular identity is a spirit of God, and the denial of it actually falls under the spirit of the oppositionary force of Mars. While this placement of Mars in the sixth seal infers an antagonistic attitude towards one's obligation to live up to identity standards, it also leads to the formation of a new community of people, which as a whole, are under little obligation to maintain a certain identity since this group would be made up of different looks in terms of ethnic identity while still being united under the perspective that difference is a good thing. With this natural quality of being able to cater to the identities of others, moreso than to the identity of oneself, this placement of Mars in the sixth seal becomes the best candidate to understand the right of others as it relates to the Mars identity of others. Now with this perspective, those marked for the Mars in the sixth seal outlook, can completely comprehend how people who resemble their identity, cultural or otherwise, are not really them under Mars 360. Since Mars 360 makes a distinction between the six different expressions of Mars and defines the world in that manner, Mars in the sixth seal can now recognize the rights of those tied to them by ethnic appearance. By not having to be classified as them due to Mars 360 officially making the distinction amongst them, the expression of Mars in the sixth seal can see these others as different from them(even though similar in identity) and subsequently in a good light. That is, of course, as it relates to the permeation of the Mars 360 program. Under Mars 360, the Mars in the sixth seal mindset takes on the meaning of tolerance to its fullest extent. Note: This may easily be confused with Mars in the 2nd seal. Mars in the 2nd seal's attempt to escape what seems to be their own identity is not so much related to identity as it is to the location of what represents their early upbringing. There is a certain physical escape that Mars in the 2nd seal is asking for. Note: Mars in the 6th seal infers

a desire to be oneself in terms of how one appears to other people without having to put on an act that society would deem appropriate.

My research backs Gauquelin's and further conceptualizes that the advantage of these eminent sports athletes who have Mars culminating (as discovered in Gauquelin's research) is due to a lack of grey matter in a region of the brain that would exacerbate negative qualities but would serve as virtues in certain fields of competitive athletics, yet at the same time, detriments in other areas of life. What's important to understand about Mars's oppositionary influence is that it cannot be fully suppressed. A person can fight against this opposing energy, but never really fully overcome it. This infers that a human can only experience peace when this force is allowed to exist within them and allowed to be express by them to a certain extent. For instance, since going against the grain of this natural force within a person requires intent, a person would be living his life with a great deal of discomfort in any attempt to suppress it. This poses a degree of unfairness when one person who is not Mars affected in a particular manner is held to the same standard as someone who is. Because this discomfort of going against one's own Mars influence is often too much of a chore, the temptation to pass it off as a virtue and a necessity for human existence becomes a more favorable option. This is why we see the different ideologies that espouse for society to give a certain level of freedom to one thing over the other. Western Civilization, albeit unbeknownst, is the closest to a society that tries to create outlets for every Mars expression and give some freedoms related to how each person expresses himself under it. The problem-solving aspect related to the expression of Mars would involve centering life around keeping a person from fully giving into the opposing energy and creating situations that would serve as a buffer to a full submission by the person toward the influence which often contributes to what happens at the far end of the trajectory as explained within the six seals. The smaller day to day characteristics of humans that arise under the Mars influence are related to the trajectory of what the far end of the spectrum brings about, but is not an indication that the person would fully give into the energy. The six seals simply explain what that far end of the spectrum is. An example of this link is how history of domestic violence is linked to terrorist acts, even though the two don't equate to each other in terms of scale. It doesn't mean that every incident of domestic violence is an indication of future terrorism; it only means that domestic violence is a trait that is on the same spectrum of terrorism, while not being a direct pre-cursor. Mars in the corresponding seal, the 2nd seal, which rules the temporal lobes indicates that, at birth, the person is on a spectrum that culminates in a final quality that displays the most violent acts of terror should the influence be given full authority over the person's life. A good analogy to understand more is how science teaches that all people are born with cancer cells and have these in their body throughout the entirety of their lifetime. It's when unhealthy habits are adopted that those cancer cells are able to grow with the scale of this growth being related to the degree of how a person gives into unhealthy lifestyle contributors. We apply this analogy to one being born with Mars in a certain position with the corresponding lack of grey matter as being the cancer cells already in our body and the smaller scale events like domestic violence and prolonged bachelorhood(from the 2nd seal) adding up over time and leading to the far end of the 2nd seal spectrum of terrorism as being the unhealthy lifestyle contributors to cancer that if fully given into would lead to terminal stage 4 cancer. The path of this Mars phenomenon that leads all the way down to the human body explains the mystery behind dark matter that scientist have tried to figure out. Thus far, scientific researchers have only been able to suggest the existence of dark matter from the gravitational effect it seems to have on visible matter. Dark matter is defined in Britannica dictionary as "a component of the universe whose presence is discerned from its gravitational attraction rather than its luminosity." The Mars 360 phenomenon opens the door to more research into dark matter as the definition of dark matter would explain the gravitational pull on grey matter in the brain which, in turn, prevents grey matter from spreading properly to the Mars affected regions. Here is a visual presentation of Mars 360's effect on humanity: We can see visually how every human being is logged into Mars, no matter what age, race location, status, wealth, etc.

The diagram shows a visual representation of how Mars affects humanity with a circle over the corresponding lobe. We see how the dark matter exerts a pull on grey matter and prevents it from giving adequate support to the different parts of the brain affected by Mars. The future social demarcation project will create an overt representation in civilized life of how Mars affects humanity. Confirming a drop in grey matter at each section of the brain related to each seal by way of Mars position in a birth chart, Scientist will began to conjure up a way to make this newfound knowledge benefit mankind. If the knowledge itself doesn't change how society reacts to each other, then someone will come along and enforce this marking system. The idea behind giving each person some sort of mark that can be displayed outside of their body as a form of identification is that it would allow society to understand the person and therefore adjust their conduct to accommodate the person in a way that allows expression of his Mars characteristics and likewise the other in response to theirs' without creating a big misunderstanding. An example of this would be a person marked outwardly with Mars in the forehead just above the nose meeting someone on the street who has a Mars mark in the back of his head or right hand. Upon the encounter, one would understand in the other that the mark on the right hand would indicate an antisocial personality tendency, while the other person, in mutual respect, would understand in the other that the mark on the forehead above the nose would indicate a lack of self-denial with racist opinions. This would lead therefore to each person allowing the other to display some of those characteristics without the other getting upset. Expression is thus allowed for both parties and no one is hurt. This system would also change the way the law would be applied. In this case, Mars will be taken into account in judgment of an act or crime and punishment would be applied according to that in light of other factors. Morality would take on a new perspective of understanding how natal influences cause different tendencies for different people and that some cannot live up to the standards of others because of this. This will lead to greater outlook of equality amongst the human race even amongst the differences. It will also give a new meaning to identity. Whereas now, DNA information like skin color, hair color, etc. displays ethnic background outwardly, an outward mark of Mars may lead to a new way humans may gravitate to one another. Whereas now, humans, for the most part, naturally try to stick with their own ethnicity. We see it at schools, at work, in prisons, etc. It's easy to conclude that people like to be with their own kind, not all the time, but for the most part. However, with the mark of Mars playing such a prominent role in a person's life with regard to the influence of it being a natural part of his nature, a mark of Mars could lead humans to gravitate to others that are marked similarly. The danger would lie with the 4th seal mark on the forehead which represents free speech and racist opinions and the atrocities of Adolf Hitler and Nero at the far end of that spectrum. A unification of this group could backfire because of a natural antagonism with those that don't share the same values. The lack of respect for what is hidden could lead to an event of major schism should the similarities of people with the same Mars mark become a major source of kinship. That's an extreme example and in order for that to happen, the Mars mark would have to overcome the consensus of natural human affection for one's closest blood relatives. The greatest resistance to an identification system will arise in the parietal lobe group due to the lack of grey matter in that region placing a person in direct opposition to self-identity. This involves ethnic characteristics, labels, titles etc. Since an overt mark showing where a person influenced by Mars represents labeling, the Mars parietal lobe group could exert a united front against this system. It's important to understand that there is a marking of the beast now, and its influence is affecting every person on earth as we speak and has done so since antiquity. At the moment, it's not an overt mark, but will become later on as science comes to a deeper understanding of the phenomenon. Every time it's completely given into, Mars causes a person's nature to take on a more quarrelsome outlook. The advantage, depending on where you're marked(influenced by Mars), can give you an advantage in certain situations. Where as certain situations can cripple one person, another person with certain deficiencies in a certain part of the brain can display characteristics that can serve him well during a seemingly unfavorable situation. There are some societies, in which people who are marked with Mars on the foreheadoying) or right hand(stealing) will fare better than those who are marked elsewhere. The lack of grey matter in those areas will produce the necessary qualities to cope with the reality of a situation that requires these tendencies in order to get resources. Likewise, those marked with Mars at the reptilian brain may fare better in situations where survival instincts are not important, while those marked with Mars on the sides of the head(temporal lobes) may have an easier time coping with situations that require constant movement and drastic changes. Another major component needed to understand Mars 360 is that there is no sudden jump from one seal to the next by Mars in his revolution through the positions defining the seal positions in the sky. The influence occurs at the position even if the position points to 2 different parts of the brain. For example, if Mars is at the top of the chart wheel where the 1st seal is located, but in between where the end of the first seal meets the beginning of the second seal(usually at the 24 degree mark using western calculation),the influence, as a result, becomes situated in both parts of the brain: the occipital lobe(1st seal at the top) and temporal lobe(2nd seal at 60 degrees to the horizon) with the level of influence on one compared to the other being dependent on how far Mars is in one seal compared to how far it is from the other. Each seal position takes up 30 degrees. Using Western calculation, the next part of the brain begins to get affected by Mars at the 24 degree mark with Mars still having influence over the previous region. It doesn't take full influence over the entire defined region of one seal position until it reaches the 0 degree mark.

While many studies done by Gauquelin on the Mars effect worked out in favor of his original findings that Champion athletes tend to be born when Mars is either rising or culminating in the birthchart, a more conclusive confirmation process of the Mars effect comes about by measuring to see if there is a statistical significance related to the amount of grey matter in the region of the brain corresponding to Mars's position in Gauquelin's key sectors of rising and culminating, which I conclude to be the frontal lobe and occipital lobe respectively. While much head work has already been done by Gauquelin in a statistical sense related to eminence of champion athletes and military men being born under Mars either rising or culminating, further examination of grey matter in the brain correlating to that finding would further substantiate the evidence. Because work has already been done regarding those two positions, more examination should continue to revolve around those two positions before starting analysis of how the other seals correspond to Mars and the grey matter reduction within the corresponding region of the brain. I find that Gauquelin's rising sector represents the 4th seal, frontal lobe, and forehead respectively, while his culminating sector represents the 1st seal, occipital lobe, and right hand respectively. Because the right hand involves how we react to objects within our immediate environment to either want to greet someone or slight someone, it is therefore directly related to the occipital lobe. This creates a research and testing environment that gives credence to the forehead and the right hand, and therefore credence to the Book of Revelation. The Mars influence is displayed at an early age and doesn't represent every instance of its characteristics playing out in the world. There are more heavenly bodies and some with characteristics that manifest itself suddenly and unexpectedly in a person. One thing to note about Mars is that its identifying traits display themselves prominently at the beginning stages of life from childhood through adulthood in such a way that one can certainly identify those characteristics as unfavorable qualities in him or her. Traditionally Mars has been associated with War and Violence, and after serious inquiry of the Mars effect on humans, I've gathered that Mars implants in every human the seeds for mass violence with the intended target based on how each area of the brain is defined. This is an important subject to cover because of the widespread coverage of mass shootings taking place in today's world. The only difference between each position of Mars is the target of that hostility, which-if allowed to persist to a climactic level- will lead to unrestrained action against those targets. It's important to note, every single human on earth has these seeds planted within them. Mars affects the entire Earth. In the first seal, when Mars reaches the top of the Chart, which is the culminating sector in Gauquelin's division, and representing the occipital lobe/right hand of the brain, the target of hostility will be everyone on an equal playing field with the native, such as siblings, coworkers and everyone seen within the immediate environment. The occipital lobe receives signals from the eye and is therefore responsible for how someone perceives moving objects. While the lack of fear relates to how others may respond to them with hostility due to their deficiencies in face to face communication, there is still a high degree of violent intent if Mars has taken a prominent role in their life. The idea of torture, both psychological and physical, is more favorable to this mindset at the far end of the spectrum than actual murder, but the hostility can lead to a situation of direct violence against a neighbor, sibling or co-worker. There is a targeting aspect related to this position and the person is usually aware of the objects of his antipathy. Because how we communicate affects the emotional well being of others, the family members of other people also fall under this jurisdiction. Inlaws are included as well. In the 2nd seal, related to the position of Mars at a 60 degree angle to the horizon, and representing the temporal lobes of the brain, the intended target of antipathy is usually everything the person has a close 1 on 1 relationship with and also women in general. This is due to the confining effect that those things have on someone with a natural adhd condition, which essentially make a person restless and inattentive. There is also a marked lack of human emotion here, and because women represent the emotional aspects of life, the hostility toward women and the mother would be pronounced. This targeting aspect also extends to the prevailing establishment and the governmental forces of the time because they represent a stationary influence upon a mobile freedom loving dynamic that Mars's influence represents here. Other than the people closest to them, and women in general, there are no other specified individual targets when violence against people ensues as a result of depleted grey matter in the region. The resulting casualties involving those who fall outside of the intended targeting are simply a product of the expression of rage. In the 3rd seal, related to the position of Mars at a 30 degree angle to the horizontal, and representing the reptilian brain, the intended target of antipathy is usually one's own physical health and those restricting one's freedom regarding how they should decide to use or move their body. A vast number of astronauts have this placement, along with sexual deviants and drug abusers. There is a fine line between addiction and indulgence with this position leaning more to the side of indulgence. Masochism is a keyword describing this placement, which is defined as someone who takes pleasure in receiving physical punishment that results in physical pain and suffering. The target being one's own body culminates to extreme drug use, outrageous sexual behavior, and dangerous physical risk taking. The insistence on freedom of bodily use puts one at odds with physical confining forces like home and government, which is similar to the 2nd seal. In the 4th seal, related to the position of Mars at the horizon, representing Gauquelin's rising sector, and the frontal lobes, the intended target is everyone considered weaker than the person and yet not part of that person via relative, friend or neighbor. Children, the elderly, minorities, the unseen, the sick, the handicapped, the disabled, and the Jewish ethnicity are all held in contempt by this Mars placement affecting the frontal lobes. The perspective of this Mars placement is the idea that those who are weak are simply using that position to incur sympathy and other benefits that usually come with being in a weaker state. We saw how Hitler was influenced by this belief when he instituted a Euthanasia program in the late 30's and also various other policies directed against the less fortunate. Boris Schiffer and colleagues of the University of Duisburg-Essen in Germany did a study using brain scans of 18 convicted pedophiles with a history of repeated child abuse of kids younger than 14 and compared the results with brain scans of normal men. Schiffer's group found that the pedophiles had about 2 to 4% less grey matter in the orbitofrontal cortex - an area of the brain that plays an important role in high-level decision making and reasoning -- than those of normal people. This study lines up exactly with the 4th seal location of the frontal lobes being directly above the nose and in a place where Jewish ethnicity displays a high level of development. In the pie on the next page, we can see the location of the orbitofrontal cortex, which is in the frontal lobes.

Jewish race has a natural high development/protrusion of Orbitofrontal Cortex(Frontal lobe area on forehead between the eyes). Jewish and nearly all Mediterranean/Middle Eastern races have a similar protrusion in that area of the skull which indicates a greater innate ability to control impulses. In Islamic prophecies concerning Dajjal, such an indentation can be interpreted by both literate and illiterate as the indicator of an innate lack of belief in God or higher power..

Because development of this area is intrinsically linked to how we control our right and wrong actions, the Mediterranean people(Jews Arabs, Italians), all of whom have a much greater physical development in this area i.e. more prominent upper noses to the rest of the population, are allotted a stronger sense of how moral law is applied. Their craniums essentially need to accommodate the extra space that their higher developed frontal lobes make up compared to the rest of the population. A lack of development in this area being linked to child abuse and Antisemitism would therefore link child abuse to Antisemitism. A healthy love and respect of the youth is why Jews dominate Academia and most teaching professions. This is from their naturally higher developed frontal lobes which manifest outwardly as prominent upper noses. This area between the eyes can be said to represent the true temple of God within, and also intelligence with an emphasis on verbal IQ. This would align with the fact that Ashkenazi Jews, who have the highest IQ of all human beings, also have extended development in this area of the skull. It's also important to note that the entire Middle Eastern/Mediterranean genotype/phenotype has a marked degree of development in this part of the skull. Protrusion there, amongst such humans, manifests in a greater cultural respect for law and religion. In contrast, a greater indentation there--amongst a people--manifests as challenges towards matters of law. Please be aware that both types are still subject to the negative influence of Mars in that area if its located in the 4th seal on their astrological birth chart. In the 5th seal, related to the Mars position 30 degrees to the horizon but under the horizon, and representing the motor cortex, the target is always those individuals that are of a higher status than the person. It could be anyone from a manager at work, to a high profile celebrity, a head of state, or anyone that person is subject to in terms of status. God as acknowledgeable outside of ourselves also falls into this category. Extreme direct blasphemy of God would be a characteristic of this placement. In the 6th seal which is related to the Mars position 60 degrees to the horizon but under the horizon and representing the parietal lobe, the target becomes everyone making prolonged eye contact with the person and also everyone in general. In this placement, there are no exceptions as far as where the anger is being directed because ultimately our humanness represents our identity. This hostility arises due to deficiencies of grey matter in the parietal lobe, which as a result, effectuates an above average need for privacy. Thus, any situation requiring the person to modify his body position in relation to his space, such as having to smile in a certain situation or having to gesture this way or that way, will be met with anger. Since society is made up of all types of people, all of humanity falls would fall under this antagonism. The desire for privacy stems from difficulties in having to deal with the perceptions of others and when the lack of desire to live up to those expectations converge with the frustration of dealing with other people's reaction, violence can be the result. The manifestation of outrageous behavior in plain view is a form of rebellion to the eyes of others. Since cultural background has its own set of rules regarding appearances, anything representing the cultural identity would become a major source of distress. Sensory input from the environment comes from the perceptions of others; the lack of instinct to cater to it is ultimately the foundation of this anger arising in a person with a lack of grey matter in the parietal lobe. To gain a more comprehensive view of Mars through the seals, we will look at some example astro charts. First I will show the display of a typical astro wheel using western calculation and then show how the six seals would fit into that layout so that it can be clearly understood. Note: anything after 24 degrees is rounded off to the next position with an understanding that it will retain some minor influence from the previous position while taking on the definition of that next position. The reason for that is because Mars's influence on the brain as it revolves around the sun coincides with every part of the brain, which makes it possible that there is some overlap during the transition of Mars's from one seal to the next. Here is Adolf Hitler's Western Astro Birthchart.

Notice how the Horizon line(AC) points to the 26 degrees. Since it's higher than 24 degrees, the horizon line would be interpreted as transitioning to the next sign of Scorpio. Since Mars is at 16 degrees in Taurus, which is directly on the opposite side of Scorpio, Mars can be relegated to the horizon(AC) since it's been determined that the exact opposite side of a seal position carries the same definition. Since we are using the six seals, the scorpio/taurus axis in this case would correlate to the horizons and tlie 4th seal. In a chart of the six seals, Hitler's chart would layout like this, but would be correlated with the six seals layout. We would also use the 24th degree of a sign(seal) to indicate the start of a transition out of a sign into the next and also a blending of the what defined that previous sign with what defines the next. I mentioned earlier that each side of the chart means the same as the opposite side. Therefore, Hitler's Mars would be interpreted to the 4th seal and thus would cause him to display characteristics associated with a lack of grey matter in the frontal lobe region of the brain, since the frontal lobe has been tied to the 4th seal. Because his life led to a complete giving way to Mars influence, he becomes the example of what depleted grey matter in the frontal lobe does to a person and also what the full scale of Mars influence on a person does to society as a whole. This doesn't mean everyone marked similarly is going to be a Hitler, it just means that the traits that this Mars influence has gives a propensity to this type of evil if the person should fully give into this influence and also be in a position to exert the outcome of it. Remember, every single human is implanted with a propensity for large scale acts of opposition. Mars in the 4th seal is just one example. This position of Mars can garner many advantages if used through proper social channels. Many in the media have this placement because the lack of grey matter removes a lot of inhibition on speech, which would give a person more boldness to express their views. Also many heads of state around the world have had this position because the lack of grey matter also removes the inhibition related to consequences regarding the hidden, which thus gives them very little fear regarding the potential of hidden enemies. Here is what Hitler's chart would look like using parameters laid out by the six seals with Mars in the 4th seal:

Next is the chart for George Patton. We can see the line pointing to the Pisces/Sagittarius axis as being our reference point for the 4th seal with Mars located at the bottom segment of the chart, which is correlated with the First seal. Since both sides of the chartwheel mean the same, the first seal is considered to be both its designated top position and also its exact opposite side at the bottom position and is defined as a lack of grey matter in the occipital lobes/right hand.

On the next page is Patton's chart, but this time using the six seals as it would define the layout above. This way, we can see Mars influence in the 1st seal segment. The resulting lack of grey matter in his occipital lobe would have had an effect on how he perceived the people around him. The lack of proper face to face communication arising from this often results in verbal and physical abuse if allowed to persist. While this deficiency was a major reason for his success as a general, it was also what got him into trouble when it became excessive. It eventually caused him to slap his own soldiers in the face. This, in turn, is what led to him being sidelined from combat command as punishment. The Chart shows Mars at the 1 st Seal:

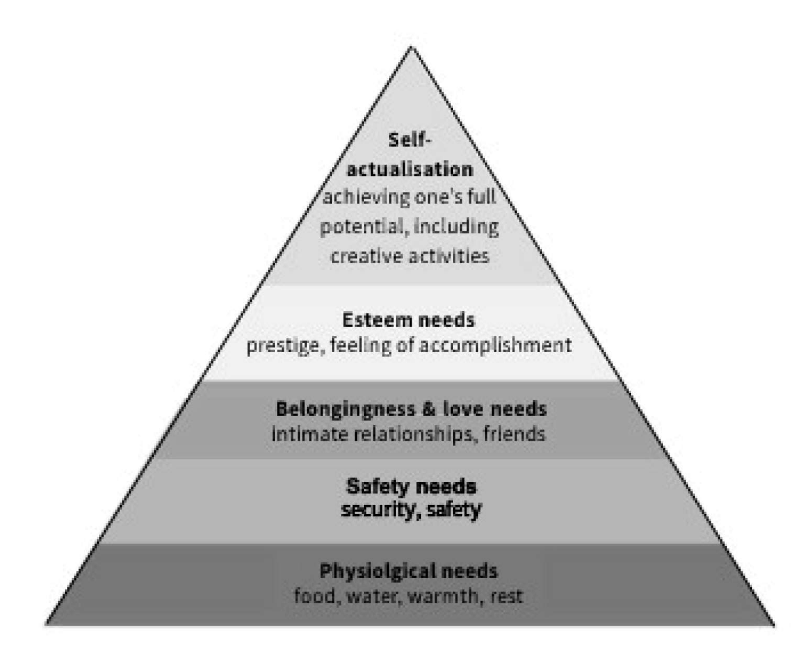

The revelation of Mars 360 essentially put the influence at bay. It's similar to a concept discovered in psychology. Josef Breuer was a physician whom Sigmund Freud studied and referenced in his research on psychoanalysis. Breuer discovered a method to eliminate neurotics symptoms, and that method was by bringing unconscious processes involved in causing the neurotic symptoms, and making the neurotic person aware of those unconscious processes. In Freud's book psychoanalysis, he credits Josef Breuer for this discovery: "he found a technique for bringing into her consciousness the unconscious experiences that carried the meaning of her symptoms, and the symptoms disappeared."

What Mars 360 infers is that one ideology of life cannot be implemented because Mars affects everyone differently. It understands that all humans are basically trying to push an agenda that will allow some freedom for their natural deficiencies, even though throughout history it's been unbeknownst. This is not to be described as a complete giving-into the Mars energy. It's just a perspective that allowance of some natural expression to reduce the tension related to constantly fighting against the natural tendency of being born under the influence will make for a more steady sense of being. Mars 360 as a system would find some resistance in what it can see as being related to it. This poses a challenge to an overt identification of Mars being fully implemented since the 6th seal describes a Mars influence that would oppose the perception and eyes of others, and therefore any semblance of being "tagged." However, overtly, makes one aware of the distinctions and how it's a necessity that everyone is allowed some expression without major consequence. This, in theory, should put some ease on the reaction to Mars's influence on others, which is often a cause for the other person's decision to completely give way to their own Mars influence.

One of the most highly regarded theories with regards to human relations seem to align somewhat with this general idea. The idea is Maslow's Hierarchy of needs. However, Maslow's hierarchy as uniform throughout society comes into conflict with how Mars affects the human condition. Abraham Maslow tried to assess that if we were given a series of different behavior that we had an option to engage in, what would predispose us to choose one behavior over the other. He then determined that our behavior was based on what our needs were at a particular point in time. From this idea, he created a classification system of the different needs of society. Even though the hierarchy doesn't line up with the nature of Mars's position in the sky, his division of it into 6 major components does line up with how the sky is divided. In his classification system, love and belonging are grouped into one, but can be split into 2 without disrupting the basic idea of the theory. In the picture, here is how he lays out society's needs.

The 6 needs are listed in Maslow's hierarchy: Physiological, Safety, Love, Belonging, Esteem, and Self actualization. In terms of the seal positions in the sky that are influenced by celestial bodies, Physiological would fall under the 3rd seal(reptilian brain), Security needs would fall under the 5th seal(motor cortex), Love would fall under the 2nd seal(temporal lobes), belonging would fall under the 1 st seal(occipital lobe), esteem would fall under the 6th seal(parietal lobe), and Self Actualization would fall under the 4th seal(frontal lobe). The nature of Mars upsets the idea of a uniform hierarchy of needs prioritized a certain way amongst all members of society. Mars, in influencing how grey matter is allocated to certain regions of the brain, would deprioritize whichever of Maslow's needs are in correlation with what is defined to be the result of brain activity in that area. For instance, Mars affecting the frontal lobes, would deprioritize Self Actualization and consider it as unimportant. If it's affecting the reptilian brain, Mars would deprioritize physiological needs of basic survival and consider that as unimportant. Mars on the temporal lobes would consider love the most unimportant. Mars essentially takes whatever defines the designated qualities that it's opposing and places them at the bottom of the hierarchy in terms of priority. However, deficits springing from the lack of intent to the basic activity would not hinder the prioritizing of some of the other needs. It must be said----in order to avoid misconceptions about Mars----that Mars, itself, is not responsible for all bad actions that take place on earth, but is responsible for consistent opposition to normal working potentials of normal brain function. In terms of how detrimental actions occur all the time, proper perspective is needed. Just as a person, who adheres to proper standards can experience the same result as someone who doesn't, people who are not influenced by Mars in a certain way, can experience the same results as someone who is, whether it's the outcome via action or the outcome via opposing action. What Mars does is speak to the traits that are on the same spectrum as the far extreme outcome of its influence. To avoid confusion, imagine how a person can become sick through his own natural behaviors and how he can become sick through no fault of his own by just by being caught up in a certain situation. Just as a risk taker can die in a car crash, a non risk taker can also die in a car crash. The differences arise in the nature of the celestial body influencing the non- risk taker who died in a car crash. So as is the case, not every planet exerts the same gravitational pull. There are many different variations of influence and each planet exerts a different kind. Some influences are in such a way that produces a positive result and others are in such a way that produces an unexpected result of sudden shock(Uranus) to the body. Binge eating is a good example. We have those who are naturally careless in what they put in their body and others who eat healthy but every once in a while go on a binge that is unexplained by their normal conduct. These occurrences infer a different celestial influence. To be clear with Mars, it should be noted that at birth and in the early life of the person, the influence is recognizable through relating how certain characteristics are on the same spectrum as more extreme characteristics with the display of those less significant characteristics on the spectrum being a signifier into what exactly a child may be at risk for.

With racism and hatred being one of the number 1 topics covered in the news as of 2019, I feel it's important to present what has been revealed regarding

Mars 360 in way that a layman can understand. On the topic of racism, Mars 360 will show how it cannot be placed in one box in terms of hatred, but can be placed within every aspect of human nature. Mars 360 will show how that perspective of racial animosity is relative to the position of Mars and is displayed relative to what defines the seal according to how Mars generates an influence. This is important because it expands the horizons of human perspective and increases their ability to perceive appropriately. Here are 6 possible placements of Mars in an astrological birthchart. It was mentioned earlier that Mars can affect 2 different parts of the brain if it is in transition from one sign to the next. For the sake of understanding the general idea, I will leave out examples of transition in these diagrams. I will stick with cut and dry placements of Mars correlating to the appropriating part of the brain. As mentioned before, both sides of the chart mean the same thing, so Mars is placed on both sides:

The zodiac signs don't have any significance because the seal position layout would be the same, no matter which birthchart is calculated. The first seal will always be at the top and the 4th seal will always be at the horizon. Starting with Mars in the 1st seal as shown on the previous page, this person can display racism in the form of face to face communication, mostly via name calling. That would be the extent of his animosity. It would not extend to those he cannot see at the moment, so he cannot be placed into a full definition of what it means to hate an entire race or group of people. His Mars hostility is relegated to the immediate environment. What Mars 360 is showing here is that a person can call someone a derogatory racial name without he himself hating what represents that entire group. With Mars in the 2nd seal, this person can display racism if what defines that other group was a part of his early upbringing, or is a part of what he has come to be familiar with. In that case, the racism won't display itself in name calling, but could manifest in physical violence. If another group is not related to his home-land or familiarity, then that group would be more valued to the person in that case. The saying "familiarity breeds contempt" holds weight here because a person influenced by this would feel less morally culpable in destroying what he feels belongs to him or is attached to him With Mars in the 3rd seal, this person may only display racial animosity if it's in some way restricting his desire to disregard matters relating to his physical health/consumption or restricting the use/movement of his body. in some way. With Mars in the 4th seal, this person will display racism toward anything not connected or attached to him in some way. This animosity manifests itself in an indirect manner. The verbal hostility targets anyone or any group not present at the moment. This person represents the typical idea of racism, but even they can accommodate another group of people if they don't perceive there to be any major cultural hostility, or if he has become familiar with them over a certain time. Even if there is hostility, he can overlook it throughout the time they are in his presence. This racism doesn't display in a direct face to face manner like it does within someone affected by Mars in the 1st seal. With Mars in the 5th seal, this person is usually ok with groups directly or indirectly as long as they don't have any sort of authority or status over him. This person can hate someone of another race if he perceives that person to have some power or authority over him. With Mars in the 6th seal, which is probably the least racist of all, a person can in fact display racism if another group or race of people try to display what defines their prevailing cultural identity as opposed to what defines the other groups' own. Cultural identity is target of the animosity related to Mars here. It's not home or upbringing because this group can live with others. They just simply cannot take on the responsibility of being identified to a certain category and then deal with negative factors that often comes along with this. As long as people don't fall into what defines their category in terms of personal identity outwardly, these people will try to accommodate anyone.

This example essentially sums up all of humanity in terms of racial outlook, which hopefully brings on a sense of humility and awareness. Of course, as stated before, there is the transition factor that can manifest in a slight combination of how one part of the brain displays certain characteristics with how another part displays certain characteristics, depending on where Mars is located. So, there are more elements than the six examples given, but for the sake of understanding, I stuck with the basics in describing Mars through each seal. We can now see how an identification system related to Mars 360 would assist in how everyone interprets the world, and thus how they react to it.

The best way to identify Mars's effect within one's life is to analyze who you are consistently able stand up to while also feeling completely justified in doing so. The way Mars 360 operates is that it gives a person courage to stand up to certain representations of life. The person, place, thing, group, or country that you're easily able to consistently place blame on is likely a hostility derived from and influenced by the position of Mars in your birth chart. That blame doesn't always have to be toward others either. Mars can cause a person to bring consistent blame upon himself. There are also situations in which the hostility arising from that certain position of Mars is actually warranted. This is where the deception occurs. The situation that deems a certain character virtuous easily gives way to beliefs that those certain behaviors are always virtuous. God can use a sinful quality for his purpose, but that doesn't change the quality itself. The sports athlete's anti-social behavior serves him well in his sporting endeavors, but can cause conflict within the social sphere. The problem with Mars is that it doesn't just shut off, even though a person can work against the influence with great effort and intent. This natural feeling related to Mars is what brings about ideologies that try to fully accommodate it, sometimes to the expense of other people that are also trying to find freedom for their own expression of Mars. This basically sums up much of the conflict in the world; this lack of awareness. What Mars 360 as a program does is make it all known. Almost every human person in life is trying to bring their existence to a point that will accommodate their Mars expression. Mars 360 would take away the upheaval that comes along with that. The United States bill of rights is the closest example of a system that tries to give people leeway for their natural expression, even though unaware of Mars's influence. Even though many aspects make up the bill of rights, everyone tends to feel more protective of some over others, which makes it all the more sensible to develop a system that will try to apply the concept accordingly in a way that involves necessity. If we go back to the layout of the seals and its correlation to the brain, the 4th seal at the horizon on both sides is identified as the area of the brain responsible for indirect speech. Mars there pulls a person away from the intent to properly engage in indirect speech, so therefore a person with Mars there will value the freedom of speech over most of the other rights because his natural lack of energy and intent to the proper way of indirect speech would be getting some expression. This quality of lacking intent to proper indirect speech may not be an issue for other people, so therefore the freedom of speech would not be of much priority in their case. However, it would be one of the other rights which sparks their self-preservation regarding their Mars expression. So basically, those who need freedom of speech will have it, and those don't won't. The equality will result when those not getting freedom of speech would get the freedom they need in something else (wherever Mars is) ..... with the person who needed the freedom of speech being ok with not having that other freedom the other person needed. This mutuality would center around how Mars influences people along with people being fully aware of it. Finding the expression for Mars gives the person a sense of comfort regarding his life. Going against the Mars influence is what causes a person to experience a great deal of discontent. Therefore, a person finds it much easier to try and get life to accommodate it in some way through an ideology that supports it. What Mars 360 does is consolidate every ideology related to Mars's influence and, through awareness, try to get everyone to understand it. It's often the case that anger and hostility can be pacified when a person totally knows exactly where the other person is coming from with regard to their behavior. Mars 360 espouses that this awareness is what will solve most conflict in the world without anyone feeling as though they have to strain themselves through life to appease the values of others. The challenge of Mars 360 would be to compartmentalize the appropriating qualities to their rightful brain function. This is something that would have to be done through connecting the dots. Mars 360 brings everyone under one understanding without having to physically unify the entire world or get everyone to worship the same God. Initially, many will not consider their own qualities to be related to Mars's influence because those qualities oftentimes seem so warranted that one cannot fathom a satanic quality to be a part of it. The seven spirits of God sent out to all the world are the normal working potentials of each part of the brain. Mars, while not an indicator of abnormal physical development, still manages to go against these normal working potentials. Indeed, there are times when the opposition qualities are necessary, which is why Mars 360 tries to create a system of accommodation, but through an awareness that pacifies hostility towards the Mars placement's natural target of antagonism. Over time, seeing how the different dynamics of the world related to Mars's influence brings about the natural system of things that humans have known to be a part of life for a long time, humans—in knowing where it comes from—will start to back off some of the conflict-ridden agendas and look for a way to avoid becoming cliche in their ways. The embarrassment of being calculable based on Mars will serve as catalyst in getting people to avoid actions that everyone would deem typical of their Mars placement. People will began to no longer see the point in starting or continuing conflict. Mars 360 would bring an end to cynicism and pave the way for observing variation in terms of outlook. People, in observation of Mars's antagonistic effect to normal outcomes of healthy brain function will also see how adherence to normal brain functions plays a role in how the world is allocated and how every group of people is given dominion over a portion of the brain to produce the healthy outcome. For example, South American indigenous have very low prevalence of mental illness. This is due to their naturally developed temporal lobes. When observing their phrenology, their heads tend to be wider than those of other groups. This indicates a magnificent development of healthy temporal lobes, along with a cultural intent to value that part of the brain. Any behaviors that undermine that will be met with cultural resistance. It's the same dominion that the Jewish people have over the frontal lobes. The orbitofrontal cortex is located just above the nose, between the eyes. That area of the brain is responsible for everything that the Jewish people have excelled at over the years. We can also see this similar development in most middle easterners. While no 2 groups will share the same dominion, 2 groups can hold dominion over aspects that are similar but at a different degree. The way things are allocated, the lesser a group(group B) is to the dominion of group A, the closer it is to the dominion of group C than group A is. That dynamic creates a dominion in itself for Group B, which only group B could own. Since Arabs are considered descendants of Ishmael, their claim on the same values of Jewish people would be scientific in nature. The fight for Palestine/Israel can likened to a conflict on the orbitofrontal cortex. Because the genes and ancestral link would be similar, the actions and values arising from that would converge in some way, and differences and outcomes would play out exactly as the brain would qualify to which degree each group is observing the part of the brain responsible for the outcome and also to the degree that each dominion is different, even if it's just slightly. Another example is the West African and their dominion over the cerebellum and brain stem which responsible for basic survival and physical movement. There are patterns emerging as it pertains to excellence in certain physical endeavors involving movement and the correlating prominent presence of the West African gene pool. In observation of how every group around the world has its values related to each part of the brain, one can understand how a person influenced by Mars would have either a difficult time adjusting to the high cultural standards related to the part of the brain that Mars opposes, or an easy time depending on whether or not the prevailing environment gives leeway to Mars's oppositionary behaviors and outcomes. In certain cultures, mental illness and violence is not a big deal, so long as adherence to social rules are exhibited. In some, laziness and poverty is not a big deal, so long as one is not engaging in reckless thoughts. In others, antisocial behavior and crime is not a problem, so long as one is not being lazy. Comprehensively, we can see how the variations can play out related to the drawbacks and acceptance of Mars's influence.

Mars 360 can be likened to fire coming to a home, not to burn it down, but to keep it warm in times of cold weather. Mars 360 is a system of peace that challenges God's notion that all things(the spirits of God) can be observed, and that sin is a result of free will. Mars 360 is something that brings peace, but in opposition to the idea of sin. It wants to accommodate this opposition force in such a way that keeps it in check. Even though the Mars 360 system is extracted from the Christian writings, it still presents a formal break with Judea/Christianity. This break can be likened to the replacement theology that came about during the times of the early Church, in which many leaders taught that the Jewish people had no place in Christianity even though the Christian Biblical Cannon is made up entirely of Jewish writings.

Mars 360 and a central database would revolve entirely around profile building of the 6 Mars placements. The Mars 360 system can build a profile of each Mars placement and then assign certain life encouragements to certain people with certain Mars placements. Those encouragements would center around endeavors in which the Mars expression would be a virtue. For instance, a person who has Mars overhead in the first seal could receive ads in the mail that may encourage him to join a competitive sport or join the police force. Maybe someone with Mars at the horizon in the frontal lobes can be sent letters encouraging them to get involved in journalism or radio. Someone with Mars on 6th seal, parietal lobes can be encouraged to join an upcoming comedy show event. In this way, society is providing outlets to the Mars expression and thus making it constructive. Someone with Mars on the temporal lobes can be sent advertisements regarding free travel. The idea would be to get the Mars expression to be an asset to the person individually and to the society as a whole. This also adds to the prospect of a global economy that would work under the influence of Mars 360. Qualifying people based on Mars would seem discriminatory, and likely to be met with resistance. However, the understanding arising from the Mars influence would make such deliberate discrimination based on Mars accepted and possible. This is where statistics and assessment comes in. The likely hood of Mars placements, amongst those successful in business, being found in the frontal lobes and occipital lobes makes it such that those features would qualify them over others for loans directed towards business development. The Mars profile could quantify the average credit score of each Mars placement. Another element to Mars 360 would be the development of refuge centers where people can get away when they feel their Mars isn't getting the expression it needs. The centers would be comprised of people with the same Mars placements also looking for refuge. The centers can revolve their mandates around the particular Mars placements and then provide services that cater to it. An example would be someone with Mars on the horizon, in feeling like their freedom of speech is being stifled, going to a center assigned to that placement to get anything off their chest without worry. Another is someone with Mars affecting their temporal lobes going to a center assigned to it and getting some peace and quiet. Someone with anti-social personality disorder can also go to their prospective center and communicate freely in a direct manner without worry. This concept would further provide some relief for Mars expression and reassure the person that society is understanding and recognizing their needs. Because Mars 360 is a system, a Mars placement that is antagonistic to systems would also be accommodated. The way the mark or indication would operate is that a person would have certain freedoms regarding its own place within the system. By effectively taking a mark, the system itself would release the person from the system, just enough so that the person won't feel as though they are a part of it .... which would, in turn, make them less likely to operate against it. Obviously these conditions are based on a mark or indication of Mars's influence, and this would only apply to that Mars placement in opposition to established systems. The other Mars types wouldn't get that particular privilege to that degree; the other Mars types would have their own privileges related to their personal Mars placement. Those whose Mars placement would antagonize a system of observation will find that they have more freedom under Mars 360 than they ever did before. The biggest challenge to Mars 360 is keeping certain Mars expressions from asserting itself as the only Mars expression that should be accommodated. This is the basis of modern day social and political conflict, though unbeknownst. There are times when the Mars expression of one type obstructs the Mars expression of another type. And in some cases, can actually provoke it, which is another aspect that the Mars 360 system tries to mitigate. Even though awareness helps within the social context, the overarching political context is still left with some unanswered questions. In terms of sovereign government using a Mars 360 system, there is still the question of how to mitigate the chance of a certain Mars type being biased to their own Mars type in terms of governing. There is still the possibility of allocating more resources to the free expression of one's own Mars type over the other Mars types. This presents the idea of a 6 party political system related strictly to each Mars placement and its free expression in order to balance out the differences. It's very important to remember that being forced to go against the grain of ones natural Mars placement is how people define their suffering. Someone with Mars on the parietal lobe will experience much suffering in having to cater to cultural standards of one's own identity. Someone with Mars at the horizon(frontal lobe) will see suffering as having to cater to the cultural standards of someone else's identity. Mars at the motor cortex would define their suffering as having to take orders from someone else. The power of Mars is so malignant that people would be willing put up with quite a bit, so long that their Mars position is getting expression. We can observe situations that seem hopeless and perilous from an outsider perspective and believe that the person in the situation is brave in deciding to continue on. However, the nature of Mars can make a person excuse other annoyances just so the Mars expression could get its way. That aspect of it is how the Mars 360 system will be able to cater to one Mars placement differently from another. The nature of prison is a good example to explain longsuffering for the sake of Mars. Prison may seem like the worst place for some people, however, those deemed institutionalized would actually prefer being there. Since the prison environment has an anti-social model, one who is afflicted by Mars to display anti-social behavior will feel natural in that environment and thus want to be there no matter how the overall detriments of being in prison would affect him.

Mars 360 is substantial enough to warrant a belief in it. Humans, themselves, only need a small amount of experience encompassing a small trend to permanently adopt a new set of beliefs. The conundrum in this Mars 360 outlook is that it would essentially save the day regarding humanity. While keeping everything else in place in terms of the current layout of the world with its distinctions and differences, Mars 360 system would divide the world into 6 types and manage the world from that perspective. The different countries, religions, economies, etc. would carry on as usual so that the anti-globalists could not have a gripe. The Mars 360 system steps in so that the conflict-shy don't have to deal with a world of nationality-based conflict. The fundamental principle of the Mars 360 system is that everyone has a right to exist and there is no need for war, however, since everyone is not the same, one principle cannot dominate another. This applies to war(with its supporters) and peace(with its supporters), both of which are considered influenced by Mars. This is why hostility toward a system that works economically, politically and socially for everyone would be met with frustration. Because Mars 360 pops up out of scriptural reference to Mars 360 and the six seals, the initial stages are likely to be met with skepticism by non believers. However, just as many in the early Church were able to extract the Bible's Jewish writings to be separate from the Jewish people, many will eventually come to observe Mars 360 as distinct from religion, even though it comes from there. Mars 360 presents us with a premise that everything just is. Another quality of the system will be its ability to predict events using Mars's location in the sky, hence being able to make fire come down from heaven. Its success in doing this will cause even more people to wonder about Mars. There would be so much intrigue regarding Mars as a result of its predictive capabilities.

Socialism would fit the system because Mars 360 monitors the human condition and keeps the population content, Capitalism will love it because it identifies the natural players in the economic playing field, Conservatism will love it because it doesn't try to place everyone in the same box, Liberalism will love it because it accommodates all types of people. Even anti-government forces will enjoy it because Mars 360 would know exactly who requires freedom from government. To add to this mania surrounding Mars 360 will be physical exploration of Mars in space. Aerospace companies will take on projects that further studies the influence of Mars on human behavior. As a result, they will attempt to send men to the planet via spacecraft. Everything in life will began to revolve around the Mars phenomenon. The key reason Mars 360 gains momentum is because of how tempting it is for humans to follow something that allows them to be themselves without judgement or being attacked.

Mars 360, in essence, would be a very liberal construct, but one that places the survival of human beings over God's decrees as opposed to today's extremism which often places God's decrees over the survival of human beings. Mars 360 would even make full concessions for human qualities that don't have this accommodating outlook. The idea is that the confrontational is operating under the same negative force as the non-confrontational. The conflict surrounding Mars 360 is thus not Man versus Man, but secular humanism(Man) versus God.

While Mars 360 mitigates war, it still accommodates those who are prone to conflict. With Mars 360 over the entire world, decrees would be made to make room for this expression of Mars ... in such a way that it doesn't interfere with the Mars expression of others. Mars 360 wants to make each person feel like the world is designed for him personally, so much that he couldn't imagine a world without it.

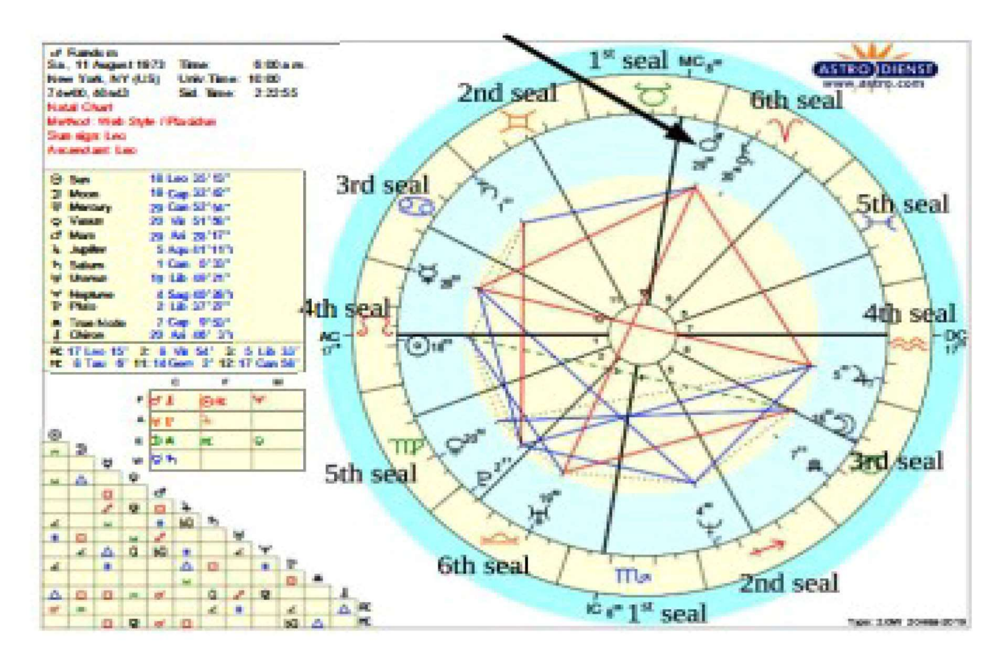

If one would define Mars 360 as a religion, it would be best described as a religion of understanding, with the understanding bringing about a more balanced state of existence for human beings. Because it's knowingly extracted from the writings of John in the Book of Revelation, the Mars 360 system will not espouse a disbelief in God, but an open scrutiny towards Him. In other words, textbook Misotheism. Mars 360 essentially seeks to find a way to protect Man from God. A way to understand exactly how the position of Mars will affect you is to calculate your astrology birthchart using western calculation and look for the placement of Mars. Make sure you correlate the sign where the ascendant is located in your chart to the 4th seal and the frontal lobes and then lay out the rest of the seals accordingly, as done in the examples previously. Also remember to leave some room for interpreting the ascendant to the next sign if it's at 24 degrees or higher. From the 24th degree mark to the 0th degree mark of the next sign for both the position of the ascendant and the positions of the planets indicates a transition that can bring about a blend of the qualities determined for the position it's leaving and the one it's going into. Here is an example.

Here is a random chart. Notice the position of Mars in the 5th seal location. The 5th seals was determined to be the motor cortex area of the brain responsible for daily work habits and submission to authority figures and also recognition of status figures. When Mars is there to oppose those qualities, it's determined that the person is naturally less inclined to perform the tasks related to that position.

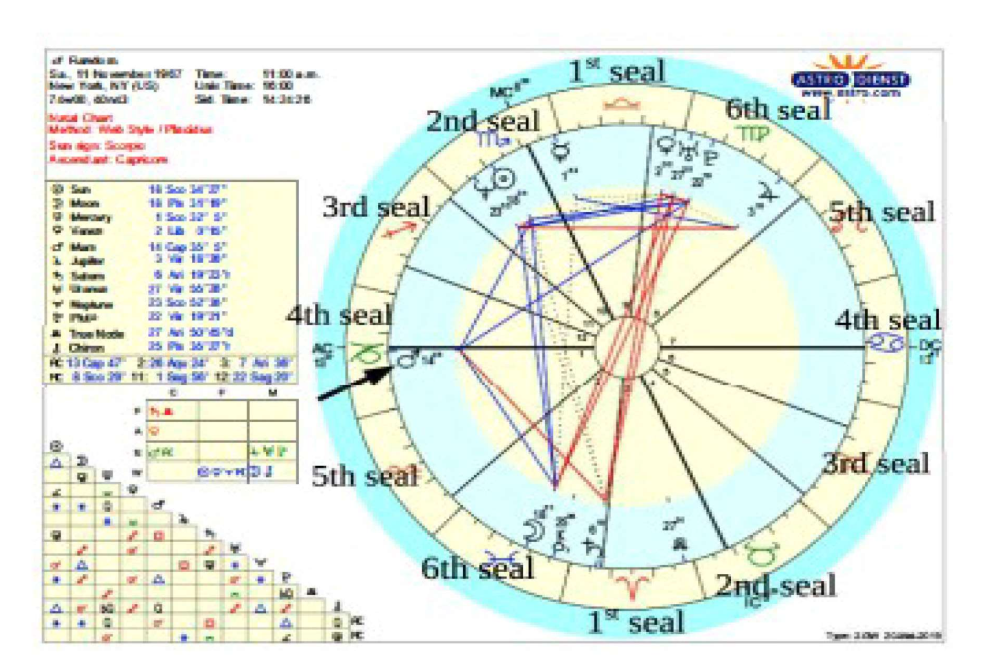

So with the Mars 360 system, concessions would began to be made for this person to have less accountability with regards to the aforementioned traits: submission to authority, daily work habits, finance priorities, etc. These privileges will only apply to his type, and the privileges given will only be applied enough so that the person can feel content enough in society without feeling the need to fully give into the Mars energy to the point of outright rebellion. Life would be set up in such a way that it keeps this person from having to deal with authority figures on a regular basis, if at all. The Mars position here would likely be indicated outwardly on the driver's license, birth certificate, or top of the head where the motor cortex is located.

Here is another random example.

In this person's chart, Mars is leaving the 6th seal and going into the 1st seal. This indicates that there is a blend of poor face to face communication along with poor rectitude/attitude issues. However with Mars at the 29th degree mark, there is a higher probability of face to face communication being the more prevalent issue. The Mars 360 system would begin implementing measures to protect this person's lack of energy towards face to face communication and proper interaction from the wrath of society. He would be marked on the birth certificate/right hand as Mars in the 1st seal and would be allowed certain privileges in life to keep him content within his natural disinclination to face to face communication. These privileges would only apply to these types. Because charity towards one's neighbor is also an issue here, these types would likely have some tax exemptions or leeway with regard to how charity is valued by the society. Because this type falls under the good track record of business ownership, these may also be given more loan and grant priority related to commerce.

In this example, the person has Mars on the 4 th seal which translates to the frontal lobes and indirect speech. The Mars 360 system would have something in place to allow this person to function as he is with the Mars influence. This position displays poor attitude to the proper aspects of indirect speech and use of words. There are also some self discipline issues with this placement. There is a natural affinity to being what society would consider as spoiled. These types would be allowed more freedom in matters of speech than others who do not have this placement. Loose opinions from this Mars type would be more tolerated than those from other Mars types. This type would also be a bit more coddled than the rest of the population in terms of their needs being met in a material and physical sense. Since there is a track record of financial excellence for this placement, 4th seal Mars would also gain priority for loan and grants related to commerce. This group would be marked between the eyes at the lower portion of the forehead. Those are some examples. This shows how it would be virtually impossible for anyone to grieve the Mars 360 system. Even people with Mars on the 2nd seal, who are naturally hostile to feeling trapped within systems, could have passport privileges and many exemptions from the system because of that. The Mars 360 system provides a measure of respect for these innate qualities in human beings. And by this respect, Mars 360 looks to serve as the calming influence on this Mars energy that been going about in the world. Another element to the Mars 360 system will be to find the triggers of Mars, meaning the circumstances that cause a person to give into the Mars opposition. This could be where eclipses fall in. With the lunar nodes being the prognosticator of an eclipse, the lunar nodes thus become the point of reference for how it operates in the day to day lives of humans. Just as Christ is sacred, this energy would have a place in a person's life in some way, and would display itself differently than the effect of Mars's influence. The lunar nodes would cause a person to look at the functions of a certain part of the brain in an almost sacred way. When we think of reverence, we often assume it applies to just religious matters. However, since God released the seven spirits throughout the world, this reverence would now apply to more than just religion. What we have in nodes of a birthchart is what humans take seriously and are cautious with. As a result, there is an element of heightened consciousness regarding it. For example, in contrast to how a person with Mars on the 4th seal would lack the intent to display caution in matters of indirect speech, the lunar node in the 4th seal would be just the opposite. The person would display all reverence and caution regarding indirect speech. Same would go for the parietal lobe and the 6th seal. The person with the lunar node in that position would be very careful in how others saw him. Hygiene, appearance, rectitude, and social status would be of the utmost importance. Whereas with Mars there, a lack of concern regarding those things would be apparent. To sum it up, it's very possible that any disruption to the proper care for those lunar node placements could trigger a Mars episode, in which the Mars energy is completely given into. Such makes it mandatory for this aspect to be included into the Mars 360 program somehow. The Mars 360 system's efficiency operates much like the new intel chips that use what's called speculative execution to improve performance. Speculative Execution is when the CPU executes the instructions for tasks the computer may do in the future. In other words, it tries to predict what the computer will do next and then carry out the instructions needed for the task before hand, so that they are lined up and ready to go when the computer needs it...... as opposed to just executing the instructions after the computer arrives at a task. The result is much faster performance. With Mars 360, the concept is similar. By being aware of how a person will respond to the world before he's given a chance to become cynical, the Mars 360 system has already implemented measures to mitigate the damage of Mars by working with the influence early in a person's life. By predicting beforehand, just like the intel chips, but in the case of Mars 360--how the person will view the world-we get a system that allows for damage control to be in place before that fact. The fact that Mars 360 applies to everyone would also remove the stigma surrounding human psychological/ social/health/ character /work/identity based inquiries.

When people's individual Mars placement becomes the totality of how society is allocated, a clearer picture of how this relates to the global economy comes into view. All the aspects of work life, as it relates to the military, the economy, and the religious sectors would have become tailored to Mars's influence in a person's life. In knowing a person's Mars placement from birth, a person can then be automatically assigned a life path that will work out for him. The Mars aspect will be so influential that the birth placement alone would be equivalent to how today's college degrees are looked upon as a factor in gaining employment. Imagine reading the job advertisements in the newspaper and then seeing a requirement for people to have certain Mars placements. Imagine a Military or Police force that recruits almost strictly on the basis of Mars. Even Comedy and scantily clad entertainment can use this standard. Banking could have it to where they seek only those with Mars at the horizon on the 4th seal. Media can also require people to have Mars on the 4th seal. All of this adds up to making everyone useful to society in their most natural way, but strictly according to Mars. Another example is Mars on the 2nd seal being a military requirement. These are examples to help us see how Mars makes a case for the overall economy. People, in turn, would began to see how their flaws are now economically viable talents that lead to gains in other areas of their life. At such a point, society could be said to be encouraging Mars. Showing a birth certificate with your placement of Mars or an ID with your placement of Mars would be just as good as what today's college degrees and PhDs are for getting employment. Even those whose Mars placement would deter them from regular employment could be accommodated appropriately. The whole world, under Mars 360, would engage in this open, but accepted discrimination based on Mars position. A person would realize that removing the advantages for one Mars placement effectively removes it for another and for one's own. This realization would serve as a way in getting people to continuously accept it. In today's world, we have a scattered mix with regard to Mars's influence and how it translates to either success or failure in life. Some are fortunate to be in a position where their Mars is a virtue for them and others - the opposite. The Mars 360 system changes that. Every person would be allowed the chance to have their Mars serve as a virtue. It would be of such magnitude that a certain Mars placement being in his/her proper element would override a training or schooling certificate required upon being accepted into the endeavor. In that scenario, concessions would be made for the Mars person to attain such things after being employed. Much of the economy would rely on the Mars central database to compartmentalize the careers best suited for each Mars placement. In terms of controlling the buying and selling, one can conclude that an employment system based on Mars would also translate to controlling the ability to buy and sell, even in a general sense. If one is denied employment because they won't indicate their Mars placement, then that person would, as a result, have a hard time getting money. They would be left having to find a way to access money outside of the Mars 360 system.

The United States gained a favorable reputation as the land of the free. Its allowance of certain freedoms is what makes people want to live there. A country using Mars 360 would be similar, but take it a step further by giving an explanation as to why the freedoms exist--which in its case would be because of Mars's influence on humanity. Just as the bill of rights in the US, a Mars 360 country wouldn't necessarily be a license to take those freedoms to the extreme. There would be some limits on how far one can go. The equality would be based on the degree to which the freedoms can be expressed. Meaning the allowance of the freedom of speech based on Mars's influence could not exceed the allowance of the freedom of thought or belief based on Mars's influence, while at the same time, the free speech person wouldn't have the allowance of free thought that the free thought person has, and the free thought person wouldn't have the allowance of the free speech that the free speech person has. The equality would be the degree to which one is allowed to give into the Mars influence as it relates to its position in the birth chart and its influence on the corresponding part of the brain. For instance, a person who is abusing his free speech can give rise to a free thought person doing the same thing, but with their thoughts. That's how equality would be defined in a Mars 360 system. The degree that someone is allowed to be lazy is the degree that someone is allowed to be anti-social. Keeping this degree-limit to a healthy level and equally ascribed to all people is how the Mars 360 system will persist. The limit will be based on keeping the level tolerable for the person exhibiting them and the rest of society in observation of it. The awareness of Mars itself should help with the understanding required for each person's freedom in being accommodated by the rest of society. Mars 360's observation of Mars influence gives each person some freedom in going past the normal threshold allotted to the rest of society not influenced by Mars in the same way that they are, but a limit in how far past that normal threshold they can go. This limit would apply equally across the board.

Mars 360 as a social system also relates to its value as a military system. By effectively using Mars placements to allocate military personal to appropriate environments that would entail sort of a virtue signaling for Mars, allows for a harmonious outlook regarding military expenditure. Each placement of Mars would infer an advantage to some extent, depending on the duty. For instance, since Mars in the first seal represents a lack of energy toward proper face to face communication, duties involving direct unfiltered commands would be carried out without hesitation. This placement infers an advantage for drill sergeants and ground leadership where constant blunt interaction is required in order drive home a command. By making this a requirement for a command-giving position, administration would be ensured of orders being given without hesitancy or fear on the part of the person giving them. Mars in the second seal provides an advantage for aspects of the military that involves the use of hostile force. This placements gives an advantage to those who have to carry out orders that involve the unrestrained neutralization of an enemy target, along with the ensured survival of the personnel carrying out the mission. Because of a natural restlessness that this placement brings about, this placement makes well for foreign missions involving lots of variety and movement. This would likely be the standard ideal placement for general infantry assignments. Mars in the third seal has an advantage since Mars places a lack of energy on personal survival instinct regarding one's own health. Therefore this placements infers an advantage for dangerous missions where the outcome regarding one own health would also provide some protection to other soldiers if their duty requires it. This placement is the standard for what constitutes a War hero. Mars in the 4th seal would not be perfectly suited for combat duty, but would be standard for administration in support of the Military and also peacetime propaganda. This placement of Mars creates the highest form of nationalism and patriotism, even if it doesn't produce the greatest combat soldiers. All activities involving keeping morale high would be standard for this placement and would keep a nation together in terms of its outlook. Because of the lack of fear related to indirect speech, this placement of Mars finds an advantage in gathering support against an enemy. Mars in the 5 th seal would not do well in positions under authority. From a military standpoint, this type would be disadvantaged in dealing with the authoritative aspects of the military. There may be some independent research that this type could do to serve the military in some way. However, this is usually a mark of pacifism and would be advantageous in situations needed to keep a military out of War. This placement would be the key to diplomatic solutions from a military perspective. Mars in the 6th seal would provide an advantage in terms of working out of view of others. It's important to note that this is also a pacifist outlook. Since this placement creates a social awkwardness and lack of energy toward one's appearance, this person would have an advantage in duties that are more introverted in nature. Classified information would also have a greater deal of protection. All military scientific research that requires hours of private study would be of an advantage to the person influenced by Mars here. The technological cutting edge approach to garnering military advantage via hours of study would be standard for Mars in the 6th seal. In this manner, Mars in the 6th seal becomes a major asset to the Military. Important to note that this placement is not a war advocator even though it can perform the necessary research. Under Mars 360, this allocation of the human condition to its rightful element can be correlated to how the Geneva convention decides the rules of war. A full expression of this human condition gives everyone a sense of freedom regarding how they feel the world should be. Under Mars 360, Mars's expression of pacifism would have the same right to exist as the Mars expression of conflict. This is how Mars 360 defines peace. It's important to remember that Mars 360 is trying to get every single person on Earth to feel that the world understands him. In achieving this, and allowing a certain level of expression, it prevents the oftentimes overwhelming backlash when the pendulum has swung for too long in one direction. A good analogy is how the federal reserve is designed to protect the market from black swan events, unforeseen circumstances causing disruption in the market, by controlling interest rates according to where they feel the market may be headed. The presence of a Military according to Mars 360 wouldn't necessitate to War, nor would it necessitate to Capitulation. It will, however, be conducive to full human harmony because everyone would understand that the source(Mars) which drives conflict-acceptance is the same source that drives conflict-avoidance. There is a certain balanced to be striked here which will make all parties very happy. It also provides cheques and balances within the military industrial complex between conflict advocates and peace advocates, as opposed to peace advocates operating outside and against the military sphere. This allows for resolution to trickle down to the rest of society. With an education program that distinguishes for Mars placement, one is left with a uniform element regarding preparing for society and being militarily prepared in a way that is compatible with everyone's Mars placement. Military involvement doesn't equate to war in this case. There is a certain sensitivity to the nature of Mars that needs to be maintained in order to stabilize the health of human perspective. A diplomacy first mandate allows for that particular Mars expression of conflict-avoidance to operate alongside the realm of conflict-acceptance and the military industrial complex.

Repetition is often necessary to drive home a point. The official definition of Mars 360 is that the entire human race is made up of 6 types of values regardless of race, religion, creed, economic status, gender, etc. Those 6 values relate to the hierarchy of needs laid out by Abraham Maslow which are Physiological, Safety, Love, Belonging, Esteem, and Self Actualization. Within each of these needs are related behaviors that correlate to how each of these needs are valued. Meaning, that the value of one need would display in variety of positive behaviors that relate to the value of that specific need. The location of the Planet Mars in a birth chart is what pulls a person away from the energy required to adhere fully to one of those specific needs. Humans have been determined to seek accommodation for this lack of energy to adhere to a certain need by espousing different political, economic, and religious ideologies that would justify it. The birthchart is defined within the realm of the 7 seals and not as it is in traditional astrology. The seventh seal is assigned to represent the circular aspect of reading a birth chart, while the first 6 are correlated to a specific need of Maslow, and are laid out in a specific order. This order goes as follows: The first seal at the top, which correlates to Maslow's belonging need, and face to face communication along with all other related behaviors. The second seal going counter clock wise from the first, which correlates to Maslow's love needs, and mental thoughts, along with all other related behaviors. The third seal going counter clockwise from the second, correlates to Maslow's Physiological needs, and physical health with all other related behaviors The fourth seal going counter clockwise from the third and at the Horizon of a birth chart, correlates to Maslow's Self Actualization need, and indirect speech and the unseen(God within us) along with all other related behaviors. The fifth seal going counter clockwise from the fourth, represents Maslow's safety needs(financial, housing, work), and authority figures (God outside of us) along with all other related behaviors. The sixth seal going counter clockwise from the fifth, represents Maslow's Esteem needs, and our appearances as it relates to our individual face, facial expressions, visibility, hair, skin, nails, and DNA along with all other related behaviors. From that point everything repeats on the other side of the birthchart. The seals in Revelation is an explanation of what Mars does when opposing each of these needs to its climax. The Mars 360 system is an attempt to control this energy by providing accommodation for the lack of energy to adhere to a specific need, which naturally occurs when Mars is found in a certain place in a birth chart. This is done to curb one's desire to over-propagate ideologies in order to accommodate this Mars expression and it's also done to curb ones desire to do it at the expense of other Mars expressions. The ideal result is for one Mars type to be content enough in his Mars expression to allow for other Mars types to exist in society. Going back to the topic of Socialism, one can say in this sense that Mars 360 becomes a socialistic model without being a socialistic model. Because it's calculated at birth, Mars provides some insight into the future behavior of a person, and allows society to accommodate before the person has a chance to fully give into the energy. The social demarcation aspect of it looks at all the behaviors correlated to a specific need and the negative qualities displayed which come from Mars's influence, and tries to provide a standard of interaction that is required for proper accommodation of Mars energy. Through curriculum, each Mars type would have an education on how to deal with other Mars types. This would also apply to the Law. Each law would have certain enforcement parameters for different Mars types. By splitting the human race into 6 values that are opposed by Mars, the ideologies that normally divide people and nations would now only be seen within the framework of Mars. Meaning, a person's actions won't be seen in the context of how they occur with regard to race, religion, creed, financial, etc., but only with regard to Mars's influence, should it apply. People, in their actions, opinions, and behaviors would automatically be relegated to Mars influence before anything else, with the appropriating Mars type correlating not to race, religion, creed, gender, etc., but to the scores of different races, creeds, religions, and gender of all the people that fall under that same Mars type. A rabble rouser defending birds would be classified in the same context as a rabble rouser defending mice with each one's rabble rouser mentality being credited to a specific Mars influence, and thus leaving all the non rabble rousing birds and mice out of the rabble rouser's context. The Mars 360 system, as a predictor of human behavior, would seek to have itself implemented in a way so that the social demarcation aspect can make for an understanding society. While Mars 360 is understood as biblically extracted, its point of view is built on life being made up of certain types of energies and not of "sin" as defined in the Bible. Anyone going along with the Mars 360 system in order to have their Mars qualities accommodated by society would be separating themselves from the Judeo/Christian view of free will, sin, and atonement.

In terms of non-belief, Mars 360 also provides conflict for the humanist who genuinely considers themselves in the best interest of humanity. It causes them to make a final decision regarding a belief in God. Reason being is that Mars 360 ultimately represents a decision between a full love of humanity or a full love of God. Curriculum of Mars 360 provides a host of angles, from social perspectives, individual perspectives, and also political perspectives. Social upheaval examples would be cited to draw some theories on how the use of Mars 360 could have prevented certain outcomes. In teaching scenarios, the are a number of ways to go. An example would be having students write a paper on how the use of Mars 360 could have prevented the French Revolution, or the rise of Nazism. This can be narrowed all the way down to individual case studies that address how individuals affected could have benefitted from the psychological factors of Mars 360. There are scenarios that can involve group dynamics related to peer pressure and close relationships. There are also ways to revolve the curriculum around situations in which Mars may or may not have applied. Students can be challenged to theorize on ways for Mars 360 to be provided with more outlets, while ruminating on the challenges of one Mars type having to accommodate other Mars types. Writing papers on how Mars 360 might lead to discrimination issues could be a significant challenge for those concentrating on sociology. Another lesson is further expounding on answers regarding how Mars 360 solves the divide between Capitalism and Socialism, Conservativism and Liberalism without one feeling impeded by the other. The field of Economics can cover how job requirements related to one's Mars placement helps or hurts the overall economy. Behavioral Science can quantify why Mars 360 is a better predictor of human behavior than other indicators. Philosophy majors can ponder on ideas regarding whether or not the Mars phenomenon is real or subjective. Another significant aspect of Mars is the voluntary sacrifice of a need it naturally opposes and how this sacrifice can be regarded with goodwill instead of contention due to how that sacrifice plays into the cohesion of different Mars types. One of the major accomplishments of Mars 360 would be getting each individual to feel as though the world is allowing him to exist as he is, with any infraction --- related to surrendering too much to the Mars influence --- being fully comprehended by the offender. Because he would have had to be aware that society fully understood him, he would no longer be able express himself in the name of being Mars restricted. The academic world would conference on the Mars 360 exemption process, where certain Mars types would have certain exemptions from having to participate in certain activities due to Mars's handicap. This would apply to taxes, work, school, travel, dress, social, law, diet, etc. Social services from government entities would revolve around catering to the Mars influence. These social services would be provided in the form of paying less taxes for some, easy passport registration and frequent flyer miles for others, boss-less job placement for those who require it, solo work accommodation, time alone vouchers, cultural replacement, independent learning, diet and exercise exemptions(a Mars affected person would have a legal right to be left alone with regard to diet and exercise. He could have those in violation arrested). All of these would be strictly based on where Mars shows up in a person's birthchart and how much its expression is being restricted by one's circumstances. The compartmentalization aspect regarding the Mars 360 system would lead to numerous debates on its application. Each person would be automatically determined at birth to be lacking the necessary to energy to apply oneself to certain aspects of life. This would constitute a disorder, but only one of energy. The Mars influence doesn't seem to manifest in a physical reduction related to the body part identified to bring about certain values and behaviors. While not affecting the components in a mechanical sense, it does however reduce the energy required to get those otherwise healthy components to operate sufficiently. The compartmentalization aspect tries to place all the related behaviors into its proper category so that society can see how things relate. The Mars effect on human behavior inclines each individual toward certain predispositions that lend itself to fundamental outlooks which carries with it... a high degree of inflexibility. This inflexibility plays itself out in various political and social stances like socialism, pacifism, capitalism, liberalism, conservatism, libertarianism, etc, but is actually the result of Mars's permanent influence on the human brain. This gives rise to the idea that while certain stances are different in external display, they are at the same time fundamentally backed by the same source(to varying degrees of course)....which is Mars. This is how this system would work.

----Mars opposes all of these things and has a lack of energy to engage in any of the behaviors above---

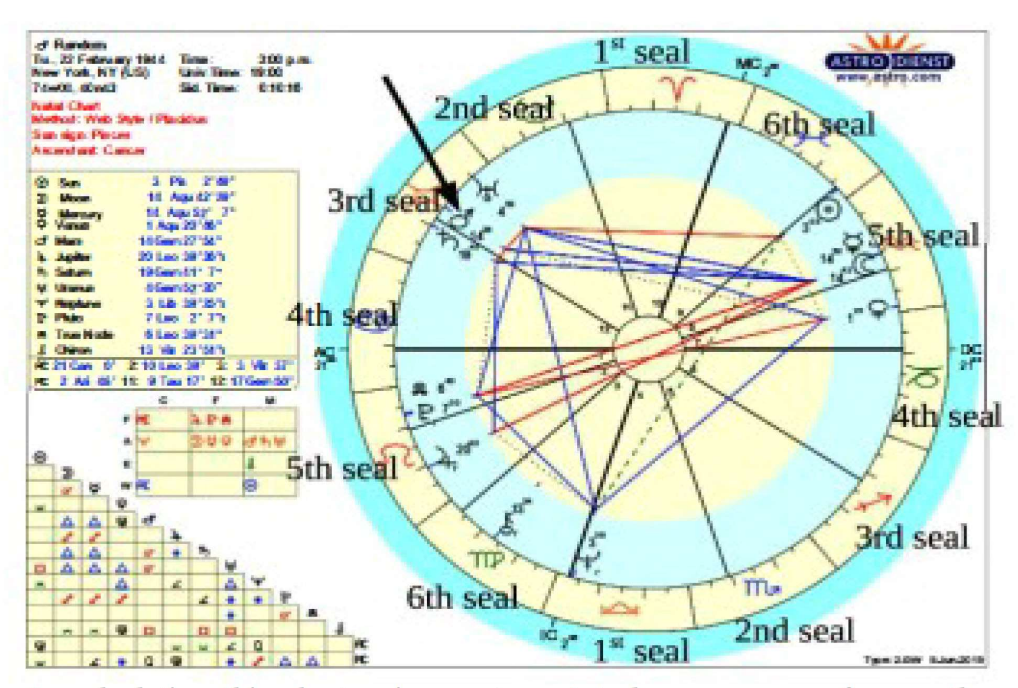

In calculating this chart using western Astrology, we can reference the description of each seal from "Figure 1d", and then apply it to this random chart. In the above chart, we find Mars in the 1st seal. (arrow is pointing to it) So in going back to "Figure 1d", its determined for the 1st seal to represent immediate environment, co-workers, neighbors, face to face direct communication, and the right hand. With Mars here we interpret this position as a natural inborn hostility and lack of energy toward neighbors, co-workers, and face to face communication. Therefore, this person is categorized for that placement and conferred for all the services designated to deal with that placement. Throughout this person's life, he will be entitled to leniency with regard to working with other people, and face to face communication. Mandates will be passed so that this person doesn't have to over-exert himself in situations involving the careful handling of co-workers, neighbors, siblings, and face to face communication. These types would be marked as having capitalist conservative leanings[with "Mars-1" on the ID card]

In calculating this chart using western Astrology, we can reference the description of each seal in "Figure 1d", and then apply it to this random chart. In the above chart, we find Mars in the 2nd seal. (arrow is pointing to it) So in going back to Figure 1d, its determined for the 2nd seal to represent homeland, home government, spouse, one's own children, rest, and listening. With Mars here we interpret this position as a natural inborn hostility and lack of energy towards homeland, home government, spouse, one's own children, rest, and listening. Therefore, this person is categorized for that placement and conferred for all the services designated to deal with that placement. Throughout this person's life, he will be entitled to leniency with regard to dealing with homeland, home government, religion, spouse, one's own children, and listening. Mandates will be passed so that this person doesn't have to over-exert himself in situations involving the extended and methodical valuing of those things. An example of the mandates issued to serve this placement would be passport privileges, time away from family not being full grounds for penalization in divorce court, longer recess hours for inmates, extended time away from classroom learning, and quiet time in places of work designated by law, roaming privileges in one's homeland. Free thought/belief would also be applied here. These types would be marked as having anti-government conservative leanings[with "Mars-2" on the ID card].

In calculating this chart using western Astrology, we can reference the description of each seal in "Figure 1d", and then apply it to this random chart. In the above chart, we find Mars in the 3rd seal. (arrow is pointing to it) So in going back to Figure 1d, its determined for the 3rd seal to represent physical bodily maintenance/safety, exercise, diet, sex and physical attractiveness. With Mars here we interpret this position as a natural inborn hostility and lack of energy towards physical bodily maintenance, exercise, diet, sex, and physical attractiveness. Therefore, this person is categorized for that placement and conferred for all the services designated to deal with that placement. Throughout this person's life, he will be entitled to leniency with regard to dealing with physical bodily maintenance, exercise, diet, sex and physical attractiveness. Mandates will be passed so that this person doesn't have to over-exert himself in situations involving the extended and methodical valuing of those things. An example of the mandates issued to serve this placement would be the person being given less restriction on what he/she can put inside his/her own body. Laws making it illegal to be forced or intimidated into diet and exercise to lose weight would be considered. More leniency regarding pleasure seeking opportunities, such as the ones involving recreational drug use and consensual non-harmful sexual freedom. Bisexuality would get some protection. Also, rights to a sedentary lifestyle will be highlighted here. Because the physical body and its maintenance is tied to being sheltered or in a safe physical dwelling, freedom from having to be stuck at home or stuck at a geographical location would be granted to these types. These types would be marked as having Libertarian leanings and anti-government sentiments[with "Mars-3" on the ID card].

In calculating this chart using western Astrology, we can reference the description of each seal in "Figure 1d", and then apply it to this random chart. In the above chart, we find Mars in the 4th seal. (arrow is pointing to it) So in going back to Figure 1d, its determined for the 4th seal to represent indirect communication, choice of words, other people's cultural standards, discipline, restraint, integrity, self denial, God within, soul, and the less fortunate. With Mars here we interpret this position as a natural inborn hostility and lack of energy towards those aforementioned. Therefore, this person is categorized for that placement and conferred for all the services designated to deal with that placement. Throughout this person's life, he will be entitled to leniency with regard to dealing with indirect communication, choice of words, other people's cultural standards, discipline, restraint, integrity, self denial, God within, soul, and the less fortunate. Mandates will be passed so that this person doesn't have to over-exert himself in situations involving the extended and methodical display of those things. An example of the mandates issued to serve this placement would be the person being allowed more freedom on matters related to indirect speech through various forms of media. Freedom of speech would be more applicable to this placement. Services would be sensitive to material ambition arising from a lack of energy to self-denial, which would lead to top priority for business loans. This placement would be granted some protection from over-exertion of cultural sensitivity regarding cultures not his own. Lies would be understood as Mars influenced and also be given a bit more leniency upon discovery. Also there would be limits on reading material as this placement points to dyslexia. These types would be marked as having nationalist conservative leanings[with "Mars-4" on the ID card].

In calculating this chart using western Astrology, we can reference the description of each seal in "Figure 1d", and then apply it to this random chart. We look for Mars, and find it in the above chart in the 5th seal. So in going back to Figure 1d, its determined for the 5th seal to represent authority figures and work. With Mars we interpret this position as a natural inborn hostility and lack of energy toward authority figures and work, so he's categorized for that placement and conferred for all the services designated to deal with that placement. Throughout this person's life, he will be entitled to leniency with regard to work under supervision and will have certain privileges when it comes to addressing status figures. These types would be marked as having Democratic Communist leanings[with "Mars-5" on the ID card].

In calculating this chart using western Astrology, we can reference the description of each seal in "Figure 1d", and then apply it to this random chart. In the above chart, we find Mars in the 6th seal. (arrow is pointing to it) So in going back to Figure 1d, its determined for the 6th seal to represent individual identity, EGO, distinct persona, DNA, regard for personal appearance, rectitude, and how others view them. With Mars here we interpret this position as a natural inborn hostility and lack of energy towards those aforementioned. Therefore, this person is categorized for that placement and conferred for all the services designated to deal with that placement. Throughout this person's life, he will be entitled to leniency with regard to dealing with individual identity, EGO, distinct persona, DNA, regard for personal appearance, rectitude, and how others view them. Mandates will be passed so that this person doesn't have to over-exert himself in situations involving the extended and methodical display of those things. An example of the mandates issued to serve this placement would be the person having less restriction on matters related to personal appearance. Extended time away from being seen would be required by law. It would be illegal to label these people in any way in terms of race, religion, creed, etc. All privacy laws would be protecting them to the fullest. Cultural identity exemptions would somehow be in effect. By law, these types would be not accountable to prevailing cultural identity standards related to their DNA and ethnicity. These types would be marked as having Democrat non-nationalist Liberal leanings[with "Mars-6" on the ID card].

Everyone on earth should fall under one of those 6 placements of Mars, either fully or partially. "Partially" depends on whether or not Mars is in the transition phase starting at the 24th degree mark of one sign and going into the 0th degree mark of the next sign. That period usually indicates a blend of the previous seal with the next seal. In that case, the Mars characteristics favored would be a decider on how to approach the subject regarding his Mars. Either way, every political perspective is now decreed as controlled by Mars and therefore worthy of observance and expression. Since Mars's influence is considered innate from birth with the person not having a choice on how Mars would influence them, all political ideologies arising from that are treated as a handicap by the prospective establishment. Being able to locate exactly who and how a person is affected allows mandates to be able to allocate the Mars required rights to exactly who would need them. Mars 360 as a worldwide global phenomenon would be incumbent upon any advantages garnered by its adoption being a catalyst for others to even out the playing field. Because Mars 360 essentially serves as a predictor of human behavior, its adoption would likely be welcomed by those looking to stabilize their respective region in a socioeconomic and political sense. In an economic sense, the workforce deliberately making use of this opposing force keeps the economy active and investors optimistic. With the Mars phenomenon, employers would be able to predict the tendencies of prospective employees and make decisions in the best interest of the applicant and the occupation. Mars 360 attains dominion in a worldwide sense

Mars 360 can also allocate school districts to certain Mars placements, with schools strictly being built for certain Mars types. The elementary school system in a city, town, village, etc. can have a school catered specifically for Mars in the first seal, another can have one for Mars in the second seal, and so on. This way, the child's development according to his Mars tendencies allows him to develop a less hostile worldview that isn't rooted in feeling that no one understands him. Each of these schools would take some of the clamps off of Mars's expression and thus give the school a primary element. For instance, a school dedicated to Mars in the 1 st seal, which implicates face to face communication, would allow more open communication amongst teachers and students. There would be more tolerance of the antisocial competitive behaviors than are normally restricted at other schools. Making this open to awareness would allow for those not influenced by Mars in that way to brace for such an environment. This in itself alleviates the psychological burden of dealing with what many would call bullying. A Mars second seal school would allow for movement and quiet. Field trips and quiet learning would be a major part of the curriculum. Teachers would rarely teach in this environment. After learning to read, the students could be given assignments to complete on their own with very little verbal instruction. This would be the school's way of being sensitive to the needs of this placement. With lots of freedom associated with attendance, school, and learning, the students would be able to develop a worldview that's more accommodating to their needs. There would be a floating principle that would keep this type from being confined. Meaning, this school would allow for transferrable program exercises that would permit the students to spend time at other Mars schools. There would also be a free thought or non thought aspect related to schooling here, meaning these types are not even required to believe in the Mars theory. A Mars third seal school would be sensitive to the needs of their students in a way that relates to consumption. While the curriculum would be normal in a contemporary sense as far as rules, the freedom of expression would display in food and drink choices. There would be little dietary restrictions with all meals being focused on the taste and quality, and not so much the health aspects. Students would have a variety of options on their meals and also have a say on the menu program. Everything thing else related to the school would be standard. There would also be some freedom of bodily use in terms of seating, standing, or laying down during class hours. A Mars fourth seal school would be sensitive to the needs of students in a way that relates to kinship and commonality. Since Mars in the 4th seal speaks to nationalism, these schools would be catered those sentiments. The importance of ethnic cultural development will be highlighted here with diversity being restricted to an extensive degree. Free speech would be mandated at these schools with all opinions allowed to be taught and expressed by teachers and students alike. Reading material would be limited as this placement automatically infers dyslexia. All students would feel a commonality within their environment based on race, religion, creed, etc. There would be a form of racial discrimination at these schools so that the Mars expression needing kinship and commonality can be acknowledged. These particular Mars schools related to the 4 th seal, while being the same in terms of ministering to that placement, would be each comprised of a specific group. A Mars fifth seal school would be sensitive to the needs of the students in a way that relates to their lack of energy regarding taking direct orders from authority figures. This school would allow for students to decide their own way to learn. Also teachers would have no intrinsic authority over the students. The hiring process would be organized by the students and the teacher's tenure there would also be decided by the students. This allows for an anti-authority figure perspective to be properly ministered to. A Mars sixth seal school would cater to the needs of its students by focusing on diversity with an environment that allows for introversion. The school environment would have it so that interaction is limited and spaces are properly allocated for individual privacy. Diversity mandates would allow for a Mars expression to be free from any identity constraints as far as race, religion, creed, etc. There would be strict rules on eye contact as students would be required to display less of it. In class, teachers would not be allowed to randomly call on students to answer a question. Each school would have to adhere to education requirements that obligate curriculum to make students aware of other Mars schools and also aware of why the other schools advocate different ideas from their own. Explaining how Mars is the culprit prepares the students for the social aspects related to public life, in which all types of Mars placements would be in their presence. Specifying schools for certain Mars types in early education gives students a better grasp of how social dynamics come about in later schooling. A major issue that could arise in this would be children not displaying the qualities related to their Mars type. Such anomalies would have to be addressed. In that case, there would obviously be a contingency plan to deal with this and would likely revolve around re-indicating a person's Mars type to the appropriate one .... albeit only if it can be resolved to potential mistakes made in the original drafting of the birth certificate. Overtime, this type of schooling would solidify in the minds of children that Mars is the culprit of many behaviors they deem incompatible with their own. Therefore, as a result, the humans displaying them cannot be held accountable unless its expression is the result of a deliberate giving way to it.

The second seal types would be an exception to this mental confirmation due to free thought requirements ... as stated earlier. Schooling would teach its students on how to deal with the other Mars types, with those same students providing teachers with valuable information for how others from other Mars schools could deal with their Mars type. Schools can encourage students to sign up for degree programs that make use of this energy and prepare students to make use of it in an economically efficient way. While there would be facets of the economy that wouldn't require schooling to make use of that Mars energy, other facets of the economy would make use of a tangible skill in tandem with that Mars energy. A major breakthrough for Mars and academia will be the correlation between Mars at the 4th seal and cases of dyslexia. Dyslexia is defined as a difficulty to interpret written words. It usually displays itself as deficiencies in reading comprehension, spelling, writing, and math. It was noted earlier that the 4th seal represents the frontal lobe of the brain, specifically the lower frontal lobe, with Mars's position there being the catalyst to a reduction of gray matter in that area. The reason that this would line up with scientific data regarding dyslexics and gray matter is because a study conducted by Backes W1, Vuurman E, Wennekes R, Spronk P, Wuisman M, van Engelshoven J, Jolles J from the Department of Radiology at Maastricht University Hospital in the Netherlands in 2002 found that dyslexics have less grey matter in the frontal lobe regions than non-dyslexics, specifically when it comes to phonologic processing, which the ability to see or hear a word and break it down to discrete sounds, and then associate each sound with the letters that make up the word. The general consensus is that dyslexia is a deficiency in phonologic processing. Phonologic processing is basically the working memory's ability to store words long enough to be processed and used. It's what allows a person to follow along with a sentence. Problems with this cause words to fade away before the brain can process the meaning. Since Mars displays itself in a lack of energy to engage in certain activities, dyslexia arising from that influence would not indicate anatomical issues regarding the brain, but a natural lack of intent and energy to use working memory. In 2018, researchers at the University of Connecticut found that a child's reading ability can be predicted according to gray matter volume in the prefrontal cortex. Their work, which was published in journal PLOS One, showed that after 3 years of following kindergarteners with and without a family history of reading difficulty while doing MRI brain scans and reading comprehension tests during that timeframe, the researchers were able to find that the kindergarteners with more gray matter in their dorsolateral prefrontal cortex had better reading comprehension than their peers in third grade. This indicates that this behavior is predictable. A follow up to such test could be to see which kids had Mars near the horizons/ 4th seal of their birth astrology charts. If the ones who had less gray matter in their prefrontal cortex after 3 years also had a prevalence of Mars near the horizons/ 4th seals, then the theory regarding Mars's influence on grey matter would be scientifically qualified. Other brain issues can be corelated to Mars's location. When it comes to Alzheimer's and ADHD, which are deficiencies with learning, memory, and emotion, scientist have discovered that a lack of grey matter in the hippocampus and the caudate nucleus are key identifiers for those deficiencies. It was determined that the second seal relates to the temporal lobes, which is where the hippocampus is located. In observing Mars's location there, one can correlate that to a lack of intent and energy to learning, memory, and emotion. However, with the caudate nucleus being part of a different system from the hippocampus but having similar functions, one would have to posit that the hippocampus and the caudate nucleus should be reclassified into the same system in order to reconcile ADHD to being influenced by Mars in that second seal. It also important to make a distinction between dyslexia cases amongst those with Mars in the 2 nd seal and those with Mars in the 4th seal. Dyslexia cases of those with Mars in the 2nd seal would relate moreso to problems with auditory processing than to problems with processing written words. When it comes to laziness .... in 2015, the University of Oxford did a study of apathetic and motivated people and their brain's response to an offer to do work for a reward. They found, ironically, that the apathetic types had more activity in the motor cortex than those more industrious types upon accepting an offer to work for a reward. The reason that was gathered for such an outcome was that the brains of apathetic people have to work harder in order to prepare themselves to make an effort, and because of that, the energy required evidenced itself in the brain scans. The motor cortex is responsible for planned movements. Since this function is slow in apathetic types, it justifies relating this to a certain antagonism to being forced to do something. The fifth seal relates to work and authority figures. Mars there causes a lack of energy and intent to engage in those activities. Because it was a test, and the normally apathetic type had to go against the grain of his natural quality with regards to apathy, the results showed a higher activity in the motor cortex for the lazy types. To confirm a lack of grey matter in that region being related to Mars, one would have to test for it before an actual activity of industrious work would take place. Another disorder is the autism spectrum disorder, which correlates to the antisocial aspects covered in this writing. Its symptoms are related to difficulties in communication, social interaction, compulsive behaviors. It was determined that the first seal relates to face to face communication and the occipital lobe. Antisocial personality disorder is resolved to a problem with the occipital lobe based on the fact that 50 percent of children with autism, a personality disorder with difficulties in communication, have strabismus or crossed eyes, which is a condition that arises from problems within the visual cortex, which is part of the occipital lobe. In 1999, Dr. Melvin Kaplan, the founder of The Center for Visual Management and prominent developmental/behavioral optometrist, author and researcher, found in his study that 50 percent of children with autism had a strabismus. In Dr. Kaplan's book, Seeing through New Eyes: Changing the Lives of Children with Autism, Asperger Syndrome and Other Developmental Disabilities through Vision Therapy, he finds a connection between children with development disorders like Autism and problems in the visual cortex. Because the occipital lobe is responsible for how we perceive our environment, deficits of energy related to that perception, would display itself in improper interaction with that environment. In a 2010 study done by the University of Illinois on the grey matter volume in patients with strabismus and those without it, researchers found that the strabismus group has less volume of grey matter in the occipital eye field(which is in the occipital lobe) than the group who did not have the disorder. This study was done in 2010 by Xiaohe Yan, Xiaoming Lin, Qifeng Wang, Yuanchao Zhang, Yingming Chen, Shaojie Song, Tianzi Jiang and it was entitled "Dorsal Visual Pathway

These research findings help us understand Mars's influence on grey matter when positioned in the first seals and how linking that with the occipital lobe affirms the lack of energy related to face to face communication. There has been studies that link some sex offenses with autism, such as the offenses related to child pornography and inappropriate sexual contact. Teens with autism spectrum disorder often display sexual behaviors in public due to a lack of regard to perceive social cues. "A previous study by 't Hart-Kerkhoffs et al. (2009b) screened JSOsGuvenile sex offenders) for the symptoms of an ASD using a parent-report questionnaire and found that JSOs display significantly more symptoms of ASDs than healthy controls." - Sexuality and Autistic-Like Symptoms in Juvenile Sex Offenders: A Follow-Up After 8 Years by M. Ewoud Baarsma, Cyril Boonmann, Lisette A. 't Hart- Kerkhoffs, Hanneke de Graaf, Theo A. H. Doreleijers, Robert R. J. M. Vermeiren, and Lucres M. C. Jansen J Autism Dev Disord. 2016; 46: 2679-2691. Published online 2016 May 18. doi: 10.1007/s10803-016- 2805-6. PMCID:PMC4938848. The findings related to autism and its link to sexual offenses have not been substantiated in terms of predatory or violent behavior. The possible link between Child pornography and autism seems to be the major topic of concern for researchers. When speaking about the topic, it's important to differentiate between fondling, sexual intercourse, child pornography, and child abuse, all of which may not be intercorrelated. In transitioning to the subject of sexual perversion, researchers have found that extended pornography use, not to be confused with someone who may view child pornography, is related to less grey matter in a region of the brain called the striatum which is located in the basil ganglia, which is associated with the brain stem. An article by the Huffington post, written by Macrina Cooper White, in which she cites a research publication published in 2013- 2014 in JAMA Psychiatry journals, it mentions a German research study done on brain activity during pornography use and found that a higher usage of pornography led to a lower volume of grey matter in the right caudate of the striatum. They also found that heavy porn users had a weaker connection between the striatum and the prefrontal cortex, a dysfunction which has been found to correlate with drug use and behavioral choices with little regard for possible negative outcome. That study was titled Brain Structure and Functional Connectivity Associated With Pornography Consumption The Brain on Porn, and written by Simone Kiihn, PhD1; Jiirgen Gallinat, PhD2,3. JAMA Psychiatry. 2014;71(7):827-834. doi:10.1001/jamapsychiatry.2014.93 This study aligns with the definition of Mars's placement on the 3rd seal and the brain stem/cerebellum area of the brain, which has been determined to cause issues related to sexual perversion and pleasure seeking. Earlier it mentioned that autism is linked to Mars in the 1st seal. Since the 6th seal is directly next to the 1st seal as shown in a chart with the seal layout of Revelation, we have some perspective that supports the argument that Asperger's syndrome may have distinction from full autism. While today, asperger's is considered on the spectrum of autistic disorders, only less severe, studies have shown that asperger's may deserve a class of its own. In terms of the seals, it would be easy to interconnect asperger's and autism into the same class, especially with respect to the concept of transition points in the astrochart that indicate a blend of 2 distinct definitions.

That diagram shows us how the two are distinct but when Mars reaches the transition point between the 6th seal and 1 st seal, both qualities of Asperger's and Autism can start to blend together. Mars 360 would hold asperger's as being related to difficulties in dealing with perception and communication given to us from other people with Autism being related to dealing with perception and communication that we give to others. This dynamic shows us why these 2 perspectives are often intercorrelated with each other as one problem relating to the Autism spectrum. With Mars 360 we can keep the 2 related, and also separate. Because a great number of comedians and scantily clad actresses have Mars in the 6th seal which is related to the perception given to us by others, Asperger's must be assigned to a lack of energy to care for how that might affect them. Therefore improper public behaviors which is assigned to the Autism spectrum disorders must lean moreso toward the side of Asperger's syndrome. This improper public behavior because of its lack of regard to the eyes of others, must also be related to introversion's resistance to properly cater to accepted standards for how one is suppose to be seen. Introversion, defined in that manner, would be easily assigned to asperger's. The introversion related to Autism must be related to a frustration with the lack of energy to properly give perception and communication to others in a socially acceptable way, and not so much to dealing with attention received by others, which would be the problem from asperger's sufferers. A blend of the 2 as a result of Mars's transition would warrant another title so that further clarity is provided. It's important to reiterate that when studying the Mars phenomenon, the investigation into extreme behaviors must be from the perspective of worst case scenario, and not from the perspective of a generalized definition of Mars in a certain seal. While Mars brings about some resistance to carrying out socially accepted behaviors and also displaying socially acceptable characteristics, it does not infer a complete giving way to Mars energy. While certain qualities are related, the trajectory of those qualities which point to more sinister qualities at the extreme end don't implicate every case of Mars in terms of probability of reaching that extreme. For instance, loose opinions would be related nationalism, which would be related to racism, which would be related to genocide, however every case of Mars would not infer loose opinions to a probable future case of genocide. The probably would lie in the fact that certain behaviors are linked to another, without that certain behavior being a factor in the chances of that person devolving into the related behaviors on the further end of the trajectory. Domestic violence is linked to terrorism, but domestic violence itself is not a determinant of someone becoming a terrorist later on. It just defines that behaviors associated with domestic violence would manifest in terrorism if that energy that causes domestic violence is allowed to gamer more influence. While that Mars influence would make the probability that such a person, moreso than people with other Mars influences, might engage in some form of terror, it doesn't decide for that particular person to have a higher probability of giving into the Mars energy more than other Mars types. When it comes to child abuse, it's important not to designate a propensity to one domain due to the fact that child abuse can manifest in many ways. Fondling, which is an improper use of the hands doesn't necessitate to full violence, and intercourse doesn't warrant the same context as viewing material online or through other mediums. Therefore each seal position could relate to child abuse in some manner should Mars be given a full grip. Since the 1st seal is determined to relate to the occipital lobe and right hand, excessive Mars influence could infer crimes against children which are related to fondling or any improper use of the hands. Since the 2nd seal Mars relates to the temporal lobes and emotion, excessive Mars influence there could infer crimes against children that manifest as violence against one's own children. Since the 3rd seal Mars relates to the brain stem and cerebellum, excessive Mars influence there can result in crimes against children that result in full intercourse due to the pleasure seeking aspect of that Mars position. Since the 4th seal Mars relates to the frontal lobes, crimes against children here upon excessive Mars influence could display in actual physical violence due to Mars's influence bringing about a hostile view of what is less powerful. Since the 5th seal Mars relates to the motor cortex and work, crimes against children upon excessive Mars influence here could be related to some form of neglect. Since Mars in the 6th seal relates to the parietal lobe and our appearance to others, crimes against children here upon excessive Mars influence could relate to some form of exposure.

What a Mars curriculum does is change our approach to teaching. Whereas today--students are approached with optimism about who they could be in the future, which is a perspective that allows for educators, parents, and teachers to rest on their laurels with regard to the child's developing sense of value in the world--under Mars 360, children would be approached with a certain sense of pessimism, which would allow for a more cautious and meticulous program of educating. As a result, Mars 360's ultimate goal for children is realized by making each one feel as if the world completely understands him for who he is with all his drawbacks. This is a reason why schools would be entirely dedicated to the acceptance of these drawbacks related to Mars. The idea, as stated numerous times, is to keep the child from feeling the need to fully give into the Mars energy as a response to a non-understanding world. Such would keep the culminations of evil from presenting itself and inflicting widespread damage on the world. An analogy to that outlook is how we often find that those we strongly disagree with often succumb to listening to the other's point of view when that person feels the other point of view--he disagrees with--has taken into account and fully understood his own point of view. The fruits of this would display itself in all aspects of life, from relationships to social interaction to politics and economics. The stigmas and shame related to Mars tendencies would slowly fade from world consciousness. The aspect of right and wrong would be replaced with "is" and the taboo status given to certain behaviors would be completely removed from the global school system and the world under Mars 360. Remnants of the old moral system of right and wrong under Judeo/Christianity will only exist in persons trying to completely overcome their own Mars tendencies or in persons allowing themselves to feel contrite regarding it. Since Mars 360 would make society adapt to those tendencies, going against the grain would have very little value. Religion, at that juncture, would be replaced with "beneficiality to the social construct" With Mars 360, deification no longer takes on an abstract tone as Mars is a real planet which has been under serious observation in recent years. Since Mars 360 coincides with the development of possible space exploration to the planet Mars, subjects like archeology would cover excavation possibilities in space as opposed to ancient sites on earth. Due to the oppositionary effect of Mars's influence on humans, current planetary space research related to Mars would look for clues on the surface of Mars that relates to this antagonistic energy. With many in aerospace engineering tinkering with the idea of bringing humans to Mars, the perspective that Mars influences people in way that's hostile to standard behavior would ultimately bring controversy and a possibility of full human meltdown in the event of a successful landing on Mars. That scenario would present the possibility of a major catastrophe if human behavior is correlated to Mars with this correlation becoming more pronounced the closer humans are to the planet.

Michel Gauquelin, who was a French statistician, set out to perform some research into astrology back in the 1950s. In his book, L'influence des astres, he discovered that a significant number of sports champions were born when Mars was either rising or culminating. He divided the astrological circle into 36 segments, and found that the position of the planet Mars in the birth charts of eminent sports champions showed up in clusters near the segments situated at the ascendant and the midheaven, and also, but slightly less prominent, at the descendant and imum coeli, which are the corresponding opposite sides of the ascendant and midheaven respectively. His findings line up with how my interpretation of Mars 360 and the six seals result in an astrological diagram that also lays out this correlation between corresponding opposite sides of the astrological circle. My view that converges and builds upon Gauquelin's is that the eminence in the sports champions he discovered to be related to Mars's influence is indeed a result of Mars's negative influence by reducing grey matter in the corresponding region of the brain but in their case, actually being a virtue in their prospective field of competitive athletics, which often draws upon the more hostile and aggressive characteristics of human nature in relation to other humans. His rising and culminating sectors would essentially be this book's 4th and 1st seals respectively. In the diagram, take note of Gauquelin's rising and culminating sectors, while he found the ascendant/midheaven sectors prominent, he did find some correlation on their corresponding opposite sides. Because of that, rising and culminating is marked on each side to help show how his plus zone theory applies and correlates with this book's assessment on Mars 360 and the six seals.

Now see how the 4th and 1st seals line up with Gauquelin's rising and culminating. We can see below that there is some convergence between the location of the 4th and 1st seals in the diagram on the next page with Gauquelin's layout..

There is obviously some delineating, a midst a further study, that could be applied here in order to further correlate the similarities between the two. This book and Gauquelin also share a notion that challenges the traditional astrological view, but nevertheless still asserts a validity of planetary influence. While Gauquelin made connections between the movements of other planets with the behavior and career performance/choices of different figures, the correlation of his Mars research in tandem with this book's exposition should divorce itself from any discourse involving his findings about other planets relating to individual human behavior and choices. An earlier chapter here already provides examples on how other planets/celestial bodies like the moon, sun, mercury, and lunar node affect the markets, but doesn't really get into how they apply at the individual human level. This is ok for now. This book uses Mars mainly in terms of how it affects the personality and characteristics of a human at an individual level, and also provides data that shows how Mars can influence events via the lunar node. Because of that, it must be insisted that the reference to Gauquelin as it pertains to any link with this exposition of Mars 360 should only be based on the Mars effect. Trying to incorporate all the planets at one time during such research would only add a certain degree of perplexity that could delay any validation of a Mars effect. While Gauquelin was a proponent of a Neo-Astrology -- building astrology from the ground up using statistical research -- this book, while supporting planetary influence on human behavior, would prefer to remain not in the entire field of astrology, but moreso in the field of what this book has covered in terms of planetary influence.

And not to undermine Gauquelin's goal of building astrology from the ground up, I would only insist that this process began with how Mars is described in this book and how that description aligns with Gauquelin's findings and how such knowledge can better mankind. Because astrology is a tradition that has been passed down from generation to generation with new outlooks coming into play and oftentimes not phasing out previous modalities, it's possible that much has been jumbled and mixed up from it's original framework. Its similar to how in language, new words come in and old words don't go out. Or how certain techniques in grammar, which were previously forbidden, are now standard with some schools of thought recognizing the alteration, and others completely unaware. We can see how this creates inconsistencies. However in terms of astrology, one can decide not to interfere with the traditions, but simply create a system from one point of view, and not just a system, but a workable one. During Gauquelin's career, he put forth a lot of time and effort in attempting to confirm a statistical significance for all the different planets, however, it was his Mars research that garnered attention from the scientific community, which was a major achievement on his part. So one can say there is a natural intrigue regarding the planet Mars that would in itself provide support for such an inquiry. Not to mention, the aerospace engineering projects involving a potential physical exploration to Mars which serve as a support mechanism. Even if these findings don't line up with astrology's traditional definitions regarding Mars's effect at certain points, this conflict bears more fruit for the entire field since there is a statistical and scientific attempt involved here that would only benefit the field as a whole. It would be easier to forgive an outdated system within a valid field, than to acknowledge any system within an un-validated one. One should also point to Gauquelin as someone who found that Mars is showing certain patterns that should warrant further study, and not simply someone who made correlation between sports champions and the location of Mars in a birthchart. There is a big picture of Mars's effect on humans that should also be applied to what Gauquelin achieved. It can be likened to seeing birds fly in a certain pattern and then tracking that pattern, but being just as intrigued by the fact that the birds are flying in a certain pattern to begin with. This outlook, analogously, allows to us to view Gauquelin not only from a data centered point of view, but also from a more generalized point of view that points to him as a pioneer in the research. Even though the spark didn't light a fire, it still sparked and nonetheless presented something to work with. The spark or stir he created should be the feint heartbeat for the writings in this book that ultimately brings the doctors back to the operating table, which is the research of the Mars effect and Mars 360 system.

The main source for quantifying Mars 360 and compartmentalizing how Mars 360 influences people comes from years of interaction on the streets of Boston, observing the astrology charts of many I have spoken to, along with their behaviors, attitudes, and beliefs and comparing that to the behaviors of people covered in the astrodatabank's collection of biographies of different people throughout history. I did this to see if any of the commonalities between all the observations could be relegated to Mars's placement in a birthchart. Years of trying to resolve the related traits to a common point led me to the conclusion that Mars does have an effect on human behavior. My system is able to foster quantifying Mars's designation to do this through hypothesizing probability, statistical significance, and also grey matter implication via lateral thinking. While every common case could not be resolved to Mars's placement in a cut and dry manner, the effort to do so led me to the deduction of the traditional astrological layout from 12 different 30 degree sectors to reading them as 6 different 30 degree sectors, which aligns similarly to how Maslow divided the values of the human condition and aligns perfectly with the seals of Revelation and the characteristics associated with each one. That allowed for a system of forced correlation between Mars, human behavior, and Mars 360, which might I add, also happened to comprehensively line up with Michel Gauquelin's research on Mars, a study that has not been officially accepted by the entire scientific community, but was the first serious scientific inquiry into Mars's influence on human behavior. When reading biographies of people and their characteristics, along with tendencies that were heavily noted and comparing their chart with other figures who were described in a similar manner, if not related to overall personality, but significant event, and finding Mars being in a similar position allowed me to draw a conclusion that Mars was a culprit in either their personality or in what they may have done. It also helped that those whom I have interacted with who allowed me to see their birthchart also had traits that lined up with some of the traits outlined in the biographies of people with a similar Mars placement. The process to make these line up is what led to the final layout of 6 different sectors as a feasible system to observe Mars's influence on human behavior in a way that will show the placement of Mars to be an inference that others with the same Mars placement would have similar characteristics. Being able to connect the dots in this case is a testimony to how lateral thinking can lead to discovering things via forcing connections, which would not have been obvious though traditional step by step logic. This (lateral thinking used to draw a conclusion) can be aligned with divine revelation in way that doesn't insult contemporary intelligence. After some time of being able to observe a Mars tendency, which is usually consistent in a person, I was able to find what other tendencies, likes, dislikes, and opinions were related directly to that position of Mars in their birthchart. This was often done by observing what I thought was Mars typical in someone and then observing related behaviors, and seeing if others who had what I would consider the same Mars characteristics also had the same related behaviors. Over time in looking at these details, I was able to gather a big picture that involved Mars's influence and the related behaviors being divided into 6 types with a blend of two types sometimes manifesting in someone when Mars is transitioning out of one sector and is in the process of going into the next. This perspective from my point of view can be likened to how certain perspectives are formed by humans going through a certain amount of experience without them having to sit down and engage in complex mathematics, but still using only those experiences to make a point that many would end up agreeing with and even finding out on their own upon going though the same experience. Even in light of detractors in that scenario, it would still be a factor for common consensus, which is often a requirement for what's considered fact or truth...even in the face of statistical significance. My credibility in a scientific manner comes not from what I hypothesize about Mars, but from what that hypothesis lines up with in terms of previous research, such as the one done by Michel Gauquelin. He published a book called "The Influence of the Stars." In it, he suggests that a statistically significant number of sports champions were born with either Mars rising or culminating.

For marriage under Mars 360, the key would not be in lowering or raising the divorce rate, but allowing for a smoother operation of making an entry point into a monogamous relationship, a smoother operation of existing within one, and a smoother operation of exiting one. By understanding the Mars expression of each member of a 1 on 1 relationship, each person would be able provide a level of freedom to the other over the course of the relationship that would allow for a better experience. We find that getting to know the other person doesn't truly begin until after the marriage when the novelty of the romance begins to wear off. It's usually at that point when each person begins to display his/her Mars traits to the other. This is where most conflict comes into play in a marriage, not because of the characteristic, but because of how it was unforeseen in the early stages of the relationship. By establishing a system that allows for such an awareness to take place before ever meeting the person, the phase of getting to know the person becomes less strenuous and less cause for marital conflict. For instance, on a dating site, people would simply declare their Mars position. Lets say Mars-1, or Mars-2 is used to indicate which seal Mars is located in their astrological birth chart. By using that information, the person would not have to inquire about the other person's Mars nature and can simply apply to his interaction with her what he learned in terms of how to deal with that particular Mars archetype. In following those rules from the get-go, he would later on find that maintaining his relationship after the romance phase has worn off is much easier and less taxing on his emotional well-being. He would also find that the other, in having done the same in response to his Mars, is also instrumental is maintaining a general sense of well-being for the overall status of the relationship.

The afterlife philosophy of Mars 360 is something that would be integral to its successful protraction. While the system allows certain freedoms according to where Mars is placed in a person's birthchart, it still leaves the question of meaning and the human need for it. While the system itself is based on the precept that society and nature must remain perpetual, the philosophy that would provide meaning should be based on an awareness that such energy cannot be fully yielded to. It's akin to how one can eat a great meal, but after eating over a certain amount, he no longer finds benefit in terms of pleasure, and could become quite sick from over consumption. The experience becomes detrimental in terms of health. This outlook is held in unison with the idea that -- and still speaking from this meal/health analogy -- that restricting the great meal is just as dangerous because it incrementally raises the chances that one's craving would build up, and thus lead to that person going on a food binge in response...which inevitably defeats the entire purpose of any previous attempt to avoid such an outcome. Likewise with Mars, the idea is to mitigate this binging risk in reaction to restriction by allowing some freedom of expression for Mars characteristics, but also keeping it outwardly discernible that the energy itself is not to be fully yielded to. Under Mars 360, concession could be made to award those who would try to challenge their own Mars energy for scientific/spiritual reasons, which brings in a unique spiritual element to life under Mars 360. Afterlife would easily center around a teaching that if in this life, one fully gives into Mars's energy, then after death, that person becomes the very energy and experiences

In a request to the scientific community concerning Mars 360, I introduce a methodology that attempts to force fit the Maslow components(which has been applied to the Mars 360 system) into the ongoing dialectic of special relativity and quantum field theory. Such a dialectic has roots in theoretical postulates which date back to a German scientist named Max Planck. Following the quantum dialectic from Max Planck to Stephen Hawking, a brief summarization of quantum theory as understood today can be presented in this Chapter. From there, the connection between that and the Mars 360 system as it pertains to Mars's influence can be forced into the Quantum Field framework.

There are 2 major paradigms of theory which encompasses the general overview of how science regards the universe and all the matter contained within it. The first paradigm is centered around the smaller/ microscopic components of our universe. This school of thought is defined under what is called Quantum field theory, which has roots in theoretical postulates put forth by Max Planck. Quantum field theory is a growing/evolving dialectic that provides us with a visual map of ideas that describe how atoms make up every aspect of our existence. Atoms comprise of electrons, protons, and neutrons. While Ernest Rutherford is credited for discovering the atom's structure, every idea which has led to and evolved from the discovery of the atom and their interactions with every particle in the universe can be traced to the scientific research of Planck. His formulation explained why the correlation between the rise of the frequency of radiation with the intensity manifests as sort of a bell curve at a certain temperature. Classical theory maintained that in a black body, the intensity of radiation should continue to climb at higher frequencies(Ultraviolet Catastrophe). Planck postulated that energy is quantized and he also visually formulated the idea of electric oscillators vibrating at an increasing intensity until thermal equilibrium is reached. This quantization of energy(energy released only in small packets) inferred that the overall energy as a function of frequency was limited by the small size of the energy packets from the vibrating oscillators, which thus explained why the intensity of radiation(or energy) began to drop at higher frequencies when a certain temperature was reached. This visual formulation of electric oscillators(along with quantized energy) would be conceptually applied to later theoretical applications seeking to make sense of light frequencies. This ultimately led to the discovery of electrons and later the entire atomic structure--an atom with a positively charged nucleus (containing protons and neutrons) with an electron revolving around the nucleus. Planck's idea of electric oscillators to explain the bell-like curve in blackbody radiation led to the formulation of how electrons make quantum jumps to different orbits in reaction to other particles.

Quantum theory posits that the existence of all the particles associated with atoms originate from a ubiquitous fluctuating quantum field. As a result, these particles are termed "quanta." This idea of an existing quantum field is where quantum theory has met obstacles in qualifying the precepts of relativity to the quantum framework -- specifically when it comes to the origin of the space-time continuum. The dialectic of applying a gravitational field has been restricted by the difficulties of conjuring up the possibility of how its quanta could contain infinite amounts of space and time. This is where the relationship between Quantum theory and General Relativity breaks down.

The Quantum Field theory can be summed up as a chain of events correlating to a sequence of scientific thought that started with German scientist Max Planck's idea regarding electric oscillators vibrating at an increasing intensity until thermal equilibrium is reached. This ultimately led to Neils Bohr being able to formulate a visual of how electrons jump into different orbits in reaction to different particles. Planck/Rutherford/Bohr make up the most significant components how science today understands the atomic structure: energy quanta, atomic nucleus, and electron jumps respectively. Combined with the postulate that the universe is made up of fluctuating quantum fields that spontaneously manifest everything that makes up the atomic structure gives us a stronger glimpse into how our visible universe exists.

Everything mentioned thus far is said to have a genesis in the Big Bang. It was then that all our current matter/energy/particles was contained and then released during the expansion following the Big Bang, which is believed to have started 13.8 billion years ago. The Big Bang itself was precipitated by another era lasting some 380,000 years. This era is called the Inflation era, which was an invisible universe containing its own ubiquitous field called the inflation field –spontaneously releasing its own quanta called inflations. Its eventual decay is what science believes gave rise to the Big Bang. And not just one Big Bang, but multiple Big Bangs and multiple universes. It’s also hypothesized that this inflation field, even after its decay, remained remnant throughout our visible universe…….although still undetected. This concept of an inflationary early universe was suggested in the 1980s by three theoretical physicists: Alan Guth, Alexei Starobinsky and Andrei Linde. Theoretically, it is maintained that this inflation field would simply exist as vacuum field that no longer emits its inflations. The era preceding the inflation era is theorized as a time where actual space and time breaks down, leaving it such that one could not measure according to the laws of space and time. This is understood as what is behind “Planck’s wall.” The other theoretical development regarding the nature of the universe is what is called the Theory of Relativity. This theory is divided into 2 fields of reference. One is General Relativity and the other is Special Relativity. Just as Max Planck is credited with jump starting Quantum Theory, Albert Einstein is credited with formulating Relativity. In contrast to the Quantum theory framework which gives credence to the smaller/more microscopic components of the universe, Relativity is appropriately associated with the larger aspects of what makes up our universe, such as the planets, space, time, the galaxy, black holes, and gravity. When it comes to Relativity, Einstein is given a much greater recognition due to the magnitude of his discoveries and predictions. Relativity can credit its continued relevance in the fields of science to postulates laid forth by Copernicus and Galileo-- postulates which confirmed that all the planets in our solar system revolved around the sun and not the other way around. Newton’s work--concerning the gravitational pull and the predictable trajectory of objects—allowed Einstein to eventually define gravity as the bending of space and time by all matter contained within the universe. This theory of gravity is challenged in 2 ways. First, as mentioned earlier, by the inability of the human mind to conjure the existence of a gravitational field emitting spontaneous bubbles containing an infinite amount of space and time. Second, by the existence of Black Holes, which suck in all matter by means of its own gravitational pull. In this formulation, all matter being sucked into the Black Hole would theoretically have to rupture space and time at some point. This creates a conundrum when it comes to the explanation of this phenomena. How does one use observation and the accepted notion of space and time to explain something outside of space and time?

It is understood that our visible universe began 13.8 billion years ago. Beyond that point, the universe was understood to be invisible, consisting of an inflation field which eventually decayed after 380,000 years, thus causing the Big Bang as all the contained matter/energy/ particles was released. Beyond the inflation era is left unquantifiable and is behind what is called Planck's wall. The Hawking-Hartle state theory postulated that behind this wall exists all possibilities that can be imagined and that these possibilities come from nothing.

In order to link dark matter and dark energy to the Mars 360 system, it would be important to try and make sense of dark matter from a quantum/relativity perspective. The inflation field, which existed for 380,000 years before the Big Bang has to be assigned as the field responsible for all things in the visible universe which are unseen and undetected. Its decay 13.8 billion years ago did not wipe out its actual existence. The remaining traces of this inflation field along with its quanta is understood as undetectable. The inflation field/big bang connection can be relegated as a macrocosm of the creative force for matter generated on Earth by minds who take an abstraction(hypothesis) and convert it to something concrete(invention). Belief itself would have been generated from the inflation field before the decay of the inflation era gave birth to the Big Bang. A belief can be defined as an abstraction since it cannot be seen or detected until it is put into words or actions. One can postulate that because the inflation field is what defines the invisible universe, any remnant of its existence in the visible universe must also be invisible and undetectable. The decay of the inflation field can be assigned to the very essence of a quantum wave collapse, where the potential of the inflation field becoming realized.... ultimately broke everything the inflation field is comprised of—invisible matter or abstractions. Note: beliefs are no longer beliefs when manifestation of it takes place in reality or our visible universe. Such an outcome destroys the components of belief, but never completely, which is why the inflations still linger in the visible universe. One can present the idea that any theories which attempt to make sense of what is behind Planck's wall can itself exist from the inflation era and only formulated into words within the boundaries of the visible universe. The limits of abstract understanding are thus confined within the inflation era. The idea of nothing is incomprehensible behind Planck's wall. Any possibilities surmised by any theory is only generated and confined to the Inflation era and within the parameters of the visible universe. Conjuring such a thought and then explaining it is an element of the Inflation/Big Bang connection. One can argue that components of the Inflation decay/Big Bang connection can contain the blueprint for understanding beyond the very realm of understanding. The strength of the Hawking-Hartle state theory shows how one can infer that probability is not an abstraction or even a concept. However, if one is to settle the discomfort arising from any notions of "something coming from nothing"(absent of cause and effect), then one must surmise the idea that "nothing" itself is "something" and therefore the idea of "nothing" can never stand alone. It essentially must always be preceded by "something." "Something" thus becomes the default original state. If "nothing" is not preceded by "something", then "nothing" can in no way be gauged or comprehended. Perhaps this draws clarity to the fundamentals of what is behind Planck's wall. The "nothing" behind Planck's wall is a "nothing" that simply cannot be comprehended, which would distinguish it from the "nothing" in the visible universe. The "nothing" in the universe would always be preceded by something, whereas the "nothing" behind Planck's wall would not and therefore be incomprehensible. This confounds any notion that would make sense of the idea that the Inflation era was precipitated by a comprehensible string of events. The question then becomes, "can the incomprehensible give rise to 'something'". If we make a rule that there is no such thing as "nothing giving rise to something", and that "only the incomprehensible can give rise to something", we can leverage for a more complete theoretical framework. "Something" now becomes the default state from where a comprehensible "nothing" can come from. The old notion of "something coming from nothing" can be replaced with "something coming from the incomprehensible". The incomprehensible can always exist. Under this concept, another field can be applied(much like the other fields) to the quantum framework. A fluctuating field of incomprehensibility can be applied to what is behind Planck's wall. However, this field cannot be known or comprehended according to a law of incomprehensibility. It also cannot be understood as something that decayed and released energy to initiate the birth of the Inflation era. The Inflation era is composed of unidentified guesses, abstractions, hypotheses, possibilities of what happened or caused the Inflation era. The eventual breakdown of these unseen forces precipitated and caused the Big Bang, which was the universe's attempt to create the incomprehensible that was behind Planck's wall....in a visible form.

Ruminating on where space and time comes from has left the scientific community unsatisfied. While theorists have tinkered with the hypothetical viewpoint that gravity can be contained within a gravitational field, the ability to quantify the corresponding existence of particles—that would theoretically contain infinite amounts of space and time—have evaded the quantum consensus. Einstein discovered that gravity is simply all matter bending space and time, creating slopes that objects essentially fall into. If we gather concepts applied in Quantum theory and then take a look back at the nature of gravity as defined by general relativity, we can draw up a possible conclusion that spacetime is made up of electrons and is therefore "matter". In Quantum theory, it is understood that humans cannot walk through walls because the electrons contained within both the human and the wall do not give way. The reaction of electrons contained within one source of matter --to the electrons contained within another– is what makes the distinction between solids, liquids, and gases. In solids in reaction to other solids, the electrons do not budge. In solids amongst liquids, electrons of the liquids give way. In solids amongst gases, electrons of the gases move out of the way completely. Einstein's theory of gravity as matter having a bending or stretching effect would be classified under the manner in which solids act upon liquids—where the electrons of the liquids would give way for the electrons of the solid. As a result, the Quantum field theory would relegate space-time as liquid and therefore allow us to designate space-time to the ubiquitous fluctuating quantum field, having it join all the other particles spontaneously generated from the field. There is no need for a gravitational field. The break that would occur within a Black Hole—as the mass and density of all the matter contained within it finally breaks through the space-time slope—would lead to the incomprehensible, which is what is left over from its decay that set the Inflation era in motion. Just as remnants of the inflation field is understood to still exist in the visible universe, remnants of the incomprehensible field can also be said to have continued existing—through both the Inflation era and the visible universe era. It has to be said again that the incomprehensible field cannot be known or theorized. Dark matter, which is understood by science as undetectable, but still acting upon space-time, is subject to the vagaries of Quantum theory. If we apply space-time as a liquid, then theoretically we could apply to dark matter the status of a solid. While a solid acting on a rubber surface, which space-time has also been likened to, can more easily infer that the correlation between matter and space-time is solid acting upon a solid, the reference to a solid acting on a liquid can outbid the aforementioned if the solid is acting on and within the liquid. A solid acting on and within the liquid can represent the slope creating relationship between matter and spacetime. Dark Matter, from a Quantum theory perspective, has to be assigned as quanta from the ubiquitous fluctuating quantum field since its relationship to space time is represented now by matter and its effect on a liquid. Mars's influence on grey matter in the brain has to be posited from the very idea of dark matter—that something can exert a gravitational effect without being recognized. Astrology is the study of planetary influence of human behavior. The fundamentals of astrology in terms of how the individual is affected is largely centered around the place, day, and time a person was born. At the time a person was born, all the stars and planets were situated in a specific order. This order is visually represented in astrology by a circular map which is divided into twelve 30 degree sectors and contains the positions of the stars and planets relative to one's position on Earth at the time of birth. All twelve 30 degree sectors correlate with the zodiac sign positions along the ecliptic plane and represents a compartmentalization of all fundamental human characteristics and tendencies. In Mars 360, the twelve 30 degree sectors are reduced to six.....with one sector and its corresponding opposite sector being interpreted as one full sector. This is how 12 sectors are interpreted as 6. All the contemporary viewpoints regarding which compartment of human experience each should contain was overhauled and replaced with the 6 components which make up Maslow's hierarchy of needs. Because of this, astrology in its contemporary dialectic, can be replaced with a more scientific theoretical based formulation. The focus in Mars 360 is Mars. It is posited that Mars, depending on its location at the time a person was born will cause a fundamental reduction of grey matter to the corresponding region of the brain, thus reducing the human's inclination to engage the full output of what that region of the brain is designated for. The resulting lack of inclination results in a reduced performance that feels natural for the affected human.

The sun is understood to be a source of Vitamin D for humans on Earth. Vitamin D is a mood elevator. It is thus not far fetched to surmise the possibility of another mass existing outside of Earth that would be able to emit something that can affect human behavior on Earth. If we take what is being hypothesized about Mars and apply it to the Vitamin D-producing sun, we can easily hypothesize that the position of the sun at the time a person was born would fundamentally affect(by way of how Vitamin D is absorbed from the sun) the area of the brain associated with the sun's position. Of course, the fetus cannot receive sunlight directly while in the womb. However, the mother can be influenced to experience a number of physiological processes that would have a direct impact on the development of the newborn. The position of the moon is linked to having an affect on the tides of the ocean. The closer the moon to the Earth, the stronger the tides would become. Since our brain is contains water, the phases of the moon has been linked to the overall psychological reactiveness of humans during a given period. A key component of what is understood about the sun's vitamin D influence and the moon's water influence must allow for a viewpoint that insinuates that whatever is emitted by the sun or the moon to directly impact the human or anything must have an ability to penetrate any earthly mass situated between what can be affected on Earth and what can affect Earth from space. If it is the case that penetration can occur, then any woman pregnant and ready to conceive can be affected by what the sun or the moon is releasing irrespective of where she is sheltered. The resulting physiological processes which take place upon human reception of Vitamin D or lunar influence can be activated in the pregnant woman, which would thus affect the child. Another perspective is that the child at birth, once extracted from the wound, can also be subject to the physiological processes.

In order to relate the influence of the stars and the planets to dark matter, one has to assume that whatever is released to facilitate transfer of the effect to humans must be able to bend space-time the same way that other matter does it. While it was understood that dark matter is a quanta that is spontaneously generated from the ubiquitous fluctuating quantum field, its invisible undetectable nature can be assigned to the transition period between the decay of the Inflation field at the end of the Inflation era and the start of the Big Bang. This leaves an option to start the visible universe at the start of the transition period between the end of an invisible universe and the start of the visible universe. It could then be understood that the transition particles contained matter that was comprised of qualities from both the inflation era and the now visible universe. It essentially took aspects of both sides but conjoined to the visible universe. This allows dark matter to be comprehended but not seen, yet nonetheless understood to operate like matter in the visible universe. It would also give dark matter the ability to penetrate mass on Earth. This would give a case to the influence of Mars on human behavior. The idea of Mars as an oppositionary force also lends to the idea of dark energy, which repulses matter such that it contributes to the increasing expansion of the universe. Conceptualizing how Mars can pull on grey matter in the brain can be put into context by comprehending the outcome arising from stars which eventually die. The core of a star is said to remain in the universe. This remaining core is called a white dwarf. It is very dense, hot, and aggressively tugs matter from the surface of a nearby orbiting star called a Red Giant. As this gravitational pull is taking place with an enormous amount of energy, gravitational waves are created and ripples travel throughout the entire universe.....altering space and time. If the energy released by the white dwarf is predicated on the color of the star, then the ripples released would translate to a dynamic between the white dwarf and the red giant as something contained during this effect. The result would open the case for Mars's unique reception of these ripples since Mars contains a red surface. The reason color is keyed in as significant is based on how our sun's heat is absorbed or reflected based on the color of the surface. White surfaces are known to reflect heat, while dark surfaces are known to absorb it. The fact that color plays a role in how heat is managed by surfaces allows us to view the color aspect regarding the surface of Mars as a significant factor which could help define the Mars 360 phenomena through the prism of Quantum theory and Relativity. "Astrology" no longer needs an official recognition. The influence of the planets on the components of Maslow's hierarchy of needs lends enough credibility to the study. This offers a trajectory that can end with the inclusion of Mars 360 into the quantum field theoretical process.

Another way to quantify Mars 360 with the aspect of quantum theory would be to alter science's current notion of gravity. Instead of an idea that spacetime is altered by matter in the universe, one can hypothesize that humans are electromagnetic and are bound to the Earth by electromagnetic attraction. At the moment, science has an under-standing that humans are electrically neutral. This, because when we try to attach a magnet to our skin, the magnet doesn't stick to us. However, with the notion that Earth is round, one has to figure out how humans located opposite earth-wise to where we are standing are not falling into the sky or into space.... at some point. If the curve generated by the Earth stretching the fabric of our universe keeps us tugged to the Earth, then one has to surmise how humans existing closer to the curve don't end up falling into the actual curve or getting squished between surface and the space-time slope. Perhaps matter's altering of space-time holds up better if the Earth would be flat. With the Earth understood as round, electromagnetism has a very strong case for the definition of gravity. First though, we would have to resolve why magnets do not stick to us. The only resolution be that magnetic attraction generated from the core of the earth-toward us-is more intense than the magnetic attraction between us humans and other objects. This would lead one to assume that the magnet that falls to the ground instead of sticking to us was prioritized to the core's electromagnetism. This doesn't infer that a magnetic attraction is nonexistent between humans and other objects. It could simply mean that the attraction is overridden by a much stronger one. As you start to position a magnet on the door of a fridge, there is distance between the surface of the fridge and the surface of the magnet where the electromagnetic attraction would emit that tugging force that causes the magnet to stick to the fridge. Now somehow the fridge's attraction to the magnet had overridden the core of the earth's attraction to the magnet—when the magnet was within that distance(or range) which generated the magnetic force to make the magnet stick to the fridge. From what I have presented, one has to assume the fridge's surface is composed of the same particles that are within our earth's core. Of course, this would mean that humans would also stick to the fridge's door. This is not the case. One has to hypothesize that the components which cause the attraction between the magnet and the fridge do not exist in the human.

There is a minimum amount of speed --which if generated—would allow something to escape the earth's gravity. This speed is 126000 mph. This dynamic is easily represented by the minimum force necessary to pull a magnet from a fridge. This also helps make sense of why a star's decaying core would eventually lead to the release of matter and energy upon its eventual death. Theoretically there would be no more electromagnetism to keep everything in tact. With this electromagnetic theory of gravity, we can keep space-time but not as something stretchable. It would have to be something solid, but easily penetrated by the electromagnetic force between two objects, causing an object to naturally and continuously try and maneuver around it as an attempt to meet the attracting force. Imagine a noseguard in American football trying to sack the quarterback but has an offensive lineman blocking his path. Notice how the noseguard has to often take a circular path while also spinning just so he can evade the offensive lineman and get to the quarterback. In quantum theory, it is understood that electrons are kept from collapsing into the nucleus by the existence of virtual pearls of light. If we reference that metaphorically to the football example, the offensive lineman would be the virtual pearls of light. This allows us to conjure up the existence of something keeping the planets from collapsing into the sun, thus causing the planets --much like the noseguard—to be left naturally having to maneuver around that something in order to meet the object of attraction(which is the core of the sun). This is an electromagnetic theory of gravity. This provides us with a gateway to a quantum theory of gravity. It allows us to simply explain the expansion of the universe by an aging and decaying electromagnetism from the every star's core. This allows attracted matter and energy to be released from such an attraction. With this postulate, we no longer need a gravitational field. This decaying electromagnetic attraction of stars can also apply to black holes, which in terms of contemporary physics, are space-time slopes at the center of the galaxy. This slope sucks in nearby matter and particles. By defining black holes through the lens of electromagnetism, we can make sense of why it was discovered that particles and matter are eventually released from black holes….after being sucked in. It would seem that, just like stars, the electromagnetism at the core of black holes would release anything confined to its attractive force – should its electromagnetism decay after a period of time. And just like stars, we can also attribute the decay of a black hole's magnetic power to an expansion of the universe. The electromagnetic force field should be visualized as a series of circular hills which expands from a center that contains a core magnetic force. Each circular hill is followed at specific intervals by another circular hill. Each circular hill encircles the previous one and are separated by a flat distance between them. The hill that encircles the core magnetic force is blocking a ball that is attracted to that magnetic force and is also causing the ball to circle the circular hill endlessly as the core magnetic force continues to attract the ball. Understanding that this magnetic force is still at work, one can imagine that if someone wanted to throw the ball over the circular hill(further away from the magnetic core) that encircles both the flat area and the hill closer to the magnetic core, one would have to throw it with enough force so that the ball goes over the hill and lands in the flat area over that hill. In this case, the attraction of the magnetic core was not broken by the velocity of the ball. The magnetic attraction was still at work since the ball would continue to simply maneuver in a circle around the circular hill blocking its path to the magnetic core's attraction...no different than it did in the previous area before it was thrown. Now imagine that over time as the magnetic core force weakens, the distance between each circular hill expands and the easier it becomes to challenge the magnetic force between the ball and the magnetic core, but the further the ball has to be thrown in order to go over the next circular hill into the next flat area. Its also important to point out that the electromagnetism would cause a faster orbit for the ball closest to it, and a slower orbit for the ball further away. Also important to mention is that each circular hill would contain holes which allow for the magnetism between the magnetic core and the ball to be generated. This all metaphorically should represent the electromagnetic force field. We can understand how when satellites are rocketed into space at 126000 mph, those satellites go into an orbit around the earth. My hypothesis is that it did not break earth's gravity, but simply had enough velocity to go over that circular hill(if you will) that is hypothesized to exist within the electromagnetic force field. The satellite then got subsequently blocked further out from the earth's magnetic core but nonetheless still attracted to it and as a result still has to maneuver around in order to try and get back closer to the magnetic core. With the earth being closer to the sun than Mars, Mars in its orbit around the sun would still contain some electromagnetic attraction toward both the core of the moon and the core of the earth. Since the moon is closer to earth than Mars, one can postulate that the moon's electromagnetic attraction to the earth would be stronger than Mars's attraction to the earth. Theoretically, planets further away from the sun than the earth is would contain a magnetic attraction to the earth that would interfere both with the human's attraction to the earth and also the earth's attraction to the sun. This feint tug on the human and the earth by way of Mars's electromagnetic attraction would be stronger than any other electromagnetic attraction the remaining outer planets would have with the humans and the earth. The nature of the orbit would also correlate to the nature of the influence. The hypothesis about Mars's influence describes how depending on where Mars's position was at the time a person was born, the corresponding lack of grey matter in the brain sector that is represented by Mars's position would cause a person to carry out –with a certain lack of energy and intention-- the tasks which are designated to the region of the brain affected. For instance, if Mars's position at the time of birth is located in a spot that corresponds to the occipital lobe, the person would be naturally inclined to display a certain lack of energy, care, or intent toward how he perceives moving objects(including humans) and how he manages face to face communication within his immediate environment. Mars 360 posits that this is the result of a gravitational magnetic pull from the planet Mars. This, as a result, would make it harder for a person to carry out such tasks with the same ease as someone as someone who is not influenced by Mars in that same manner. The person influenced by Mars differently would display a lack of care/intent/energy towards something else. Mars 360 infers that care needs to be taken in how this is held against a person, such that it may warrant a societal attempt to accommodate this influence.

With an electromagnetic outlook, we can interpret black holes as a recycle bin for matter released from dying stars. Since it is now hypothesized that both stars and black holes are generating a magnetism that is weakening over time and thus causing matter to move further away, we can surmise that the size of a black hole in relation to a star would imply that a star would lose all of its magnetic force before a black hole would. The result is that after all the matter is released as a result of the star's declining magnetism and subsequent death, the black hole's magnetic power would take over and begin pulling the released matter towards itself. The weakening magnetic power of the black hole would then cause an eventual release of the matter it sucked in to then begin expanding back into the universe away from the black hole. One can draw upon Planck's idea of electric oscillators to describe a black hole's loss and gain of magnetic power from the matter and energy it sucks in and then releases respectively. Essentially, black holes are kept alive by matter and energy released from dying stars.

The earlier reference to the idea that the electromagnetic force field that binds two things together should be visualized as containing a series of circular hills—all of which encircles the previous one along with the flat space in between—should also be considered analogous to the virtual pearls of light that keep electrons from collapsing into the nucleus. This allows us to formulate a hypothesis that the structure of the atom is a microcosm of the larger universe. This makes it so that the pearls of light in the atomic structure(as described in contemporary quantum mechanics) can be used to describe the star/planetary structure. In the star planetary structure, these virtual pearls of light(analogously speaking) could have a concrete way of being explained due to the existence of the sun's light.

It may be possible for quantum field theory to become more independent of the ideas of relativity. For instance, Einstein's idea of time dilation, which fosters a concept describing how the further and faster we move away from earth, the faster the time on earth ticks relative to our position moving further away from the earth's clock. While one second on our watch would remain one second, the one second on our watch would start to equal two seconds on earth's watch, with the difference between our watch and earth's watch continuously expanding. Incrementally, as we move further away from earth's clock, one second on our watch starts equal three seconds on earth's clock, and then four, and then five, etc...as we continue to move away. An alternative notion that can be applied to this phenomena takes into account the orbit of the earth around the sun. If we are moving away from earth but always in view of the earth's clock, then we would have to increase our speed around the sun in order to maintain that respective field of view since the further we would get away from the sun, the further we would have to travel in order to make one revolution around the sun. So to stay in view of the earth's clock, we would have to attain more speed than what the earth uses for completing one revolution around the sun (in one earth year) in order for us to stay in direct view of the earth as we get further away. But in that case, one second should always equate with one second on earth's clock. If our movement away from earth is devoid of any orbit around the sun, then such a test could not be carried out because the earth's notion of time as it relates to the clock is directly correlated to its movement around the sun. Therefore, measuring in this way would make it obvious that one second for something not covering any space in terms of orbit would lag behind something that moves in the span of one second. If time dilation is related to a measurement where the speed of orbit is the same and one year equates to one revolution around the sun, then the difference in time becomes a matter of geometry. Imagine a track and field with a thousand lanes and two runners preparing to race around the track. One runner is in the first and innermost lane, while the other runner is directly horizontal to the first runner, but is set to start the race in the furthermost lane, the 1000th lane. Imagine the finish line being the marker that metaphorically represent the finish of one day. If both runners start running the race at the same time and at the same speed, the runner in the innermost lane will reach the finish line/1 day marker first. If one then applies the notion of seconds around every lane, to where each lane would have the same total amount marked on the track of what constitutes one second, one can expect the seconds marked off in the first innermost lane to be smaller in distance than the seconds marked off in the outer lanes. The total intervals of space on the track between where one second would start and end would be smaller in distance in the inner lane if each lane applies at equidistant intervals—filling an entire lap around the track—the same amount of seconds as the other lanes. When taking orbit into account, what constitutes time naturally expands as one goes to an outer orbit, but yet doesn't change or alter our notion of time as it exists from the place from which we came. If we leave earth, but yet maintain earth's notion of one year as earth orbits the sun, we are forced to stretch the intervals comprising the seconds and hours within a day to make it fit earth's notion of one day because our orbit becomes much greater in distance than earth's orbit around the sun....the further we get away. However, if we continuously maintain a speed which allows us to complete an orbit around the sun in the same time which it takes the earth, we can keep earth's notion of time and also expect the time on earth to remain the same as our time— no matter how far we get away from the earth. According to french physicist Paul Langevin, in reference to Einstein's theory of relativity concerning time dilation, if a traveler who was sent in a rocket on a six month round trip away from earth at 99 percent of the speed of light, everyone who stayed on earth would orbit the sun 50 times during the time the traveler is traveling on the rocket. This means according to Einstein, that the traveler's experience of 6 months on the rocket would equate to an experience of 50 years for anyone on earth. One can detract and presume that the traveler's experience of 6 months on the rocket ship would match the same 6 months that the people left on earth would experience. Since the traveler is moving at the speed of light at a straight path away from from earth and making a 6 month round trip, the rules of time on his watch ultimately will equal the rules of time on earth's watch. Because the rate at which the standard concerning the amount of total seconds in six months (based on the number of seconds in half a revolution of the earth around the sun) would have to be increased at each longer orbit around the sun that arises from getting further away from the earth. This would be canceled out by the rate it would have to be decreased upon each closer orbit around the sun that arises when moving closer to the earth when the traveler would be on his way back to earth. Half an orbit of the earth around the sun is 6 months. Half an orbit round the sun would take longer the further you would move away from the earth. The traveler is traveling through these incrementally further orbits at light speed. Because of that, in 3 month's time when the traveler gets to the farthest point away from the earth —according to the parameters of his trip—he would be on an orbit where half a distance around the sun would now comprise of significantly more seconds than the time it takes earth to go half a distance around the sun. Because he is moving at light speed and essentially flying through the larger orbit(without actually staying within any orbital path), only the meaning of one second(relative to how long it would take earth to orbit the sun) changes on his watch from an earth person's perspective. The traveler is not on any one orbital path long enough for someone on earth to experience the difference in seconds between his orbit and earth's orbit. Because of that, the traveler ultimately returns in 6 months from the earth person's perspective. From my perspective on earth, during the 6 months time I watch the traveler leave earth on a straight path at light speed, I am only seeing the meaning of (the traveler's) one second change as he gets further away from the earth. Since I know he is not stopping to complete any further away orbital path around the sun, but blasting at light speed through every change in what would comprise —in seconds—half a revolution around the sun, I can expect that he would return in 6 months. If the intervals of time between seconds (when regarding light speed) depends on the orbital path position, meaning light speed theoretically slows down as seconds on earth have to be stretched for every further and thus larger orbit in order that the time interval between seconds there(making up one revolution around the sun) would match the total seconds comprising an earth revolution around the sun, then I would expect a longer wait as one second on each further-out orbital path around the sun would equal increasingly more earth seconds.

Here is how Mars within 30 degrees of the lunar node has negatively affected investors throughout the years. Data going back to 1896 shows that as of April 2020, percentage-wise, the Dow Jones rose 857%. When Mars was within 30 degrees of the lunar node since 1896, the Dow rose 136%. When Mars was not within 30 degrees of the lunar node, the Dow rose 721%. Mars retrograde phases during the time Mars was within 30 degrees of the lunar node was not counted in that data as Mars being within 30 degrees of the lunar node. I'm hypothesizing that the Federal Reserve can set interest rates based on the movements of the planet Mars. Here is an overview comparison of the actual Dow Jones annual percentage returns versus the Dow Jones annual percentage returns that exclude the days that Mars was within 30 degrees of the lunar node. A book called "The Mars Hypothesis" goes into more depth on this data.
